Back in 1962, W. T. Woodson High School opened its doors for the first time, welcoming 1700 students from the overcrowding at local high schools. Students enjoyed special privileges such as an open campus and six period days, a smoking lounge and free parking.

Just imagine a Woodson without an auditorium, without Fair City Mall and Pickett Shopping Center, and with half of the current student body population. Now, nearly half a century later, as we enter this new millennium, time has brought about many changes: in the 1960's, Woodson added on an auditorium and graduated its first senior class;

in the 1970's Woodson dedicated the stadium to Pat Cunningham for his support in acquiring stadium lights and was hit by a tornado for the first time; in the 1980's, students were required to remain on campus during lunch due to the increasing volume of traffic in the Woodson area; and in the 1990's, Woodson has seen the introduction of block scheduling, the naming of Red Jenkins' Gymnasium, and the broadcasting of a weekly Morning Show which was brought about by the influx of technological advancements. And now four decades later, we ponder Where Time Went.

While we would all like to say that the times have changed throughout the many years Woodson has been established, tradition in essence has never failed to unite the students walking the halls of our school year after year. From 1964 to 1999, the many generations of Woodson Cavaliers have spent countless hours indulging in conventional high school activities.

They have marched down Pickett Road with the Homecoming parade, they have spent long nights cramming before finals with their friends. They have enthusiastically cheered Woodson athletes through the victories and the losses, they have primped themselves for prom, they have gone through the very same lunch lines for decades, and in the end they all threw their caps and went their separate ways. For years to come, generations will follow this legacy and they themselves will wonder Where Time Went.

Where Time Went

"The charm of history and its enigmatic lesson consist in the fact that, from age to age, nothing changes and yet everything is completely different."

-- Aldus Huxley

Where Time Went

"Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful citizens can change the world. Indeed, it's the only thing that ever has."

-Margaret Mead

As you walked through the halls of our school, you saw a facility well used by the thirty-seven classes of students who have attended Woodson. The stairs were grooved, the walls were coated with layers of different colored paint, and the glass trophy cases brimmed over with countless awards.

The only reminder of Woodson's past as a dairy farm was the small white house in front of the school. Once known as the "Woodson House," it now serves as the county maintenance office.

The original football stadium seated only 5,000 patrons. After the stadium was rebuilt to seat 15,000 people, it was named after the first athletic director, Patrick J. Cunningham.

The next time you drive down Route 236 and see the small "Woodson House," remember and ponder how both you and W.T. Woodson have changed. Stop and recall Where Time Went.

As the time passed and the days went on, life at Woodson stayed in motion. From relaxing on summer days to dancing the night away at school *dances to bonding at lock-ins, students cherished time with their friends. From band concerts such as Tiny Tots to chorus performances such as Dessert on Broadway to drama productions such as Into the Woods, students displayed their talents for the Woodson community. From class competitions to pep rallies, students demonstrated their school spirit. And when the buses pulled out of the parking lot at 9525 Main Street and the sun set behind Pat Cunningham stadium, Woodson students and staff wondered Where Time Went.

graduation and prom

June 1999 Presenting Mr. Tim Hudenburg with the senior class gift, Class of '99 Senator Justin Soloman thanks him for all his hard work and dedication to the class. Hudenburg served as the Class of '99 sponsor along with Ms. Megan Dobson.

June 1999 Posing for a group picture, Brett Roper, Theresa Jewell, Joshua Hicks, Madeline Breen, Daniel Kogan, Susanna Emerson, Robin Schmal, Susan Lloyd, and Paul Sargianis smile enthusiastically. The average cost of prom dresses was $200.

June 1999 Stepping out of a limousine, graduate Aimee Boyce looks primed and ready for prom. The Ballroom at the Hyatt Hotel catered to the Woodson Prom.

Sharing a laugh, graduates Sarah Koplelovich and Lora Shogi enjoy themselves at the dance. Most students arrived at the Dulles Hyatt around 9:00 and stayed until it was over around 12:00. Afterwards, many students attended after prom parties at friend's houses.

June 1999 Entering the gymnasium of Robinson Secondary, graduates Matthew Kralovec and Stephen Krebs lead in the rest of the graduation class of 1999. A total of 417 students graduated on June 22, 1999.

During the presentation of gifts, Class President Lindsey Firestone thanks Dr. Gary Miller for all he did for her class as well as Woodson High School. The 1998-1999 school year marked the end of Miller's career at WTW as he announced his retirement towards the end of the school year.

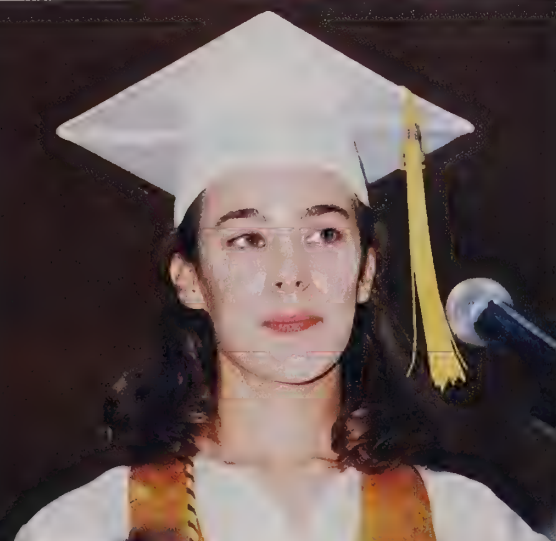

June 1999 As proud prom king and queen, graduates Yoon Kim and Heather Deatley wear their royal gear. There were fifty nominees named last year.

Receiving their awards from Dr. Miller, graduates Ian Kemp and Katherine Eckert accept the applause from the audience. A number of scholarships and awards were presented throughout the graduation ceremony in addition to the gold cords that were awarded to those students who earned a 4.0 GPA or higher all four years of high school.

Waiting for a drink refill, graduates Daniel Klein and Gonzalo Jaldin sit by the hotel bar. Prom couples received free drinks, food, and a picture frame commemorating the 1999 Woodson Prom.

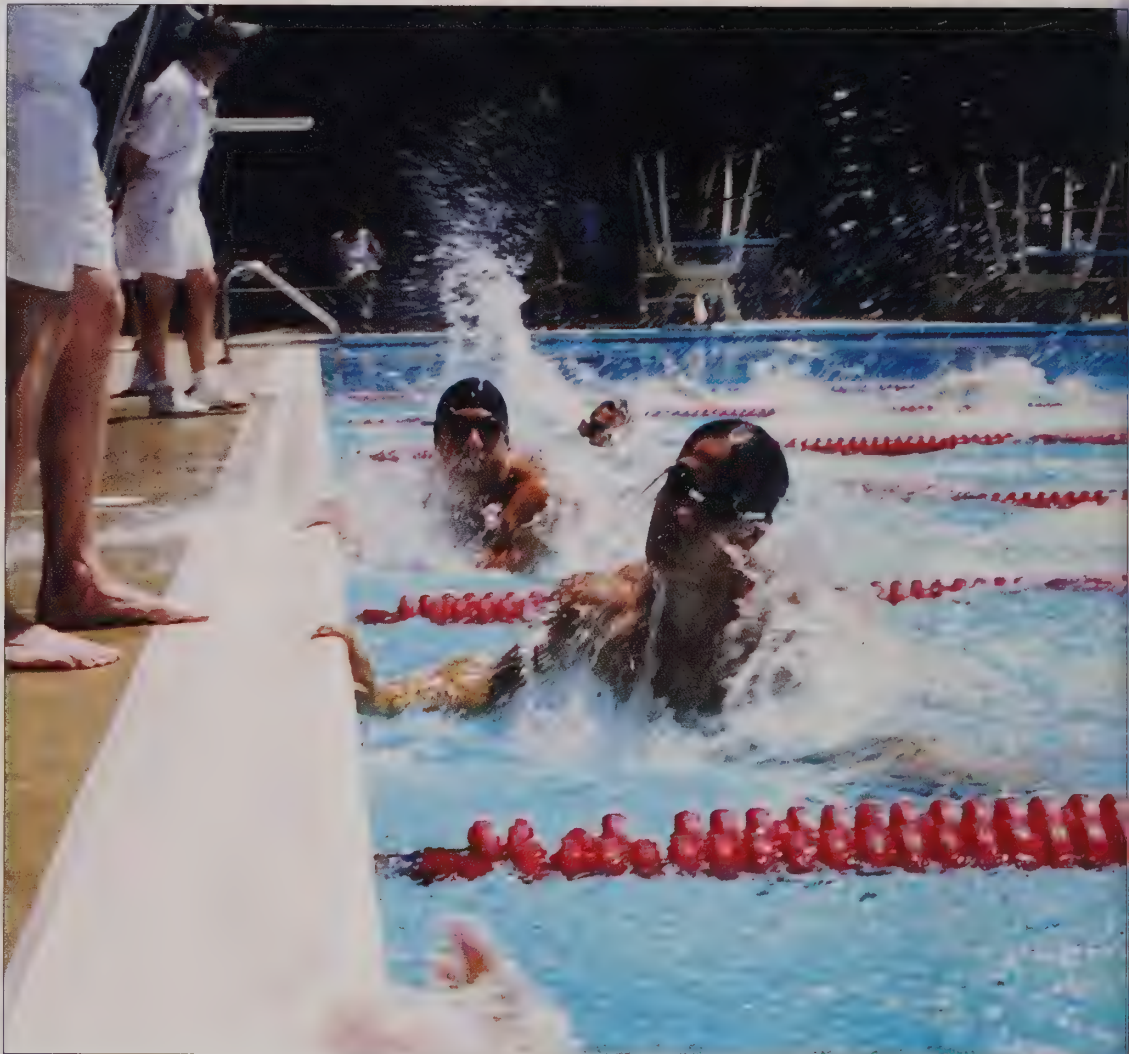

Giving her speech, valedictorian graduate Rachel Davis provides advice regarding life after high school to her fellow graduates. She was a Merit Scholarship winner and went on to attend Northwestern University in Chicago.

Crashing through the waves, junior Mary Rothlisberger rides her boogie board at the beach in the Outer Banks of North Carolina. A variety of water sports were seen around area beaches, including boogie boarding, surfing, parasailing, sailing, jet skiing, tubing, water skiing, and of course, swimming.

July 1999 Competing in the Division IV Championships held at Mantua Swim and Tennis Club at the end of July, senior Nicholas Zysk races off the wall for a strong finish in the 50 meter butterfly. Zysk competed for Rutherford Swim Club, one of one hundred and eight teams in the Northern Virginia Swim League.

Lounging on the waterfront in Cape May, freshmen Gretchen Eisenhower and Julia Rothlisberger laugh while checking out the local foliage. Some of the most popular beaches visited by Woodson students this summer included: the Outer Banks, Virginia Beach, Bethany Beach, Ocean City, Rehobeth Beach, and Cape May.

Cheering for the television camera, Woodson Leadership students hope to appear on the "Today Show." The cast filmed on the beach two miles down from where the students were staying. While they were waiting for the shoot to begin, it started to rain so half of the group returned to the hotel.

Posing for a quick picture at the end of the week at Virginia Girls State, senior Maureen Selgas attends a closing ceremony with fellow members. Selgas was part of the "Randolph Royals," a city within Girls State. The Royals wore crowns for part of the city competitions. Three girls and three boys from Woodson were chosen as representatives for the Virginia State Assemblies held during the middle of June. Later in the summer, selected Woodson seniors attended various Governor schools throughout the state.

July 1999 Having a sock 'em sword war, seniors Colette Zai and Jessica Melnicove enjoy their break from committee work during the annual leadership retreat in Nags Head. The retreat was meant to prepare the students for the upcoming school year.

July 1999 Attending the Leadership retreat in North Carolina, students challenge each other in a game of tug-of-war. Leadership students attended the retreat annually.

Aug. 1999 Adjusting her shin guards, sophomore Bridget Callahan prepares for the beginning of field hockey tryouts. All fall sports tryouts started the second week of August.

Emily Watkins

July 1999 Laughing in a fit of craziness, junior Nicole McNally tackles her friend, junior Robert Alexander at a beach house owned by a friend. Just hanging out and goofing off with friends was what most students at Woodson call a good time.

Dancing at a beach house in Whale, North Carolina, juniors Kelly Ensall and Jessica O'Byrne enjoy their summer vacation. Fortunately these two juniors left before Hurricane Floyd hit. North Carolina was not hit by many hurricanes early in the season, but in late August and early September, the whole east coast was battered by numerous torrential downpours. In September, school was even cancelled for Fairfax County due to the high winds and flash floods threatened by Hurricane Floyd.

first week of school

a new beginning

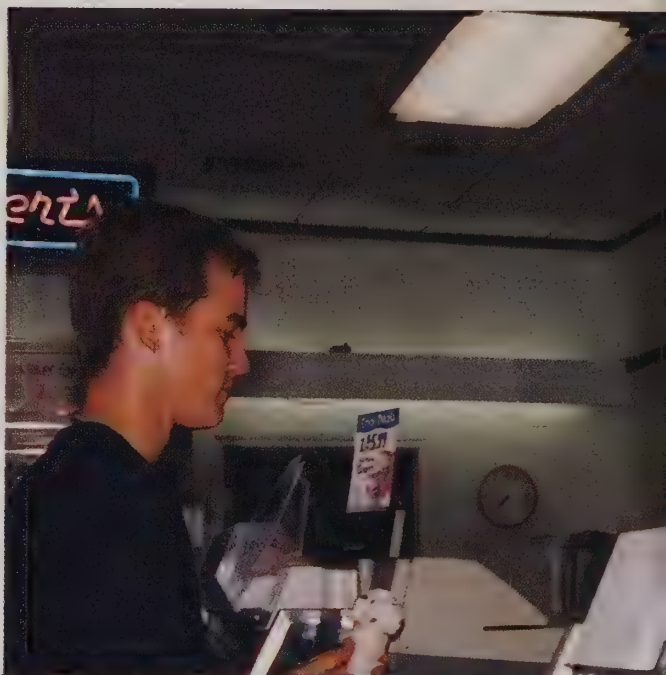

Sept. 1999 Laughing over sodas and hot dogs, Cavalry members Mr. Tim Evans, senior Patricia Kearny, and senior Jacqueline Stilwell enjoy themselves at a Cavalry tailgate party. The Cavalry held tailgate parties before every sporting event that they attended.

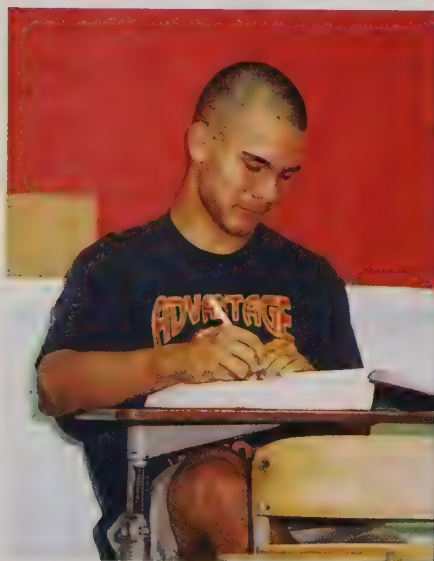

Sept. 1999 Looking over the model, sophomore Eric Vogel studies what he is trying to draw. Each art student was given a model to draw in order to show what skills they already excelled in.

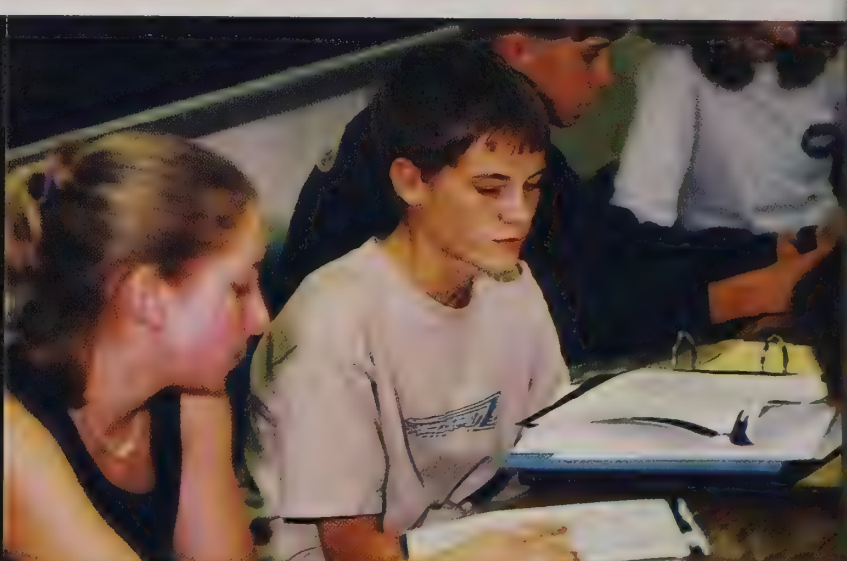

Sept. 1999 Listening to their teacher, sophomores Kellie Cowan and Laura DeSimone review what they have learned on the first day of school. Many teachers choose to start off the school year with a review of things learned in the past.

Sept. 1999 After an exciting first day of school, senior Brent Banks buys ice cream at Baskin Robbins from junior Laura Effords. During the year Baskin Robbins was a popular hangout for Woodson students.

Studying hard to start the year off well, freshman Andrew Colangelo copies down problems from his math book. After coming back from a long summer vacation, many students needed to refresh their memories, therefore many teachers allowed their students to review before starting to teach new things.

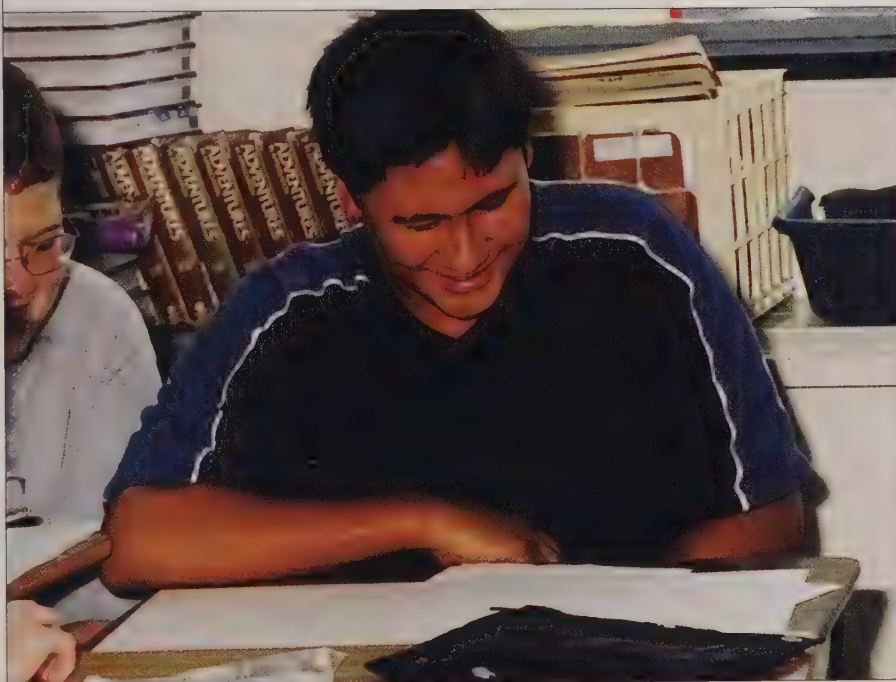

Sept. 1999 Reviewing last year's newspaper, senior Jeffrey Tate decides how this year's paper could be improved. The school's newspaper was called "the Cavalcade" this year, in accordance with tradition. Though the title remains the same every year, the layout of the paper is always new and different.

Preparing for the upcoming football game, senior Jamie Fox and junior Sarah Krebs, with assistance from other Cavalry members, fill empty soda bottles with beans for noisemakers. The Cavalry was founded in the spring of 1999 and the craze has caught on since then, their membership count expanded greatly as school spirit soared.

Sept. 1999 Enjoying his first day in English class, freshman Robert Tezano sorts through his writing portfolio. Students compile all of their past writings into one folder and at the beginning and end of each school year, they perform evaluations of their compositions.

Getting ready to start the first day of high school, freshmen Alexandra Rowe and Gretchen Eisenhower check out their new school. Many new students came to Woodson this year, to increase the population. Woodson has been opened for 37 years and has educated many famous minds such as ice skater, Michel Weiss, astronaut, Cady Coleman and Redskins football player, Andy Heck.

Eagerly reading the syllabuses for their new classes, senior Mary Bickley and sophomore David Blau discuss the curriculum for the upcoming year. Much to the students' shagrin, many of the teachers assigned summer work that needed to be turned in on the first day of school.

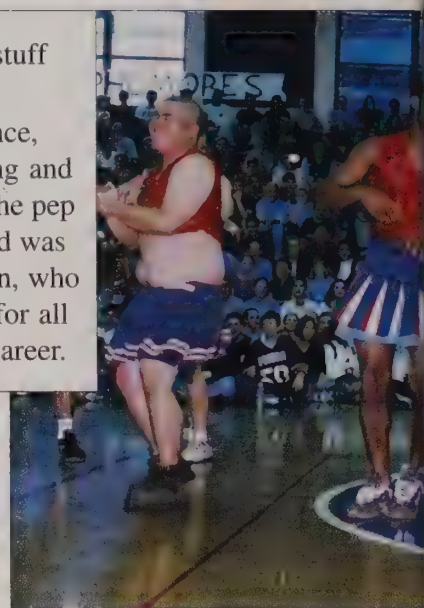

Preparing for the first art show of the year, junior Allison Wagner tells everyone what she has created. Many students have an opportunity to show their work to the school by displaying it in the library throughout the year at various art shows.

Escorted by Cady Coleman, an astronaut who attended Woodson, and senior Pamela Medlin, Mrs. Ruth Opp is led to her seat at the first pep rally. Mrs. Opp was a chemistry teacher at Woodson and inspired Coleman to become an astronaut. Both Cady Coleman and Mrs. Opp were recognized at an assembly held during second block on September 17, 1999.

Oct. 1999 Strutting their stuff for the student body, the guy cheerleaders perform their dance, which they had been practicing and rehearsing for a week before the pep rally. This year the male squad was led by senior Jonathan Newton, who has participated in this event for all four years of his high school career.

Oct. 1999 After presenting Cady Coleman with the senior class t-shirt, Coleman, senior Pamela Medlin, and senior George Jakubek do the senior cheer. Other representatives from various organizations in the school presented her with gifts as well.

Keely Clarke

Holding her homecoming carnation, senior Jill Novotny waits for the pep rally to begin. Homecoming carnations were sold in three colors: red for love, pink for secret admirer, and white for friendship. They were sold by the Keyettes for a dollar in between the cafeterias during lunches.

Picking music for the pep rally, seniors Jacqueline Stilwell, Whitney Chesbro, and sophomore Thomas Boehm make sure the male cheerleaders had the right music. The male squad was coached by the Varsity precisionettes.

John Hennessy

Introducing the seniors of the Varsity football team, captain Antonio Salinas calls up his fellow teammates as seniors Peter Nelson, Derek Weaver, Matthew Barrick, and Keith Mangan watch. The next day, the team defeated the Marshall Statesmen 21-0.

Oct. 1999 Watching the pep rally, the Varsity cheerleaders wait to perform. The team took a close fourth in districts this year, performing the same routine at Districts that they did at the pep rally.

Keely Clarke

Sept. 1999 Waiting for the pep rally to begin, the junior class wears their class t-shirts to show their Woodson pride. The t-shirts sold so well the class ran out and had to re-order more.

Oct. 1999 Dressing up as Spirit Girl and the Marshall Mascot, senior Katherine Goodwin and junior Sarah Krebs act out a skit during the Homecoming Pep Rally. This pep rally was held during seventh period, instead of the traditional pep rally during morning block.

Keely Clarke

Waiting for the pep rally to begin, seniors Allison Barnes and Stephanie Mason stand by the senior bleachers. As in the past, senior girls that participated in powder puff wore boy's football jerseys to school for the traditional Friday pep rally. Since they had loaned their jerseys to the senior powderpuff team, the varsity boys football team wore the jerseys that are usually reserved only for games.

senior lock-in

eleven to five

Oct. 1999 Arriving at the lock-in, Allison Shaffer, Erin Gibbs and Patricia Kearney decide which activity to participate in first. The senior class officers organized activities for the night along with the class sponsors Mrs. Susan Shue and Mr. Tim Evans.

Oct. 1999 Enjoying the food, Mary Fox helps herself to a slice of Papa John's cheese pizza. The senior sponsors ordered thirty pizzas from Papa John's and fifteen one-foot subs from Subway at the beginning of the night.

Oct. 1999 Standing by the ticket table, Joslyn Hemler and Keri Stedman watch as Katherine Mobley and Jacqueline Stilwell collect admission money from the seniors. Tickets to the senior lock-in were four dollars pre-sale and five dollars at the door. This year 112 students attended, bringing in around $400 dollars to help fund the senior class of 2000.

Dribbling a basketball in the main gym, Robert Cordier participates in a quick game of basketball as Whitney Chesbro walks off the court after a tiring round. Seniors enjoyed a number of activities from basketball and volleyball to team "Hide-and-Go-Seek" throughout the whole gym hallway. Meanwhile, in the wrestling room, students participated in a game of touch football while others climbed on the ropes.

Oct. 1999 Preparing for a long six hours, Lauren Pack watches Mary Virginia Thur finish her Cafe Cooler from 7-11. Many students stopped at several fast food restaurants including McDonalds, Subway, and Wendy's before coming to the lock-in. After the doors closed at midnight, the seniors were not allowed to leave until 5:00 am without a note from their parents.

Stopping to grab a bite to eat in the health room, Brent Banks and Colette Zai talk about the football game played earlier that night. The Cavaliers played against the Lee High School Lancers, defeating them by a score of 20 to 0. This victory extended the team's winning streak to three in a row. This was the first time that Woodson had won three games since 1994.

After winning a game of volleyball, a group of seniors wait for another round of challengers in the main gym. As the night wore on, many students fell asleep on the mats around the gym while others rested in their sleeping bags in the Lecture Study. Throughout the night, a number of movies were shown in the Lecture Study, from Top Gun to My Best Friend's Wedding.

Discussing the night's plans, Jessica Melnicove, Jill Marvin, and Barbara Crabbe eat a quick snack. During the evening, Mrs. Susan Shue made two food runs to Pickett Shopping Center to pick up more chips, candy and soda.

Pouring a drink, Kimberly Van Dyke and Jessica LaFever discuss the game of Pictionary they had just finished playing. According to Mr. Tim Evans, the class of 2000 was the first class ever to play board games at their Senior Lock-in. The seniors played a variety of games from Pictionary to Taboo.

Nicole Menally

Folding flowers, juniors Marah Wharton and Bryant Heinzelman help construct their float. This year the homecoming theme was classic movies, and the juniors chose to base their float on the movie Grease. Other class choices included: seniors with Wizard of Oz, sophomores with Jaws and freshmen with King Kong. Floats were constructed in the small gym this year due to the "lock-down" which was a result of threats to Woodson.

Oct. 1999 Finishing their pies, junior David Baer and senior Jonathan Landers discuss the final outcome. The Pie-Eating Contest was held during lunch time competitions on Tuesday.

Rachel Martonik

Participating in English class, junior Sara Gilmer checks her answers. Gilmer took part in pajama day, which occurred on the second day of spirit week. Seventh period teachers tallied the numbers of students involved in dress up days for class competition points.

Running around the cafeteria, sophomore Matthew Bravo pushes fellow sophomore Christopher Young. The Scooter Race was held on Thursday during lunch room competitions. Other lunch room competitions included a Pie-Eating Contest, Twister, Fluffy Bunny, and Limbo.

Oct. 1999 Moving their hands to the appropriate colored spots, sophomore Robert Lee, freshman Kelly Boyd, junior Jessica O'Byrne, and senior Pamela Medlin take part in the lunchtime Twister competition. Twister kicked off the Spirit Week lunch room competitions.

Kelly Brady

Concentrating on the bar, sophomore Allison Johns takes part in the limbo contest. Limbo was the final lunch class competition of spirit week, and was done to the song Brickhouse by the Commodores. At the end of the week all the competition points from dress-up days, lunch competitions, and floats were added up. The seniors came in first place after sweeping the float competition and lunch room competitions.

Oct. 1999 Standing up after working hard on her pie, freshman Lynn Taranto smiles at her accomplishment. Class competitions were held during all three lunches in Cafeteria B throughout Spirit Week.

Heading to class, junior Nicholas Reddig walks down the hall showing off his class spirit. Reddig earned points for the junior class on College/Hat Day which was held on Monday. The rest of the dress-up days included Pajama Day on Tuesday, 80s Day on Wednesday, Costume Day on Thursday and finally WTW Spirit Day on Friday. The junior class earned the most points for dress-up days this year.

homecoming

powder puff and bonfire

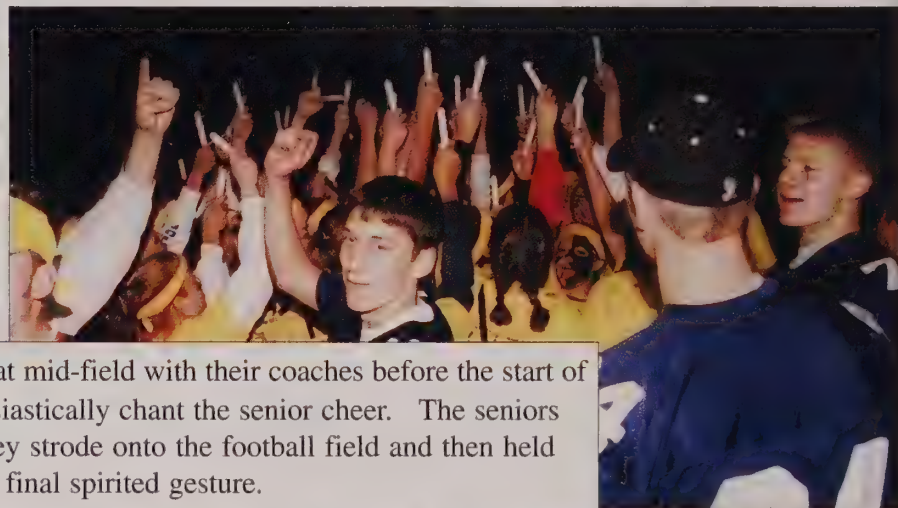

Oct. 29, 1999 Congratulating the juniors on their victory, the senior powder puff team gives their opponents "five" in good spirits. The powder puff game has been a historic homecoming tradition at W.T. Woodson, one of many events preceding the homecoming dance.

Oct. 29, 1999 Striving to intimidate the junior class, seniors Whitney Chesbro and Gwilym Jenkins lead the senior team down the bleachers and into the stadium. Beforehand, the team had met to paint their faces like "Braveheart" while listening to music from the movie.

Allie Goldhammer

Oct. 29, 1999 Gathering at mid-field with their coaches before the start of the game, the players enthusiastically chant the senior cheer. The seniors blew out their candles as they strode onto the football field and then held them up in their huddle as a final spirited gesture.

Mary Rothberger

Preparing for the second half of the game, Kara Lengle and Paige Mowry meet with the rest of the sophomore team. The sophomore class wore baby blue t-shirts while the freshmen wore orange. The juniors were clad in red t-shirts and the seniors in bright yellow. The powder puff t-shirts were designed by senior George Jakubek during leadership committee work.

Oct. 29, 1999 Shaking the hands of the victorious juniors, the senior class displays their good sportsmanship. The senior-junior game went into a scoreless overtime coming down to field goal attempts by junior Allison Wagner and senior Whitney Chesbro.

Jessica LaFever

Rehearsing before the performance between the powder puff games, the male precisionettes go over last minute techniques with their coach. This year's squad was led by seniors Andrew Gird and Jonathan Newton, who performed his famous back flip at the end of the routine. The male precisionettes were coached by members of the Varsity Precisionette Squad and performed their routine during halftime between the two games.

Rachel Martonik

Oct. 29, 1999 Leading the crowd, juniors Sarah Krebs, Abigail Atwood, Kelly Brady, and Allison Wagner do their class cheer at the bonfire. The bonfire was held behind Pat Cunningham Stadium immediately following the end of the junior vs. senior powder puff game.

After their victory, the freshmen powder puff team yells their cheer with victorious spirit. This was the third consecutive year that the freshman team defeated the sophomores in the powder puff game. The coaching abilities of Christopher Carr and Jay Grimes and the determination of the powder puff players provided these girls with a high school moment to remember.

Stretching during warm-up, freshmen Emily Trayers and Meryl Gwinn prepare to crush the sophomores in an astonishing defeat. The freshmen played the sophomores at 6:30 followed by the junior-senior game at 7:15 held at Pat Cunningham Stadium.

Reviewing new strategies during a time-out with the sophomore coach Nicholas Hartigan, sophomore Eva Galdo discusses the upcoming play.

Mary Rothlisberger

Standing at attention, the clarinet section is ready to lead the homecoming parade. The parade lasted for one hour and began the homecoming day itself. Homecoming was the last event that the marching band participated in for the 1999 fall season. They played numerous songs, including the Woodson Fight Song, Hey Baby, and The Lion Sleeps Tonight.

Mary Rothlisberger

Overseeing the duck pond, seniors Kelly Vandersluis and Keri Steadman raise money for the leadership class. A committee of ten leadership students organized and ran the carnival. The duck pond awarded the participants with candy prizes.

Waving at the crowd, representatives from the senior Homecoming Court, Pamela Medlin and Gregory Themak ride past the front of the school. The rest of the Senior Homecoming Queen nominees included: Jacqueline Grenwis, Heidi Gribble, Jill Marvin, Aisha Salazar and Colette Zai. The Senior Homecoming King nominees included: Matthew Campbell, Douglas Flood, Zane Hart, George Jakubek, Dominique Lipp, and John Macias.

Oct. 1999 Manning the entrance to the carnival, sophomore Thomas Boehm trades in money for tickets. This was the first year that only tickets were accepted at the booths.

Oct. 1999 Jumping on the moon bounce at the homecoming carnival, junior Megan Hebbe helps support the leadership class. A previously fractured ankle from a spill down the stairs did not stop her from having a good time.

Kelly Ensall

Acting as the character Sandy from the classic musical Grease, junior Kathryn Guccione stands on the junior class float during the homecoming parade. Fortunately, the senior and junior floats remained intact, although the freshman and sophomore floats collapsed shortly after the parade. The junior class float was rated second to the seniors, with sophomores and freshman close behind. The theme for the floats this year was Hollywood, and the classes highlighted classic movies such as The Wizard of Oz, Grease, Jaws, and King Kong.

Mary Rothlisberger

Oct. 1999 Congratulating a winner at the leadership bowling booth, junior Jason Satterwhite shows off his little brother. The bowling pins were constructed from two-liter soda bottles and a miniature basketball was used to knock them down.

Mary Rothlisberger

Decorating the booth for the South Asian Alliance, junior Obaidd Uddin strings garland around the table. Uddin was the president of this club, which is dedicated to learning about the art and culture of South Asia. The South Asian Alliance ran a successful booth, decorating customer's hands with the newly revived form of ancient art known as Mendhi. Many designs were available, ranging from the intricately detailed to simpler patterns. All designs were done by members of the club.

Mary Rothlisberger

homecoming

game and dance

Oct. 1999 Taking a drink from their water bottles, seniors Michael McCaffery and Ali Bayou take a break early in the game. The varsity football team later went on to achieve a victory over Marshall High School.

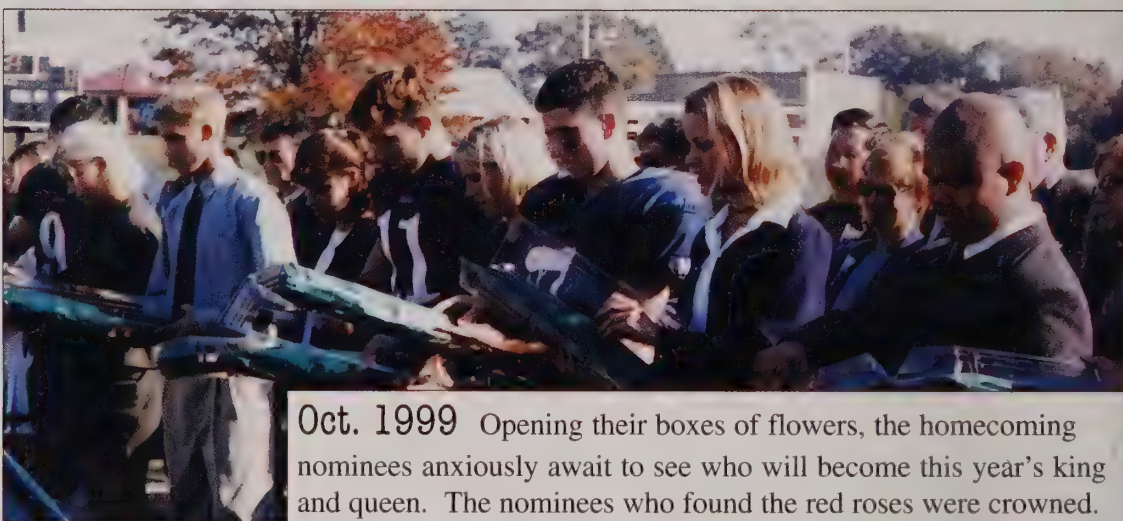

Josh Hicks

Oct. 1999 Hoping to hear their favorite song, junior Melissa Trimmer, senior Jill Marvin, and senior Travis Curtis plead with the disc jockey. The dance was held in Cafeteria B on October 30 and students entered on a red carpet while passing the hills of Hollywood.

Oct. 1999 Being crowned homecoming king and queen, seniors Douglas Flood and Colette Zai are overcome with joy. Last year's king and queen, E. Jay Apaga and Ann Springer also attended the homecoming festivities.

Oct. 1999 Opening their boxes of flowers, the homecoming nominees anxiously await to see who will become this year's king and queen. The nominees who found the red roses were crowned.

Riding in a red Mustang convertible, Meryl Gwinn and Andrew Colangelo, represent the freshman as Lord and Lady while smiling and waving to the crowd at the homecoming game. Other winners of the homecoming court were Duke and Dutchess Anna Pawlow and Alexander Vanderels, Prince and Princess Jessica O'Byrne and Jason Satterwhite, and King and Queen Douglas Flood and Colette Zai.

Oct.

Fending off Marshall defender, senior Peter Nelson carries the ball upfield. Nelson was one of our many Cavaliers to be selected for 2nd team all district.

After being recrowned at the dance, Queen Colette Zai and her date junior Alexander Liggitt pose for a snapshot before the planned spotlight dance. Unfortunately, there was no spotlight dance, due to a fashionably late entrance of King Douglas Flood.

Oct. 1999 Leading in the varsity football team, the drum section of the award winning marching band makes a musical entrance. Later in the game, they held their halftime performance.

Posing at the end of a dance, the Precisionettes continue to impress the crowd even after the performance. Other halftime events included a display of the class floats, a performance by the marching band and color guard, the parade of the homecoming court around the track, and the crowning of the homecoming king and queen.

Rushing past the defenders, senior Joshua Morin protects the ball as he holds off a Marshall line man. Morin went on to score a touch-down later in the game assuring the first Cavalier Homecoming victory in about four years.

Passing the ball on the third down, quarterback Douglas Flood ensures his throw as senior James Drennan and senior Antonio Salinas fight off the defenders. Flood and Salinas were co-captains of the varsity football team.

Preparing for opening night, Ms. Terri Hobson applies make-up on senior Jessica Bailey who played Aunt Ev, the aunt of Helen Keller who wanted Helen to be sent to a school for the deaf and blind. Aunt Ev was an older character, therefore make-up had to be applied to create wrinkles and age lines. Though when viewed closely the make-up may appeared odd and unnatural, it looked much more realistic from the audience's point of view.

Getting ready to go on stage, junior Marah Wharton puts on her shoes that are representative of the time period. The costume department tried to find costumes and accessories that would accurately resemble the turn of the century. This helped to give the play a more realistic atmosphere.

Applying her lipstick, junior Elise Amacker tries to get into her part before the Friday night performance. Before performances, actors would mentally go over their lines and characterization so that they could perform their part to the maximum for the audience.

Nov. 1999 Pretending to drop a key down a well, sophomore Hailey Gilmore plays the part of Helen Keller, a young deaf and blind girl who is struggling to learn about the world around her. Keller was an inspiration to the world, especially to other deaf and blind people. She demonstrated that goals can be achieved and dreams can come true, no matter how impossible the odds may seem.

Chatting after the final performance, senior Jonathan Wilson, sophomore Kristina Weber, and senior Laura Hofmann discuss the past weeks events. Between all the after school meetings, late night rehearsals, and getting together on the weekends to build sets, the cast became more of a family than a group of drama students. They would help each other with homework, with lines, and with life. After putting all their free time into producing the fall play, the students not only put on an excellent show, they made friends for life.

Nov. 1999 Attempting to teach Helen, senior Jennifer Byrd as Annie Sullivan talks while sophomore Hailey Gilmore as Helen Keller tries to teach her dog to fingerspell. Because Helen was both deaf and blind, she could not use normal sign language, therefore words were fingerspelled into her hand.

Nov. 1999 Re-applying her make-up during intermission, senior Jennifer Byrd mentally goes over her lines for the next act. Byrd played Annie Sullivan, a young teacher who was once blind, who the Kellers hired to help teach Helen how to communicate.

Nov. 1999 Examining the props before a performance, senior Gretchen Quoss, sophomore Ashleigh Hill, and freshman Kathryn Stanhagen check to make sure the water pump is working correctly. Theater tech worked very hard during all the performances to make sure everything ran smoothly.

Pumping water from the well, senior Jessica Smith, in the role of housekeeper and maid, prepares dinner for the family. The water pump played a crucial role in the play. This is where Helen first discovered language for what it was, learning the word for water and understanding the meaning. Previously Helen would learn the words, yet not understand the content behind them, thinking it was just an elaborate game.

Dec. 1999 Looking over the music with senior Allison Barnes, freshman Kaitlin Merchant waits to perform. The toy soldiers did their routine to selections from The Wonders of Christmas.

Dec. 1999 Sharing the Christmas cheer, senior Brendan Donovan, dressed as Santa Claus, poses for a picture with some young fans. Santa and Mrs. Claus made a cameo appearance at the end of the performance and stayed after for an extra half hour to visit with the children.

Mary Rothlisberger

Incorporating various holidays into the Tiny Tots celebration, junior Robert Webb sings The Dreidel Song, a song to go with a Jewish game played during Hanukkah. While he sang, two band members danced around the stage with large dreidels, made of cardboard and decorated with Hebrew lettering on each side. In the dreidel game, children spin a dreidel and which side it lands on determines how many prizes are won.

Mary Rothlisberger

Dec. 1999 During Tiny Tots, senior Alexandra Bothwell and sophomore Nina Besser put down their flutes to dance for the audience. While the brass played Jingle Bells and Deck the Halls, members of the woodwind section sang.

Dec. 1999 Waiting for the show to begin, junior Sarah Axelson and senior Mary Bickley, select representatives from the color guard, discuss their routine for the show. The color guard danced in front of the stage with large stuffed teddy bears and presents, while other members twirled rifles.

Mary Jean Rothlisberger

Sharing a smile after the performance, junior Kelly Ensall and sophomore Sarah Eckels show off their missing two front teeth while junior Jamie Bothwell laughs along. Various members of the band blacked out their two front teeth with special mouth paint to perform a rendition of All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth. Eight randomly selected band members sang this song and choreographed a dance the day before the performance.

Mr. John E. Casagrande directs the symphonic band in the school's holiday fundraising concert, Tiny Tots. Tiny Tots was a series of interactive songs, dances, and other activities for pre-school age children. An average of two hundred and fifty children came this year and the auditorium was packed. Both performances were sold out.

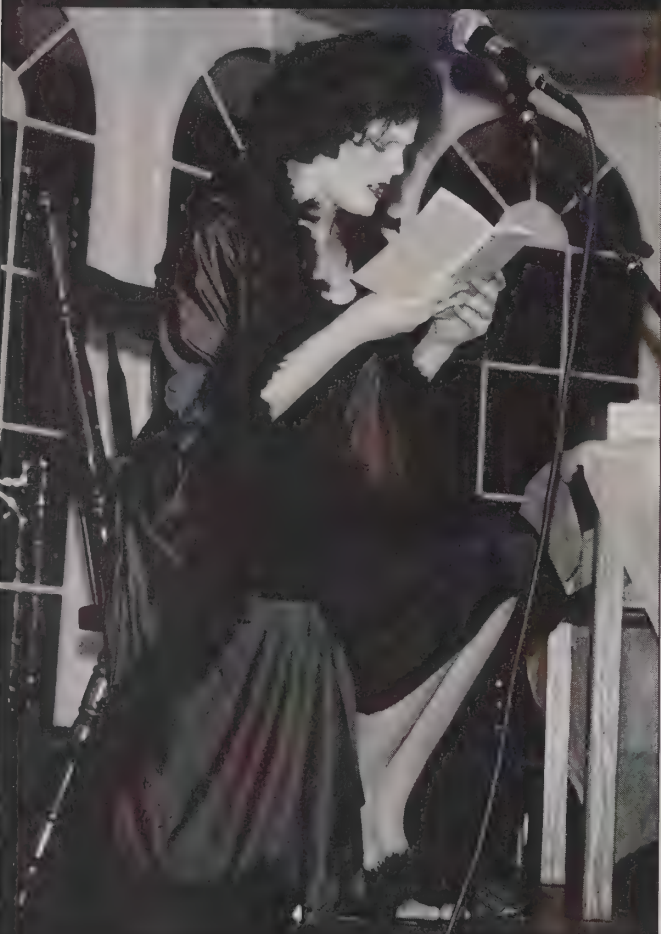

Mary Jean Rothlisberger

Waiting for the right moment, senior Kara Roeder, dressed as Mrs. Claus, takes a picture of some children greeting Santa Claus after the show. Santa and Mrs. Claus were announced as surprise guests just as the show ended.

Picking up a uniform before the show, senior Stacey Chong signs her name. Most of the participants in Tiny Tots were band students, but there were also selected color guard members that performed. The members of the color guard used the Cavalier marching band uniforms as their toy soldier costumes.

Preparing for the Saturday matinee performance, senior Laura Lotridge gets her hair curled by a helping mother in Cafeteria B. The performers prepared for the shows in Cafeteria B before going on stage in Cafeteria A. Lotridge performed I'm the Greatest Star from the musical Funny Girl. She took on the role of Fanny Brice who sang the song when she met up with dancer Eddie Ryan after being rejected at an audition.

Katie Thronson

Singing Adelaide's Lament from Guys and Dolls, senior Jennifer Byrd acts as Adelaide. She reads in a book, given to her by her doctor, that her sickness is due to stress over troubled relationships with Nathan, her fiance of twelve years. Dessert on Broadway was directed by Mr. Michael Ehrlich, who selects the pieces which will be sung as well as the performers that will sing them.

Smiling coyly for the audience, senior Emily Saunders, sophomore Russell Silber, and senior Brittany Keller perform The Lusty Month of May from Camelot. Students were responsible for learning the songs, along with choreographing their own performances.

Preparing to sing Can't Get a Man With a Gun from Annie Get Your Gun, seniors Joslyn Hemler and Mary Virginia Thur perform at the Saturday matinee. All in all, the choral department put on three shows: a seven o'clock performance Friday night January 21, a one o'clock matinee Saturday January 22, and a seven o'clock performance that night. Tickets were available to students during their lunch period, and this year all three performances were sold out.

Jan. 2000 Opening the show, freshmen Megan McCafferey and Tiffany Ung sing Be Our Guest from the Disney production of Beauty and the Beast. Over the past few years, it has become a tradition for freshmen to perform the opening number of the production.

Jan. 2000 Worrying about the Jersey Board of Health's summon, juniors Kelly Brady, Abigail Atwood, Megan Hubbard, Rebecca Sellers, Stacy Tomhave, and Marah Wharton sing about cleaning out the freezer. This group of juniors sang We've Got to Clean Out the Freezer from the musical Nunsense.

Nicole McNally

Katie Thronson

Jan. 2000 Lying on the stage during her performance from Cats, junior Margaret Avent sing Macavity, the Mystery Cats. Around fifty Woodson students volunteered to serve dessert to the members of the audience throughout the performances.

Katie Thronson

Jan. 2000 While senior Thomas Jacobs poses as the devil, senior Gillian St. Claire performs a number from Damn Yankees. St. Claire sang A Little Brains, A Little Talent, a piece about her character Lola's many affairs with various men.

Nicole McNally

Posing on a pot serving as a makeshift stool, senior Lauren Pack performs I Won't Grow Up from Peter Pan. Before the production, a number of choral parents volunteered to work on chair committees, which aided the performance greatly by assisting with set construction, costume design, choreography, make-up, and hair styles. Over fifty students volunteered to serve dessert to the audience throughout the productions.

Katie Thronson

During the casual wear segment, junior Robert Hugel and his two escorts, juniors Keely Clarke and Melissa Trimmer model the Hooters attire and clothes typically worn by a country hick. Senior Marcus Hamilton placed first in the competition, while Hugel placed second and senior Jonathan Newton placed third.

Feb. 2000

Performing his skit, sophomore Tawfeeq Khan uses Garret Satterwhite to attract girls. The skit ended with the girl behind the poster to be revealed as Ms. Martha Carr.

Feb. 2000 Introducing junior Brian Burgess in his formal wear, sophomore Anna Melnicove, junior Jane Choi, and seniors Barbara Crabbe and Jessica Melnicove act as his escorts. Burgess had the most escorts of all of the contestants.

Showing off his "muscles," junior Jason Satterwhite is introduced by senior Colette Zai in his formal wear. Zai later stuck a pin in Satterwhite's arm to reveal the balloon in his sleeve.

Imitating the boxer from the movie Rocky, senior Matthew Michaelangelo tells the audience a little bit about himself while modeling his casual wear. Mr. Woodson had three categories: formal wear, skits, and casual wear, in each of which the contestants received points.

Posing as a Furby, freshman Christopher Carr is dressed in style for his casual wear segment. Carr's escort described his taste in women when she introduced him by saying that he liked "long walks on the beach" and his women to be "furbalicious."

mr. woodson competition

Feb. 2000 Dancing while the judges tally up scores, the contestants entertain the crowd. The routine was choreographed and taught by the precisionettes.

Feb. 2000 Congratulating senior Marcus Hamilton, last year's winner E. Jay Apaga passes on the crown. Apaga came back from Radford College to participate as a judge the competition.

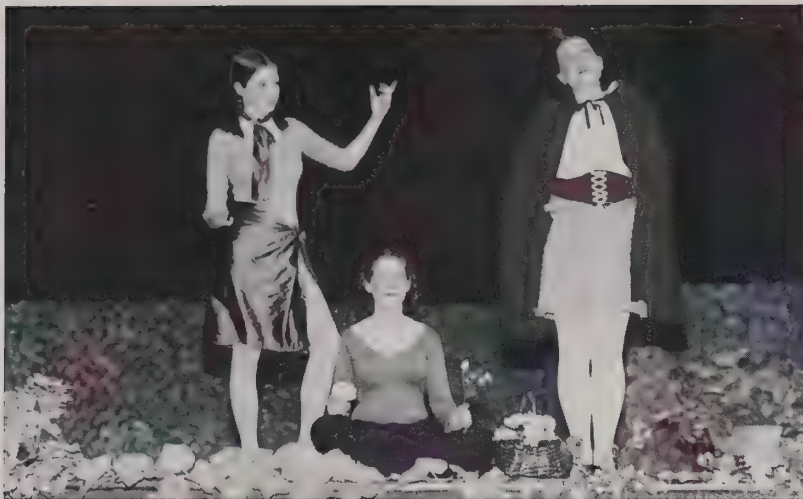

Feb. 2000 Waiting to begin an audition for the Chippendales, sophomore Jonathan Healy and senior Jonathan Newton stand at attention. The skit was based on a Saturday Night Live segment performed by Chris Farley and Patrick Swayze.

Performing a magic trick for the audience, senior William Wiygul holds up a flower and demonstrates a trick that is used in Las Vegas. The competition's contestants consisted of seniors Jonathan Newton, Marcus Hamilton, William Wiygul, Matthew Michealangelo, juniors Brian Burgess, Jason Saterwhite, Robert Hugel, sophomore Tawfeeq Khan, and freshman Christopher Carr.

Telling her tale about what it is like to be lured into a wolf's stomach, junior Elisa Jacobs sings to junior Christina Butler and freshman Meghan Gillespie, who played trees in the production. Jacobs was able to capture the spotlight as Little Red Ridinghood in this years spring musical, Into the Woods.

Sitting next to the grave of her mother, senior Angela Eyermann sings out to her mother's soul and wishes to go to the Royal Ball. Eyermann ended her theatre career at W.T. Woodson playing the part of one of her favorite characters, Cinderella.

Brushing her hair, junior Lauren Feliz sings about what it is like to be held captive in a tower by her mother, a witch. Feliz played the part of Rapunzel in Into The Woods, her third musical at W.T. Woodson. In the play, Rapunzel ran off with her prince, was banished to a desert, bore twins, and was eventually crushed by a giant.

March 2000 Discussing the maidens that they met in the woods, seniors Matthew Stutemiester and Zachary Duff compare in song whose maiden is more fair. Stutermeister and Duff played the parts of Cinderella's prince and Rapunzel's prince.

Waiting for the cow to give milk, Jack- played by sophomore Russell Silber, Jack's mother- played by senior Jessica Bailey, the baker's wife- played by senior Jennifer Byrd, the baker- played by Michael Moser, and the mysterious man- played by David Goldenburg all interact on the stage. During the course of the play, the tales of Cinderella, Jack and the Beanstalk, Rapunzel, and Little Red Ridinghood interweaved to form a complex fairytale that told the story of a baker and his wife and their quest for a child.

"into the woods"

March 2000 Trying to convince Little Red Ridinghood to come with him into the woods, senior Glen Ballowe sings the song Hello Little Girl. This year the musical was performed on Thursday March 2, Friday March 3, and twice on Saturday March 4.

March 2000 Throwing up her hands in excitement, senior Jessica Bailey exclaims over the golden harp that Jack, played by sophomore Russell Silber, had stolen from the Giant. The Giant plays an important role in the play, destroying the characters homes and squashing a few characters, including the narrator.

March 2000 Pulling the carriage across the stage, senior Michael Mullin and freshman Lee Roberts act as the witch's slaves. The witch's slaves were written into the play by Ms. Teri Hobson as were the trees.

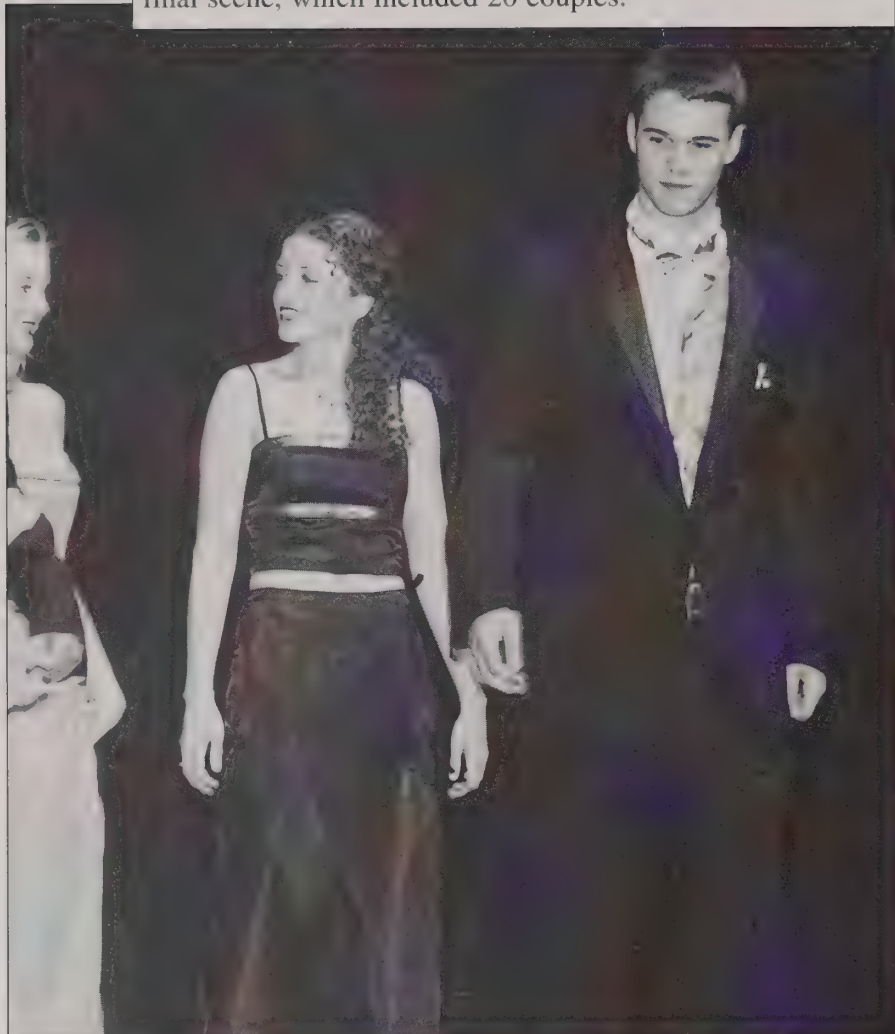

Directing the pit band, senior Stephanie Mason leads the students in a warm up exercise before the last performance. The pit band consisted of entirely volunteer band members who wished to participate in the musical. For the first two performances, senior Barbara Seifert conducted the band, but she had to attend an out-of-town wedding on the day of the last performance, so Mason took over.

fashion show

fashion phenomenon

March 2000 Walking out onto the stage, seniors Jennifer Buckley and Garret Guisti display possible prom attire. Buckley and Courtney Mayo were directors of this final scene, which included 20 couples.

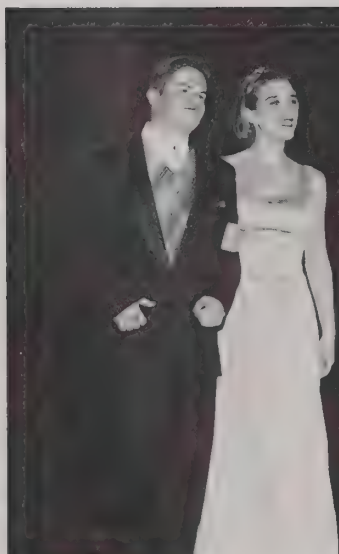

March 2000 Posing during the prom portion of the fashion show, seniors Chloe Vu-do, Pablo Perez, John Osterday, and Blair Johnston show off the new styles. Dresses for the prom scene were borrowed from JC Penney and the guy's tuxedos were borrowed from Smalls.

March 2000 Dancing in the progressive scene, juniors Melissa Trimmer and Jane Choi display clothes from the spring line of Contempo Casuals. This scene was one of three dance sequences in the show.

Taking part in the prom scene, seniors Dominique Lipp and Lena Makurath exhibit the new styles of evening wear for the dance this spring. Every year, the prom scene closed the fashion show, and only seniors were allowed to participate. This year's fashion show was sponsored by Z-104, which handed out door prizes and Z-104 memorabilia.

March 2000 Congratulating the cast and sponsors on a great show, seniors Robin Schmal and Madeline Breen wrap up the annual event. The Woodson fashion show occurs every year towards the beginning of the spring season so tha the spring lines and formal prom dresses can be displayed.

Walking down the runway during the prom scene, a group of teachers shows off their formal wear. This was the first year that formal wear was used in the teacher's portion of the fashion show. In this part of the fashion phenomenon, twelve Woodson teachers participated.

Displaying the spring 2000 line from Old Navy, junior Margaret Avent, sophomore Heidi Taylor, and junior Dianna Hoopingarner participate in the casual scene of the show. Every section of the show was run by two backstage directors; the directors for the casual scene were junior Jacqueline Burke and senior Christine Detwiler.

Posing in the scene that they directed, junior Jacqueline Burke and senior Christine Detwiler participate in the casual scene. The clothes from this scene were borrowed from Old Navy, and several props, including a poodle and tent, were used.

Acting out a classic prom night situation, seniors Ali Bayou and Jacqueline Grenwis participate in the prom scene. The outfits for the prom scene were returned to their respective stores the day after the show.

Walking down the aisle, freshmen Theresa Grenwis and Adam Pruitt head towards the dance after having their wedding picture taken by the photographer, Mrs. Brady. Sadies was the last dance where underclassmen were welcome to attend without being asked by an upperclassman.

Embracing each other, junior David Shuman and senior Heather Hopkins slow dance. The dance was held in Cafeteria B which was decorated with red, white, and blue cut-out stars. The junior class officers came up to school at 1:00 on Saturday to decorate for the 8:00 event.

Smiling for the camera, seniors Jill Novotny and Evan Prout participate in their Sadies's wedding. Novotny and Prout did what many people did before the dance and went out to dinner with a group of friends, girls treat, of course.

March 2000 Persuading her date to dance, junior Sarah Strom grabs his hands. This year's semi-formal dance started at 8:00 p.m. and ended at 11:00 p.m.

March 2000 Making a last minute confirmation before the start of the dance, Sarah Krebs and John Hennessy call the caterer. As president of the junior class, Krebs organized the dance with the help of officers Kelly Brady, Nicholas Reddig, Ashley Henderson, Jessica O'Byrne, and Matthew Whiting.

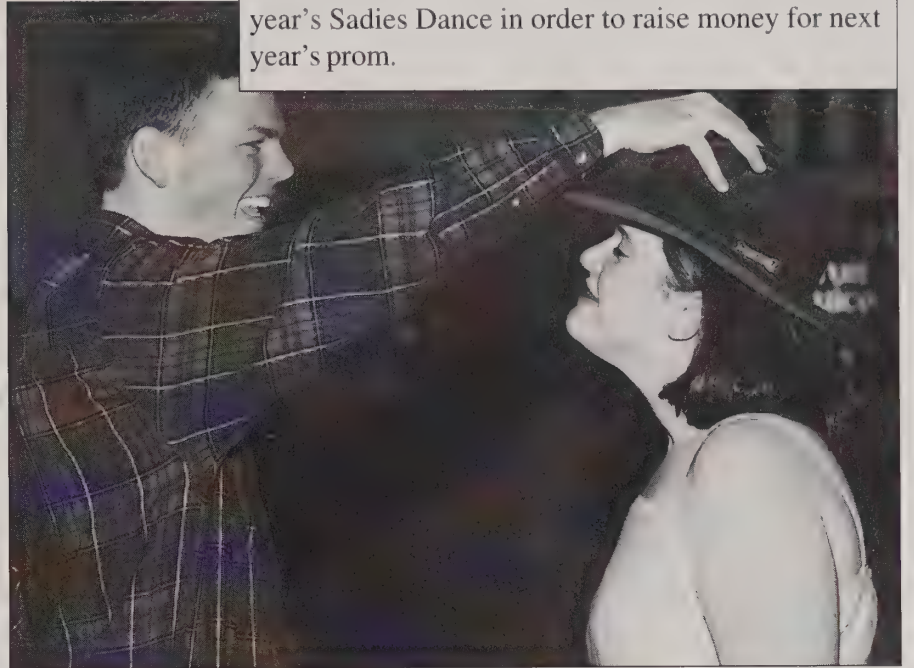

Working their magic at the turntables, the DJs from Number 1 Sound of Entertainment keep the kids dancing. The DJs played a wide range of music from slow songs to rap. Junior Rebecca Sellers "jammed the whole night away, it was awesome, I loved the old school rap."

Showing his date a good time on the dance floor, senior James Drennan amazes senior Carrington Mohn with his dancing skills. This year's dance was semi-formal, but many people opted for the traditional western clothing or Hawaiian gear.

Passing the orange, the sophomore contestants participate in the B-lunch competition. The goal of this contest was to successfully pass the orange to the next contestant without using your hands. During spring spirit week, the traditional Fluffy Bunny contest was not allowed to be held due to the nation-wide ban of the game. This was the result of several student deaths around the nation.

Meghan Callahan

March 2000 Recording the amount of ice in junior Chrisopher Brensy's shirt, senior Katherine Goodwin subtracts his original weight from the new one. Goodwin was wearing board shorts and sunglasses to demonstrate her school spirit on Beach Day.

March 2000 Celebrating their C-lunch win, seniors Jeffrey Tate and Jack Enoch wait to see the margin of victory. In order to fill Enoch's shirt with as much ice as possible, a group of five seniors dumped the entire tub of ice, a total of 16 pounds, down his shirt.

Meghan Callahan

Kicking off spirit week, sophomore Marshi Smith participates in the Class of 2002 car wash on Saturday, March 25. The sophomore class officers organized the car wash from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. in the McDonald's parking lot in Fair City where they earned a total of $419, bringing them out of debt.

Meghan Callahan

Talking during break, seniors Gregory Themak and Maureen Selgas display their college apparell on College/Hat Day. During spirit week students participated in a number of dress up days including: Monday- Decade Day, Tuesday- Beach Day, Wednesday- Pajama Day, Thursday- College/Hat day, and Friday- School Spirit Day.

Meghan Callahan

Filling Joel Bosch's shirt with ice during the Ice Game, freshman Aimee Feliz tries to grab as much ice as possible. After the contestants finished filling their shirts during the allotted 30 seconds, the guys were weighed to measure who gained the most pounds.

Starting the lunchtime competitions during A-lunch on Monday, SGA President senior Zane Hart introduces the rules of the Pie-Eating contest. The leadership class decided to hold a spirit week before the spring pep rally in order to increase school spirit and attendance at the various spring sports competitions.

Meghan Callahan

Presenting the Liberty District Championship trophy to the school, senior swim and dive captains Nicholas Zysk, Brent Banks, and Patrick Hopkins recap the season's accomplishments to the crowd. Zysk and Hopkins were members of the 200M freestyle relay, which advanced to both regionals and states, and placed 4th and 12th respectively.

Meghan Callahan

Introducing the senior girl soccer players, senior captain Heidi Gribble and junior captain Allison Wagner call out names. The seniors on the varsity squad included Whitney Chesbro, Joslyn Hemler, and Maureen Selgas.

Waiting for the pep rally to begin, members of the girls soccer teams take a seat. The pep rally was originally supposed to be held in the main gym, but was moved to the stadium after the administration was alerted to the planning of a senior prank.

Rachel Martonik

March 2000 Listening to senior captains Jill Marvin, Jessica Melnicove, and Pamela Medlin introduce the girl's lacrosse team, senior Jacqueline Stilwell and junior Karla Petty wait on the track. The captains proceeded to call all of the remaining seniors to the field to be recongnized.

March 2000 Pulling the rope during tug-of-war, seniors Douglas Flood and Meaghan Barry attempt to bring down the other team. Barry and senior Zak Duff were chosen to emcee the pep rally.

Struggling during the tug-of-war, seniors Antonio Salinas, Peter Nelson, Evan Prout, and junior Johanna Buchholz represent their respective sports. The captains of the crew, track, and soccer teams competed against the captains of the baseball, lacrosse, and softball teams in the tug-of-war, resulting in a win by the crew, track, and soccer captains.

March 2000 Urging junior Edward Richmond to participate in the tug-of-war, seniors Matthew Michelangelo and Thomas Wissler push him into the middle of the field. The majority of the sports teams either wore their uniforms or team shirts to the pep rally to show their school pride.

Meghan Callahan

March 2000 Handing senior Abraham Thompson his plaque, Mr. Darah Bonham presents him with the award for Gatorade Virginia State Player of the Year. Last year, Thompson was a member of the under-17 national soccer team, which came in 4th at U-17 World Cup.

Videotaping the pep rally, senior Aisha Salazar catches the emcees on tape. Salazar made a video for her senior project which commemorated her last year at Woodson by highlighting senior events. The senior project was a 250 point project which was required for seniors to pass government, and therefore, to graduate.

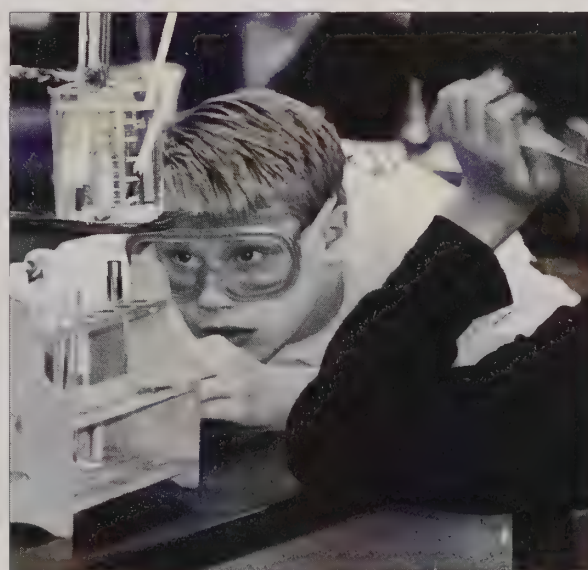

Allison Mall

On the first day of school, when 1741 students entered the school building at 9525 Main Street, each person experienced a variety of emotions. As freshmen, students were filled with anxiety and anticipation for the next four years filled with new experiences and endless possibilities. As sophomores, students were filled with relief of not being the youngest and enjoyed new freedoms found during their second year school. As juniors, students overwhelmed with the workload AP classes and college participation. As seniors, students were filled with anxiety for graduation and excitement for the future. And at the end of the year, as Woodson watched the seniors throw their caps into the air and receive their diplomas with pride, they looked back on their years at Woodson and recalled Where Time Went.

"Yesterday is history. Tomorrow is a mystery. And today? Today is a gift. That's why we call it the present." -Babatunde Olatunji

Barbara Crabbe, Whitney Chesbro

Every moment we've spent together can't be frozen in time. We've cherished each other's company and experienced such an array of emotion that we can never forget that everyday together has been a gift. Let's live each day knowing that this instant too may soon be history, and take what we've learned from these memories to the future, a mystery.

What lived within each of us was the joy that we all gave to each other. We found ourselves on common ground, forgetting what made us different. We cared for each other. The class of 2000 brought back to Woodson the overwhelming power of school spirit.

So when we look back on our freshman year, what is it that we remember? We remember opening the year with the premier episode of the Morning Show of 1996 and learning the names of the entire senior class, who didn't even know we existed. We heard the buzz on the news each night about the first cloning of a living mammal, a sheep named Dolly. We had a blast being defeated 47-0 during the first Powder Puff game of our life. We danced the Macarena at our first high school Homecoming dance bearing the theme "Seasons". While the craze of Tickle-Me-Elmo engulfed the nation, we were merely waiting for the day that we would not have to be called frosh anymore.

In our sophomore year at Woodson, we spent the first two weeks of school not in class, but rather outside the building because of bathroom blazes. After a total of ten fires, a home-made fire bomb, and a firecracker in the computer lab causing over $100,000 worth of damage, who knew what was to come next. As the world mourned the death of Princess Di and Mother Theresa, everyone also celebrated the world record of Cal Ripkin's 3,210 games. School spirit soared as we won the first football game in three consecutive years against Potomac Falls, with a score of . And as we said good-bye to the show "Seinfeld", we also bid farewell to our sophomore year.

Junior year was one both of triumphs and trials. As the world changed, along with it so did we. We crushed the seniors in Powder Puff with a score of 7-0, and they were not happy about it. In 1998 no one could escape the media coverage of President Clinton's extramarital affair and impeachment. We partied like it was 1999. We soared with John Glen as he traveled back out to space and crashed down to earth with news of the Columbine shooting rampage.

But we managed, through thick and thin, to finish out the year and strive to be the best we could as we prepared ourselves for just one more year.

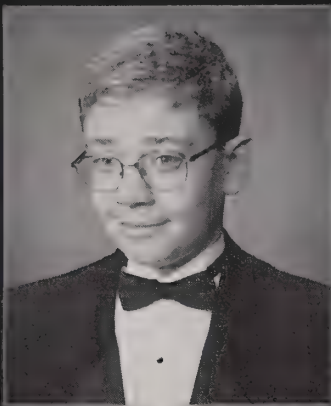

Finally we were seniors, having no one to look up to and wondering how all the freshman knew who we were. High school seemed to have flown by. With the success of WTW graduates Cady Coleman and Michael Weiss, We realized what lies ahead has incredible potential. School spirit surged our final year. At the stroke of midnight on December 31, we all found out the millenium bug was a millenium bust and the 21st century was not going to be all that different. After spending endless hours working on college applications and worrying about being accepted, we have all now chosen our final destinations and will, united, throw our caps in the air as the class of 2000.

Senior Slump

Senior year brought a time to wind down the high school life everyone had grown used to and prepare for the future. As college acceptance letters rolled in, many seniors lost focus on scholastic achievement, and the infamous "senior slump" set in. "I'm a big proponent of the slump. It's time to kick back," said senior Graham Martin. Other seniors were not nearly as enthusiastic about a decline in work ethics. Senior Mark Golden pointed out, "I can't really afford to slump. I still have AP tests at the end of the year, so it would be kind of pointless to quit working now. Plus, my mom would kill me."

Woodson faculty warned students about slacking during twelfth grade. "I wouldn't advise cruising to graduation. Colleges and universities continue to monitor grades after they accept students. A big drop off could result in a school revoking a letter of acceptance," said Mr. Cohen, a Woodson guidance counselor.

Senior Projects

Along with the new millennium, January marked the beginning of the senior projects. Started by former Woodson principal Dr. Gary Miller, the project served as a grade in 12th grade government classes, and was also required for graduation. Students chose their topics based on their individual interests, and once a topic was chosen, sponsors were assigned based on subject matter. The sponsors functioned as mentors and checked on the status of projects periodically. They also assigned a grade on the project. Journals were kept by students to keep a log of their progress. In June, projects were presented in front of a council of five teachers and given final grades.

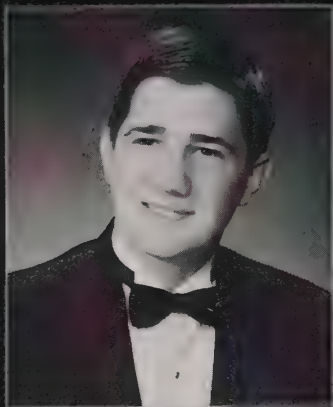

The senior projects of the class of 2000 included websites, original recipes, calendars, sports brochures, painting Woodson's bathrooms, and coaching the youth of our community. While getting the work done could be a pain, the experience was beneficial and was fun for some.

Senior Privileges

Senior privileges were created in the '70's to give senior students a few extra perks. This year, such privilege included senior parking, early dismissal to B and C lunches, and early dismissal from seventh period on Fridays. Senior parking spots were designated as the ones closest to the building. The senior officers enforced the parking by giving out warnings to underclassmen who parked in senior parking. After three infractions, the administration was notified and individual students lost their senior parking privileges when they became a senior.

At the beginning of the 1999-2000 school year, the expected senior privileges were revoked in the beginning of the year until senior class officers met with the new principal to compromise on the specifics, such as when seniors would be excused from class and where senior parking would be.

"Being a senior is so overwhelming, it's all the little things that make it just a little bit easier," said senior Ali Bayou.

Senior Lock-in

For many students, the senior lock-in was the one night that they heard their parents say "yes" to a boy-girl sleepover. The senior lock-in was held on October 1, 1999 after a varsity football game, and offered food, fun and games. There was a two hour break between the lock-in and the game to rest or simply enjoy some pre-lock-in fun. The C-hall included a food selection from Papa John's, Subway, and Taco Bell. Students could play basketball or other sports games in the main gym, or dance the night away in the small gym. Movies were shown in the lecture study, but most students used this quiet area for sleep. If it was absolutely necessary to leave early, administration required seniors to have a pre-submitted note, and then upon leaving, the chaperone at the door had to call the student's parents to make them aware that they were on their way home. By the time the lock-in was over at five a.m., many seniors just went home to bed.

Senior Pranks

As the last month of school approached, students, faculty, and administrators began anticipating the biggest joke of the year, the senior prank. Senior pranks have been a tradition at Woodson for many years. The goal was to try to trick and surprise the Woodson community. In the 1960's, seniors brought a live cow into the courtyard, resulting in lunchtime mayhem. Freshman year, the seniors threw ketchup, mayonnaise, and mustard at the student body; sophomore year they released wild turkeys into the school; and junior year they let loose mice and put dead fish in underclassmen lockers. History and leadership teacher Mr. Tim Evans commented on the senior pranks: "As long as the prank is creative and clever without being destructive, I'm all for it." However, while many teachers and students felt fondly about the pranks, the administration made every effort to control them. They warned that the consequences of being involved in a prank could be severe, even resulting in suspension, depending on the disturbance caused by the prank.

Crowding the Halls

With the graduation of the infamous P-Hall Crew in 1998, the halls of Woodson were not left empty. Since two years of high school have passed since then, the classes of the new millennium have found their own corners to claim. With many different groups such as the "Heater Crew" at the end of the M-hall, and the "LBC" towards the end of the K-Hall, it has not been difficult for students to find a place to belong. Whether these groups decided to meet in between the cafeterias or in random hallways, students passing by have found it difficult to reach their destination when desired. Teachers have also expressed a concern about students arriving to class tardy due to overcrowded hallways. Overcrowding was a major problem because most of the senior's lockers were located in the K-Hall along with the many cliques. After being stepped on and pushed around, the crowded hallways were one thing that graduating seniors will be thankful they won't have to deal with in later years.

Senior Dinner Dance

senior dinner dance, which was held on May 6, 2000. The dance was semi-formal, and gave seniors a chance to look back at the years they had spent with their class. Before the dance, seniors purchased their tickets and signed up to reserve a table for their groups of friends. The dance was catered by the Olive Garden, and featured a menu of breadsticks, salad, pizza, and lasagna. Before the dancing began, the senior video was shown, which was a montage of pictures and home videos that students had collected over the past 18 years. The senior superlative winners were acknowledged, and then the seniors took to the dance floor to enjoy one of the last events that the class of 2000 would participate in together.

Preparing For College

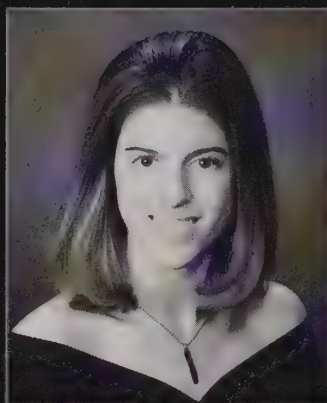

After graduation, while some seniors headed into the workplace or took a few years off, most students continued their education at college. The process of going to college was one that began in 9th grade, as students chose between regular, GT, and AP classes. During sophomore year, students took the PSAT's, which brought the realization that college was not far off. Junior year was the year that students got a broader view of what college would be like, visiting universities during school breaks and beginning to receive loads of college mail. Senior year, students completed their college applications and anxiously awaited the day that they would receive their acceptance letters in the mail. When they finally did, they felt as if a huge burden had been lifted off of their shoulders, as they got ready to take the next huge step in life, unaware of what lay ahead of them.

Prom

In the beginning of the third quarter, seniors voted during their lunch periods for the prom theme. After all the votes were tallied, "Unchained Melody" by the Righteous Brothers won by a slim margin over "Time of My Life" from the movie Dirty Dancing. In order to avoid confusion, the senior class officers had the phrase "Time Can Do So Much" printed on commemorative items from the event.

As spring break approached towards the end of April, prom mayhem spread as students worked up the nerve to ask that special someone. Then after months of preparation and years of fantasizing, the class of 2000 attended their senior prom on June 16, 2000. After posing for pictures and eating dinner, students arrived at the Dulles Hyatt at 9 p.m. and danced the night away until 1:00 a.m. While spending time with their high school sweethearts and cherishing time with their friends, seniors left Woodson in style.

Cavalier Cruise

Started in 1990, parent volunteers planned a drug-and-alcohol free celebration for the graduating class at Oak Marr Recreation Center on the night of the graduation ceremony, June 20, 2000.

Seven weeks before graduation, the volunteers held the Cavalier Cruise Kick-off in the small gym during break on April 26, 2000 to encourage seniors to attend. The following day, t-shirts were distributed in between the cafeterias during lunch to seniors who purchased their tickets. The shirts were designed using the logo submitted by senior Adam Jakubek to the logo contest held in November. Seniors won various prizes when they wore their shirts to school on Thursdays during May and June to promote participation in the event.

Aboard the cruise, newly graduated seniors participated in many activities such as swimming, basketball, or even gambling at the casino with "cavalier money." At the end of the night, the graduates cashed in their "cavalier money" for prizes including televisions, vcr's, gift certificates, or even mini-refridgerators. At the end of the Cruise, seniors said "Bon Voyage" to Woodson.

Graduation

On June 20, the graduating class of 2000 entered the field house of Robinson High School at three o'clock for their graduation ceremony.

During third quarter, the seniors had voted during their lunch periods whether to sit separately with the girls on one side and the boys on the other or to sit alphabetically. However, after much controversy, seniors voted again during the class meeting held before spring break. When the votes were counted, it was confirmed that the class of 2000 would begin a new tradition of sitting as one group all wearing royal blue caps and gowns.

Finally, after years of anticipation of being the first graduating class of the new millennium, the ceremony began with opening remarks by the senior class officers and also featured a speech by former Woodson alumnus Andy Heck. After the seniors received their diplomas and the closing remarks were made, the Class of 2000 threw up their caps as they said their good-byes to Woodson.

Role Models

When the class of 2000 entered the building at 9525 Main Street, they assumed the title of role models. Over the summer the leadership class had established a system of freshmen/senior buddies in which seniors and freshmen were paired up based on a questionnaire that both groups had filled out at the end of last year. In addition, the leadership class planned activities such as a freshmen/senior barbecue in September and a "two-for-the-price-of-one" night at a home football game during October to help the freshmen adjust to their new lives.

Along with freshmen/senior buddies, seniors also assumed the role as leaders on the sport teams, clubs, and performing art groups as not only as captains but as members. As seniors participated in these activities for the last time, they looked back on the past four years and reminisced Where Time Went.

What we've been trying to say...

Jeanette Shapiro

Allen, Melissa- Live life to the fullest and don't let anyone tell you what to do. The biggest thing is to have NO REGRETS! Katie, always remember I love you. To Olivia and Oscar, Olivia I will always be better than any Oscar. Hey to Michelle (English buddy), Beth (sign), Joe (locker free), John, Liz, Sara, Jessica. To all my teachers, thanks.

Priya Alterman- I want to thank my best friends, Nhoc, Bushra, Laura, Raymond, and Kirsinta for all the wonderful times we shared on New Year's Eve. We had so much fun ice skating in Reston. I will always cherish y'all. Nhoc, stay funny!! Laura, stay sweet!! Bushra, stay dressed well!! Ray, keep calling me your woman!!

[illegible]

Joseph Ambrogne- Personal Quote? Personal... Personality? Aw, man. I don't have any of that. Oh well, see ya Woodson. Hey, what's up Scott?

Alison Andren- Eeeexxxeeeee!!!!eeennnttttttee!
Porque es muy importante!

Kathryn Augustine- People are fire, make sure you're Hickory...Take Pictures!...wear sunscreen... Hey Guys: you know who you are...we may never see each other again, but I'll always remember...Enjoy Life! May everyone in the senior class have love, hope, and peace!

Ryan Andrukonis-“Always remember, you are absolutely unique just like everybody else.” “Why write anything I am already forgotten."

Bailey, Jessica -I would like to leave Chiquita to Sara Gilmer. Excuse me, could you hold this for a minute? Thanks. Words of Wisdom: never let your underwire win, always wear Dirty Pants, you can never get enough of Bob, don't eat trail mix, don't get stuck in inner tubes, eat notes with mustard, love Elvis, you can bite acrylic nails. LIVE!

Glen Ballowe - "We live in a wonderful world that is full of beauty, charm, and adventure. There is no end to the adventures that we can have if only we seek them with our eyes open." --Jawaharlal Nehru. Pickle - not that's funny! Behold the power of Nub-Nub! Ghetto Dogg's—Woof!

Brent Banks - Mom and Dad, I love you.
Jess...thanks for all your wonderful quotes.

1st Period breaks, oh yeah! Garcita I owe you a lot --

Mary Bickley- God's love is like sunshine, like the sunshine, God's love for us is invisible until it shines through an instrument, we are God's instruments. Seniors, I hope that in the days to come we all live lives guided by what God puts in our hearts. Remember, how we live reflects what we treasure. Best wishes Woodson.

William Blake- "Tamborines and elephants are playing in the band" --Creedence Clearwater Revival "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere. We are caught in an inescapable network of mutuality, tied in a single garment of destiny. Whatever affects one directly affects all indirectly."--Martin Luther King Jr.
 "The greatest freedom is the freedom to make mistakes."--Me.

Alaina Blevins- The purpose of life, is a life of purpose... And there we were, just the two of us- I love you super Pal!! Can I have a sip? JERK!!
Nerdiebird- He's a funny old man... COOL...

$1.37...Thrash...I don't get it?!!...yesss...Donna + Eric

Erin Bosch- "Celebrate we will, 'cause life is short but sweet for certain." --Dave Matthews. Don't sweat the small stuff.

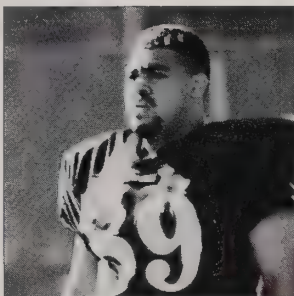

Alexandra Bothwell- "I am a real American!" "Stop, Drop, Shut'em down..." Woodson swimming dominates. "You wish you were in Band"... "You're just jealous." Remember that one time at band camp? Track, because "I love the fishes...they're delicious." Thank you Woodson for some of the greatest times of my life. I will never forget. "Hope you had the time of your life!"

Franco Bradley- AKA Dirk Diggler. What's up class of 2000!! This goes out to the snowday crew. You know what you are. A shout out to all the PRINCESSES and Millennium Party Crew. RIP Lauren Marshall, wuz up Newlun. Also thanks to All my teachers. And everyone that liked the Rain Deer. P.S. Thanks MOM.

Madeline Breen- So you say that Robin, Christy, and I are connected at the hip? My answer: we're freakin' best friends! KI and BO- There isn't anyone else I'd rather jazz it up with!...although soirees with younger men are tempting! (16?) Cheerleaders, thanks for the memories. Remember Woodson- you can never smile too much.

Ashley Briggs- "It was only time, yet what a time it was"...TO MY GIRLS... from doughnuts and nail polish...roadtrips, dixie reenactments, and destinationless drives... to 5:30 nights, fundamentals, FFL, and AB night...

to status and order, GNO@Nation, school buses and 626, late night frapuccino, and kitchen dance parties... we always seemed to have the most fun doing nothing at all.

David Bromberg- It's about time. We thought this day would never come. Smell the Indonesia. Hey pat some water on your neck. Hey guys, this is some good astroturf. Put that camera away!

Michael Bromberg- These four years will remain as a unique experience in my life...unless I am sent to prison.

William Brooks- I like cheese. I love cheesecake. "No, I'm wearin' 'em!" nun-saint christina marie. "I'm gonna snap you in half and make your arms fall off in a few minutes."

--Ashleigh Faith Hill. Wild

mook. "There comes a time in every man's life when decisions have to be made. Either to toil, to labor, or just plain thurb your days away." I'd like to thank gee cool Ashleigh and Mary the Beautimous for writing my senior quote. The end.

Jennifer Brundage- "And it's good that there's rain. It clears the streets of their silent armies, so we can dance" --Jim Carrol Jennifer Buckley- "We do not remember days we remember moments" --Anonymous. To everyone who has made these past four years full of memories -CV, KR, BJ, CM, CK, SS, JN and GG- Thanks, I love you all.

Tiffany Burke- I'd rather see the world from another angle.

Jennifer Burns- You only live once!

Cadima, Juber- I am happy to be in America!

Meghan Callahan- "Time goes by so fast and people come in and out of your life. Never miss the chance to tell those people how much they mean to you" --Cheers.

So now after these past four years at Woodson I would like to take the opportunity to thank all the people who have come into my life, with you I have created the memories that I will forever cherish. To all of my friends, thanks for all of the good times and for always being there.

Matthew Campbell- Well guys, it's been a short couple of years for me, but thanks to you I'll never forget 'em. For Banks and Landers- "Tweakage." For Recon missions- Fire in the Hole. For God, my parents, NASCAR, and firefighting, and to the HC and DOW.

"That's a negative, ghost rider..." GO NAVY 19-9! And to my first true love, a certain '91 Honda Accord...RIP.

Curt Cappel- "If there's grass on the infield, play ball!"

Daniel Carney- Say good bye to Travis Schadow.

Mike, Adam, Chester, Toney, keep chilling with Bob. Graduate from 12:15 and visit my apartment. Graham I will always be better at golf than you. Josh stay away from hurricanes, they will make you hate your own mom. Katie, elevator hopping? Sloppy Les Miserables? Tinfoil zoo? Water tower picnic? I'm for it. Kessler lets go skatn' Mayon, I'm feeling claustrophobic.

Jacqueline Casumbal- "I got 16 seconds and I don't wanna stop. I got no time for the present living on a spinning top. I got Satan on the T.V., I got God in a frame. I say hello for a second then you don't see me again. I'm happy, I'm sad, I can be most anything. I'm the future on a spring." --Basement Jaxx

Harry Chadbourne- Ignorance is the mass reality. Reality the elite's ignorance...Figure that one out and you get yourself a cookie.

Bryan Chase- I'm Mr. Burns! Blah Blah Blah. I get stupid, like the mongloid corky...And this is my associate Chubby, Wubby, Shting-Stern.

Braden Cheney- CCU, Here I come. A double NH goes out to all the bagel crew. The Clan forever. No one can stop the original GBA crew. Where the hot girls at? The BLACK WIDOW IS OUT.

Whitney Chesbro- Yeah soccer...bring it! What now basketball...privates? Watch out for that cliff! Lotte anyone? MNIJILIACB. Pickle-in-a-pouch A. barnes? Semran... LBC. Poof mobile. Take the toothpick out. Of course I'm fluent in German. GAMF-bambi-SOC. Little Meghan (pat pat) SMILE DAVID! Anyways...but GO ARMY! I hate flour! That's it, you are done for the day.

Douglas Choe- Hey what up, I'll miss my homie and all that homies right here. Woodson High School is hard but fun to learn. Anyway, it was nice to see a lot of imported cars rolling right here in Woodson.

Hey, yo take care, stay out of trouble and stay cool.

Stacey Chong- "Come to Me, all who are weary and heavy-laden, and I will give you rest." --Jesus Christ

Brian Chou- "I'm going over in my head what seems like everything, and I wanna be up front and honest but I can't at all. So it's another year for me, of worthless destiny, spent holding on and waiting for a better dream -- I've let so many slip through my fingers...What's left for me here? Another lovely one tonight..."

Kelly Chroninger- "There is no beautifier of complexion, or form, or behavior, like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us." --Emerson

Chi-Cheol Chung- Hey Woodson, my advice is "Don't skip school too much!!" Anyways, I'm the sexiest guy on earth.

Jane Chung- "Friendship is a single soul dwelling in two bodies": TDAWG- It's been fun...vexed buds for life, Gump- 4 years & you haven't talked to her once, 4head & DblChin- From guys to Denny's and everything in between...it's all FUBAR! Take care all!

Yeon-Woo Chung- "It was absurd" --Franz Kafka [help stop maximalism: read I.D. / I-D / Black Book /Wallpaper* listen to French Disco. ff.rw.stop] //Le Asiatique Discobot Stefani Cifuentes- A smile is a curve that can set things straight.

Raymond Clark- This year is one of my best times at high school! Hola to my friends, I want to wish you the best of luck in your future. Laura, I will always treasure our memories that we had together, since we were in 6th grade. Priya, I will always treasure your sense of humor. Busha, I will get to know you better if we go to the same college. Megan, keep up your good behavior and maturity. Have a very positive life!

Eleanor Cochran- I don't talk fast, you guys just listen slow. NOBODY is fat, the potato is a potato and Kerri will be having our kids for us, you did WHAT in my basement? DefNAF...hey anyone seen my keys?

Emily Coolidge- To my oldest and best friends in the world- thanks for the rides, the discounts, and the laughs! Bike Boy: Lambi Bamb! "You know who I can't stand..." Thanks for putting up with me for 13 years without fail! The Whit- my other half senior year: Veeko!! TP? Not us...Let's do something new and exciting...a movie it is! Murv: You're my hero! C-O-V-E-Y as in the noun; we finally got moved. Keep in touch over the years. Let's blow this joint!

Robert Cordier- A TRIBUTE TO: all the real players, maintaining the Cavalier virtues, pursuing a 97, chillin' at the spot, winnin' championships, bein' late, takin' strictly AP, and Saturday Night Live. "Like the fool I am and I'll always be...they can change their minds, but they can't change me." Thanks for the good years, Woodson- it's been fun.

Robert Cortez- Honka Flip will prevail, Da Cow will live, Ben Foo and Mathew Danger. "Incalid Addiction" forever. The times were great. It's finally over. "tae" "putang ina mo" "Mahlankey ang butas ang puit mo Chris" Everybody check my page out! <http://members.aol.com/XxRoBBxX> Keep it real...p.s. I'm not a "vamp!") Oh, and no more snowballs. Boop!

Richard Corwin- Word of advice to everyone: Give respect to all you meet unless they earn otherwise.

Amanda Counts-

Don't go for looks, they can deceive. Don't go for wealth, even that can fade. Go for someone who makes you smile, because it takes only one smile to make a dark day seem bright. I love you guys.

Thaddeus Cox- I'm not paranoid! You're just saying that because you're out to get me!!!

Barbara Crabbe- Woodson, its been unforgettable. The sad part is the fact that we are forced to separate. As we move forward I will remember you all. To my girlies, our memories will last a lifetime. Don't let them end here. I love you all. To my officers, thank you. Abe, you promise you're not mad?...Forever and always guys! BYE!

Keith Crage- "Chuck! They're grand ones!" "Yeah look, they bounce too!" Ali, I know what you did last awards night. A shout out to my boyz Martin, Chris, Robb- keep it real. Hey Chris, I'm gonna kick ur...IRK. Keep it real. Peace out Woodson.

Jennifer Creech- Woodson-Would you be my friend if I...? You know you love me! Hoodlums!! Dianna & Kim- I could use a slice of...pizza! Kim-How's Chris? P6 & Nailee! BRBDOL! AFBC! Jeanette- HONK Carts don't fit. There's ___! Water, Water! Rob- Wake-up! Emily- NY! Yea Toll! Good kids! It's only 4 am! Casey- Eggs? Got milk? Braddock Rd.! Tiffany- Snow Queens!

Joel- 'Tearing up my heart'...George & Tom- My cousin & foreign friend, swim? Mary- Leroy! It's been fun, but thank goodness we're done-Ha!

Jennifer Creekman- Moo! SAJDI, here I come! So long Woodson, and thanks for all the fish...

Scott Cummings- "Courage is the ladder on which all the other virtues mount." "Great works are performance not by strength but by perseverance."

Dyan Curry- To all my friends: In my life there's never been a better bunch. I'll always love and cherish the memories. To all my teachers: You're the best I've ever had. I'll always remember you and cherish the knowledge. To my family: You're the best there's ever been. I'll always love and cherish you. To all: We finally made it!

Daillide, Lina- Our plan to take over the world is complete! So, which books have you chosen for the bonfire? No, I don't want to smell your lavender! Any accidents lately? What do you mean "Bar hopping in Chicago...?" The joys of Trig...HELP! For the last time, it's not a hat! Best of luck to each. A.K.A the Flan with Perrier.

John D'Angelo- When you're riding in a time maching way far into the future, don't stick your elbow out the window, or it'll turn into a fossil. Furthermore, if you're ever shipwrecked on a tropical island and you don't know how to speak the natives' language, just say 'Poppy-oomy.' I bet it means something.

Nicole DeLauder- Two words: French Fries. I'm going to live, laugh, love just for today. I'm going to take all the trouble that tomorrow might bring and put it away. Cowboys rule. I hope you had the time of you life. Oscar may change, but Olivia will never change.

Christine Detwiler-

Just jazz it up! Hi, I'm Kl. What up Med? Hey Regi (Robo). Sus- you little grimace! Heart 2 hearts. Score! "It was a rough night for KP." Why would I mind? Go younger men! CW, BC, JB, BR, GEE, Cecili crums, etc...BK= span. Break my heart! Thanks for making it fun- I love you all!

Laura Dody- Food for thought: "If you can't stand for something you'll fall for anything." Good quote. BBC crew: Luv y'all. You're my forever friends. 1 Tim 4:12 And...wait, who else knows Chris Grant?

Adam Dogrul- "It was Adam and Eve, not Adam and Steve."

Brendan Donovan- BFC 4 life, suckas! Yo, Matt, Jon, Greg, Seth, Jeff, and Andy, you're all my best dudes and I'll never forget you. FOME! Kevin, you know I can take you down and out. Bridget, little kangaroo baby with blue eyes, I wanna spend my life with you. You made my high school years complete, and I will never forget you! I love U 4 eva! 143-Tigger aka Mr. Smoothie aka MCIRISH.

James Drennan- "Don't revel in not knowing, because even Einstein regurgitated a lot of trash."

Stephen Duff- Success is not how high and fast you reach the top, but how high and fast you bounce back when you hit the bottom. "I can feel the magic floating in the air, being with you gets me that way, I watch the sunlight dance across your face and I've never been this swept away." --Faith Hill. GO War

Eagles!

Zachary Duff- All the world's a stage, but the spotlight is on me! Long live the Taco Bell crew and the children of e48. Also, shoutouts to the FWA, the freaks, the geeks, the skaters, the slackers and the nerds. You're my special people, and you know what special means...So I says to myself, I says; Self...moo.

Patrick Duncan- JR and AB, 6:45? Somebody wants to get jacked, shout out to Mr. Wiggins, get me an A in astronomy and I got you covered.

Earyes, Lauren- Talk to the shoulder! It was supposed to be you, not me, Tanishia! Stupid Seagulls...The French pirate bird, jet-ski, racing in Canan, your mother calling me at 3:00 AM. The senior superlative I should have won: 'Cutest Couple': Lauren Earyes and Alex Ochoa, Chinese buffeters. Al final, besos a toda mi gente.

Sara Ehrlich- In order to survive 4 years at Woodson, you must do the following: take a sprinkle a day, always carry brown paper bags, avoid orange VDOT trucks on I-95, travel to Mars with Elvis during World Civ, include marshmallow + jell-o in everything, don't alienate Bob! Love you guys- Jess, Nicki, Becca, Dan, Melissa, Jon, and all those I missed. And never get sick in high school!

Judith Eisen- It's hard to always look on the bright side of life when it seems like it's not going your way. Try to keep a smile on your face and always remember that "life's a mixture of pleasure and pain, teardrops and rain. We can't have all bright days, but it certainly is true...there was never a cloud the sun couldn't eventually shine through."

Ahmed El-sabbahy- Only two of my personalities are schizophrenic, but on of them is paranoid and the other one is out to get him.

Susanna Emerson- "In spite of everything, I still believe people are truly good at heart." --Anne Frank. Hey Cheerleaders! Who caught us when we fell? We've all gotta fly now, and we'll never touch the ground again. To the Homecoming Crew/soccer boys- thanx for the fun times! Women's Ensemble girls- yeah Notre Dame, bus and plane trips (hehe), DOB, and concerts! Class of 2000- Yeah football!...Never forget the good times we've had together!

John Enoch- Who's Skip? L.R., It wouldn't be the same without you. A.G., Never let go. M.B., pierced right here. P.N., Three bucks a pop, why did you put it in the dryer? P.M., Don't touch it if it purrs. D.L., Ice Arena baby! B.S., Thanx for the hazy weekends. Stay stoked T.S., D.W., E.P., J.D. Later.

Benjamin Evans- I'll tell it the way I see it, so sorry if you don't like the way things look...To all the boyz good luck!

Christopher Evans- To the tribe, GAME OVER!!

Andrea Fitzgerald- NH Bagel Crew. Hey RB, will you buy me that? PLEASE? Break adventures and Bobbie's. GARCHTA, like my hobo gloves? Watch out for that ice. AA EXCELLENCE, Killa Beez, JG you know you got fruit on your car, son? Marley

Douglas Flood- Life is a journey, give thanks for good things you've found, humble people not ashamed, nor proud and always try to keep your feet on the ground and love yourself...Wow! That was amazing Mr. Flood.

Thank you, thank you very little.

Lauren Follin- I'm not paranoid, I'm, um, careful! Yeah, summer vacation! Angela: Look! We found a new way to get to Tyson's! You're the greatest friend I could have asked for- Thanks. I'll tell "George" that you said hello! It's not that I don't want to get a job, I'm just, uh, considering my options. Remember, if he's more than five years older than you...

Kelly Forte- "Shoot for the moon because even if you miss you'll land among the stars."

Mary-Kathryn Fout- Always remember that you only fail when you fail to try, and that the only person who can stand in the way of your dreams is you- so get out of your own way! Success is all in the mind, and it is the closest to flying that you will ever get.

Mary Fox- When the harvest moon sets open the magenta roof "it" may come for you. So beware, choose your destiny well. CTY! The abominable snow man lives. And remember...almost anything's better than being sold into slavery. So keep on keepin' on guys, that's all we can ever do.

Katherine Fricas- "I have had something to prove as long as I know there's something that needs improvement and you know everytime I move, I make a woman's movement." --Ani DiFranco.

Gary Friedman- Procrastination avoids boredom; one never has the feeling that there is nothing important to do.

Gabel, Karen- Sara, Joanna, Brittany, and Mollie, this quote is for you. "There's the people you've known forever. Who like... know you...in this way. That other people can't. Because they've seen you change. They've let you change" --Angela, My So-Called Life

Erica Garcia- Dooobie, doobie, doooo. . . Anyway, Fun-for-free, Justin, Andrea, Hobo gloves make the hobo. Jaq-e, hey black brings out the color of your eyes. Remi, it's been a crazy year. I'll always be there for ya. Hey Emily, I'll be next door if you need me. To everyone, I love ya.

Charles Kirkman- For those of you who would like to know, the answer to life, the universe and everything is 42. Now if we only knew the question... Tell me where is Furinkan high school? Smile, it makes people think your up to something. where in the world am I now!?! Whad'ja do that for? No one expects the spanish inquisition! Moo!

Ae Kim- To all the lovely Precisionettes, we seniors might be leaving you this year, however, we leave behind our spirits and some words of wisdom. Don't forget those facials! Maggie, especially! You have a beautiful smile. Jane, sorry to leave you to be the only asian on the team but I think of you as a "mini me" so you'll be fine. I LOVE U ALL!

Bora Kim- ttill bbang sticks together no matter what! Remember my favorite phrase "What da ddong?!" pq sistaz forever! "pq pq" juju, I'll always be your "purp" and I won't forget da mop incident! You crack me up! And everyone else, I lub you! muah KP 4eva!!!

Ji-hwan Kim- I have known Ali and Jamie since grade school and I know I can count on them for anything. They are the nicest, coolest, and strongest men I have ever met. They have replaced my pejorative impression of life with an incomprehensible feeling of renewal. Thank you.

Min Kim- I am a certified Nursing Assistant and an Emergency Medical Technician in the fire department. I believe that it's never too early to search for what you want to be in your future. Don't be afraid to search for what is out there, just go for it. You'll learn more from personal experiences.

Timothy Kim- "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge Him, and He will make your paths straight." Proverbs 3: 5-6. God is good. All the time.

Christian Klein- Life is a balance of action and consequence. Should we live life for pleasure regardless of the consequences, or should we live dull, plain lives wrapped up in safety? These are choices we make on our own. For all the people who stuck around thru thick and thin, I love you all! For all you judgmental dopes and trash talkers, I love you too, you make life more interesting. Good luck next year, and for the rest of you lives. Party on!

Ryan Klopff- Only in the untainted wilderness, soaring mountains, arid deserts, and remaining Edens is mental tranquility possible. Only among those we love can we be happy. Only by our passion and actions can we do good. Only through our experiences so our lives gain meaning and purpose.

Natalie Komajda- Holly Dogg, are you wondering why I have no nostrils? Hot Sara, wanna go to big GUY chilli's and play some bowling with the blockhead and the big IRISH? I would think not. Toni, I hate to leave you here alone, but you'll be out soon enough. As for the rest of you, it's your life, LIVE IT!

Eve Korin- You wish you were me... "The Cucum-ber," Ray Ray, The Big V, Chez Mix, it's all about booty call. The Midnight Drive-thrus, It's upstate... near the mountains. I want to be reincarnated as a huge J! Whatdyamean, whatdyamean. The baby's hungry. Billy Bob. F.D., M.H., B.B... to the grave. D.W.B.B scholarship.

L aFever, Jessica- Rebecca stay tall/strong, don't let little things get you down, Objection! Relevance? Brittany B. drive, Erin K. on your toes, lovin' the 4x400! Kelly G. Cassie G. Candace W. Megan C. Julia R. yeah 4x200! Carolyn R sisters/hurdles. Mark H. it's hot in here. Meg, what a girl wants. Kim, Dawn, sisters are forever. Chris, MY Viper. Laura, God blessed Texas.

{Mary, Ashleigh, and mook.}

Joanna LaMonda- Givin' a shout out to all my gals! Brittany: Fart Babee and Latin Cracker 4 ever! Thanx for all the laughs and cries. I'll never forget you. Karen: (aka Big butt) I'm gonna miss all of our movie nights. Noises off! Thanx for being my chauffeur until I finally got my license. Katie: I'm glad we became so close. We need to go back to Italy. Don't forget. Love to all my pals!!

Gabrielle Lamonte- After all my years at Woodson I have learned one thing... "There is a fixed amount of intelligence in the world and the population keeps growing." And in the immortal words of me, "I will go in this way and find my own way out."

Jonathon Landers- I will do today what you won't, so tomorrow I can do what you can't. I'm not loud, everyone else is just abnormally quiet.

Tweakage... cleats... I am Cornholio, Sequioa... Recon first you always have to reckon. 19-9. Don't hit walls, cry me a river. Campbell and I gonna buy a boat and make our own NAVY. HC 4 Life.

Andrew Laski- Artists can color the sky red because they know it's blue. Those of us who aren't artists must color things the way they really are or people might think we're stupid.

Darrick Lee- "My secret is a very simple one- I pray. To pray to Christ is to Love Him." --Mother Teresa. "God is Here and He is watching. The signs are everywhere. Hey YOU!!! I'm into JESUS!!!" --DC Talk. Never forget. Columbine. April 20, 1999. <http://www.friendofmine.org>

Eunice Lee- Lena Lucy-Georgetown Jay, make-up attempts, hair-cuts, fruit tarts. Chung- sleeping in class, "Mine's better looking." Free the dresses... FUBAR. E.Y.- Strangling geese, halfway around the lake. A friend is one who knows who you are, understands where you've been, accepts who you've become, and still gently invites you to grow.

Adam Levitan- Know your role and shut your mouth because you are Da-Da-Da-Deetz.

Patrick Liesveld- Lost opportunities suck.

Dominique Lipp- "I get by with a little help from my friends." --John Lennon. Shout outs go to: Mantua Crew-Mahler, Broms, PP, TT, Hutsky, Craham. My boys-Franco and Weaver, Clarence, Jack and the ice arena, Pete, TJ-porque he is a chitter, Dub, Mckweon, Tate Furlong, Red in the head, Josh, Jimmy, Q, AC. Finally my junior girls crew and my sister.

Lauren Liverman- "Resolve to take Fate by the throat and shake a living out of her." --Lousia May Alcott.

Laura Lotridge- Syrup, stop reading my mind! "Did you see what he was wearing?" Thorn-son, Spice Girls! My neighbor's car!!! Ellie, eat, then talk! OH MYLANTA, spud, we have big hair! Heather, Starbuck's coffee! Byrd, "NN!" "Remember, my sentimental friend, a heart is not judged by how much you love, but how much you are loved by others." --Tin Man

M acias, John Paul- 1.) The things that you don't do are the things you regret the most. 2.) For he who sheds his blood with me today shall be my brother. 3.) Crush your enemies, drive them before you, and hear the lamentations of the vimmen. 4.) Leaves of three let it be, leaves of four eat some more. 5.) Rugby For Life!!!!

Patrick Mahler- "So I said, 'Look Buddy, your car was flipped over when I got here. And as for your Grandma, she shouldn't have mouthed off like that.'" --Remote.

Seth Malaguerra- What a fifer! I did it too, but I didn't lie in the gutter and cry. Mike, sorry for selling out, Baskins was the best. When you get off work we'll go to the party. No party? What a bunch of fifers. The kid with the orange- it's not over. Don't be a fifer.

Allison Mall- So this is the little lady.... Hey babydoll, Tuesday night! What about October? Wait, tell me what I did again? Tiff- the ultimate GNO!

There's always time for a hit and run. Meghan- You have to protect me today- Nine to five on Saturday? Murv- Ellie's basement? Lottie- watch out for your neighbor's car!

Michelle Man-

"Character is defined by what you are willing to do when the spotlight has been turned off, and no one is around to give you credit." Thanks to all my friends, especially Jenn, Melissa, and Lina, and all my teachers, especially Mrs. Jewell, Mr. Clark, Mrs. Hughes, Mr. Root, Mr. Craig, and Mr. Brown, who all helped me define my character. "All for one and one for all."

Keith Mangan- After the luster wore off, after leaving Frost Middle School, I've been ready to get outta here since October of my freshman year. They say these four years went fast, well, not fast enough.

Megan Marinaro- The last four years have been tough but I made it!!! Hey Ray- You're a snob but you're still my best friend! Kim and Deb- You guys gotta study English before your class and stay cool next year! Jon R.- I guess you could say we're finally starting over... thanks for all the good times. You're in my heart forever! Jenn R.- Sorry for everything! Christina B.- You're my fave junior!! I know everyone will be lost without me! I'm outta here for a new life! So take a breath everybody... poof!

Graham Martin- To whom this may concern- Don't worry I'll get you back for bunny man. Pablo- Too many funny things to write about, but I'll never forget the time you walked down Dipsy Doodle. Jamie- Why does your car smell? Mahler- I can't believe I missed that Pep Rally. You're Nuts. Jack- Sorry, I couldn't find the bathroom. Mantua Crew- You're awesome!

Trevor Martin- Hey, stay out of my way, or you'll pay! How about I eat some hay, or lay by the bay, I can play with some clay, what do you say? Remember: A car is a car, many will come. A friend is a friend, but there is a limit. High school is high school, it only comes once.

Jill Marvin- I have a story for all the ladies in the house...dance party USA, AB Night, GNO's 4-EVA, nose bleed/throw up, I love you guys! LAX Girls: team dinners (Amanda), the shmu fight (no soap allowed), TWB! Hey kid: I scrambled the eggs, I love you. Stay Pure Everybody.

Stephanie Mason- It was the best of times it was the worst of times but remember two things... Anger is a thief that steals a good moment and if you have one foot in the past and one foot in the future than you are pissing on the present so stand up and have some fun!

Christopher Massey- Finally the rock has come back to Fairfax! Hey what are you doing here? It doesn't matter what you are doing here! Jabroni! Hey Andy, Good Luck! You will be alone. Be kind...Rewind! I'm out of this hole. The four years was not really worth it! It was a waste of our time! Peace out fools!

Kevin Mayer- Jesus said, "I am the bread of life"(John 6:48). Nothing can separate us from the love of God (Romans 8:38-39). Seek first the Kingdom of God and all its righteousness, and all these things will be given to you (Matthew 6:33).

Pamela Medlin- When I am alone I can close my eyes and remember getting saved from the "fire," running freely down the beach, avoiding the raunchy bed, dancing to Girl Power, and riding in the ghetto Geo. I open my eyes and realize that I am not alone. I have thousands of priceless memories to keep me company wherever I go. Thanks and RMA Woodson!

Jessica Melnicove- Crithol and Pammie A-you guys are my best friends and no matter who's sick...Ocean City Always. Anna we've had our squabbles but you know The Wad loves you. Hockey Girls- (megs especially) "What up!" Hurry! Someone grab the bench table! Double Bubble, protect your nose and watch your arm hair. To everyone else, I love you and I'll miss you!

Matthew Michaelangelo- REMEMBER: You can't triple stamp a double stamp, America is a great Italian name, and I never claimed to be a show stopper, I'm just the whole frickn' show.

Katherine Mills- "Smile, it makes people wonder what you are up to." "It's not the spoon that bends, it's your mind." How's it hangin' Wyatt? "Smile it's the second best thing you can do with your lips." "Love is friendship set to music." Prom '99 was a magical night. I love you, Mike. See How Much I Love You.

Santell Mitchell- Hey W.T. Woodson High School! I'm senior this years of the in world. Finally soon will be it's over all for senior.

Carrington Mohn- "Hold on to your memories, have lots of dreams, but most importantly enjoy today."

"Don't cry because it's over, smile because it happened." Precisionettes: I love you all! Take a deep breath before the music starts. Smile Magdalin.

Okay girls. . .girls...hey shhh. Barbara: Who are you dating now? So do you want me to come do your hair? No, you don't look fat in that. Emily: The devine Miss Em. Nothin could be finer than to be Emaliner in the mou-ourning. Hey little sis. Chrisi: Hey little sis, baby kiss, Kissitina, Kissiface, Chris, little chick. Can I borrow a shirt? Would you please get off the phone. SGA: So Doug, do you want to say the pledge? No don't let Zane read the names. Has the bell rung yet? What are we supposed to be doing?

Joshua Morin- Mahler, we told you that girl was trouble. What's with you and the crazy girls at Woodson? "Hey Bart. Remember the time when Santa's little helper ate my goldfish? And you tried to lie and told me I never had a goldfish. Why did I have the bowl Bart? Why did I have the bowl?"

Jeffrey Morris- "And the boy said my name's Jeffrey and it might be a sin, but I'll take your bet, you're gonna regret, cause I'm the best there's ever been." --Charlie Daniels

David Mouyal- "Live in decline."

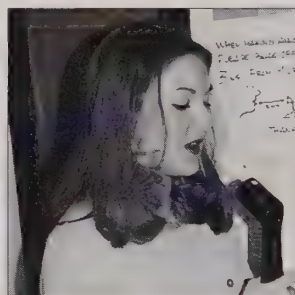

Michael Mullin- "Beware of all endeavors that require new clothes." --Henry David Thoreau Angela, you are my princess. Billy, Zak, and Spinkle; Taco Bell forever. Aloysins!! Fair Oak's Dodge Burns. Finally, everybody gets a ride in Jenny.

Kelly Murphy- As John Michael Montgomery would say, "Life's a dance you learn as you go, sometimes you lead sometimes you follow." In life we have situations we have to go through and sometimes we have to be the leader and grab hold or you may be the one to follow someone who knows. Mom and Dad thanks for the Dance you've given me.

Andrew Muth- It's not gonna happen unless you go out there and make it happen. My four years have been good- To all my buds, thanks for the great times. I'm tired. Keep runnin'!

Naccarato, Elizabeth- It's not that funny.

Lynn Nashorn- There is a thin line between being normal and being different. . . Those who pass this time hold all the trail mix, the others are just plain nuts.

Nojan Navab- Do not follow where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.

Julie Nelson- "Above all else guard your heart for it is the wellspring of life." Prov. 4:23 How we look at life is how we live life. Live life to its fullest and don't let anyone tell you that you will fail. Falling down doesn't make you a failure, but staying down does. Don't Worry, Be Happy R.P., K.S., K.G., AMY!

Peter Nelson- I wonder if John ever really got out of jail. Is it Friday yet, nevermind, hardcore Monday-Thursday A.G., circle of friends. To my boys T.S., D.W., J.E., E.P, it's been fun and good luck. Sage. What uuuup M.B., B.S. hey never shut up. L.R. I am just playing with ya. A.P. thanks for the great memories, you made my senior year. Well Woodson, I am out of here. Make sure to drink a lot of...of sprite. I know I will.

Jonathon Newton- Yeah, I could do a backflip right here in the hallway...but talk to me later. I might do one outside.

Jennifer Noland- Bunch of savages in this town.

Jill Novotny- For B.S., A.G., P.N., T.S., M.B., J.T., J.E., J.H., K.S. Heather and Jenni- night slurpees, my BF's. Evan- "You complete me" and will always be my best friend. Jen and Chloe- Summer '99 (girls night- oh God) One time, in BELGIUM- K.W, L.D. Lindy- my soulmate Thanks to my family. I love you all! "A rock pile ceases to be a rock pile the moment a single man contemplates it, bearing within him the image of a cathedral." --A. de S-E

'Lone, Kelly- "Sometimes the light gets so bright it puts your eyes out. And then its just darkness all over again. But there's more day to dawn. The sun is only a morning star." --Thoreau

Sang-Eun Oh- A quote? (snicker) That is a secret! Haha. Oh and remember that the future is not what you can see but what you can create! (Aya / weiss Kruez) God bless you all! --Xelliss the Cabbit "Naa!" (And it's NOT the Cabbit Season)

Sara Owens- I love you Rach! I love you Andi! Tosh and Holly: never forget Big Guy Chili's with cool waiters like the rock, the blockhead, and hot Geoff. Beware of mangled teeth, lung problems, nerds, white trucks and CRXes. Always remember the apartment, the Renaissance Festival, Old Towne, the Doubletree, and the luau. Dats Right.

Pachuta, Thomas- I'm fixed to tell you how it is. . .I'd like to say wut up to all my peeps in MD and beyond. So George, the things you'd do to that!

Jeanette, how about some Ruby Tuesday? Well, everyone else that I didn't mention, grow up. DPG. See ya!

Lauren Pack- "As the creeper that girdles the tree trunk, the law runneth forward and back- for the strength of the pack is the wolf and strength of the wolf is the pack." --Rudyard Kipling. My thanks and love to my friends. You know who you are. I love you. I have many wonderful memories because of you, and hopefully, there will be many more to come. I'll talk to you tomorrow.

Rufina Pak- Happiness is the key to life. I love you TK, I hope I made you proud. Reza and Helen: Thanx. To my parents: I made it! Lea and Tiffany: I love you and I'll always be there. Farewell to Woodson and all my friends, I will miss you all. FOREVER, baby! Fina 2000!

Douglas Payne- "Class of 2000 might not be the first class of the new millennium, but that's just because they wanted to save the best class for last. Remember, whatever y'all do in your lives, remember to do it to the best of your ability. Cherish your friendships, your friends are the best thing that you can have in life. Quitessence! Liver alone! What's your motive? Lata!

Heather Pence- "Live each day as its last, don't look to the future or in the past."

Pablo Perez- I'll miss u Fairfax Ghetto Boys, D.J. Lipp, McHutsky, T2, Mailman, Broms, Grizahm, and our best bud Dohjen from Holland. C'mon just let it happen girls, the mex. Express is now boarding. C.W. mornings, Jamie she won't say nothin, Ali- "does anybody else think Nicole's really fine?" Sir Rapslikepoop- busta freestyle- slow down Rodrenner, Reprent for the vatos, Pedro, Lisa u know... Later.

Leslie Perry- Pat- just leave 'em, sorry Tony- sweetie I love you. Graham never forget, Sparks, that's not a privilege, Carrie, thanks girl, A.J. the talk, thanks, Colette never mind girl, Heather- your house? P-netters my family, I'll miss you NJG- oopps, no the cookie! Bobby's? Tony's? we're not lost, Mexico, 5 years, my girl 4 life, Matt- I love you.

Ann Pirnat- What's my secret? Smile and look interested. Let people know what you think, they don't have to listen if they don't want to. Ashley and Vanessa, I love you guys. School would have been nothing without you. How do you succeed, by taking advantage of everything. Thanks Woodson!

Jeremy Priest- "King Jeremy the wicked... ruled his world." --Pearl Jam

Zachary Prilliman- Shhh everybody get out. Cindy, am I the fastest? CW, SUB, step into my ring, Pullstring Hedrick Doll, 1214, Too close to home, Jerry Wiggins, M-N-M, Streerheads, It's a Merona. Later Woodson. Bye Ellen.

Evan Prout- I'd like to take this opportunity to thank my good friend "Mad Dog" for showing me a good time and helping me through this. Jill, punkin, 1-4-3. T.J., what's up brahh. McKeown, thanks man. Pete, I'll see ya later. "What time is it?" 9:27, let's go. For the rest of you..." the silver bullet has struck again, my golden chariot."

Quoss, Gretchen- As the infamous underwear guy said, "Art is love, art is love." To my techies (you know who you are) I white everyone's goat. Thanks for making my senior year "all pistachios and big T-shirts. Bye, nice to... (you know) uhhhhhh.

Raveia, Steven- Nine! Brittany! Hey stop winking at me. Nina! I'm not the one that's FUBAR. It's funny 'cause it's true. Jungle bennues, suck like a fox! Yeah... and you're fat. "Americans traditionally love to fight. All real Americans love the sting of battle." --General George S. Patton. Goodbye WYW. Hello VMI.

Jameson Reagan- C'mon, Alright, Don't touch me, Geigh, Shhh the baby's sleeping, A-1, Illfigga, Rapslikepoo, CW morning, 5 up and down 2 juggling and a kiss at the end, the crucifix, lighter game, Get the G, 17-143.

Kelly Rector- "Life is a mixute of successes and failures. May you be encouraged by your successes and strengthened by your failures. As long as you never lose faith in God you will be victorious over any situation you face..." --Peace Pilgrim

Jonathan Reese- "I did it. I did it by myself. I turned it in on time."

Haleema Rehman- If you are humble, nothing can hurt you, neither praise nor disgrace, because you know what you are.

Jacqueline Revell- Don't mind reading this one... I got nothin'.

Kerry Rhinehart- Skip as many days as your mother will excuse.

Luis Richter- "God is Love." Live for love, love life. Try to put you heart in everything you do. Find passion, feel it, live it. Thank you for memories. As long as memories prevail, I will endure and you will be with me and live.

Jessica Rife- I didn't do it. It wasn't me! I was framed I tell you, framed. It was the one armed man in the forest.

Kara Roeder- "Ooh! Break me off a piece of that! Survey says...? Hmmm... does anyone have any food? I'm starving! I don't wanna do this anymore. And my buns, they don't feel nothin like steel. Station Domination, baby. Oh, and this one time... at band camp..."

Megan Rooney- "Well, how did we get here?" (Talking Heads). We spent high school playing soccer and singing "Girls Just Wanna Have Fun" (Cyndi Lauper), talking of coffee shop and talk show dreams. Wherever we end up, I'll look back at our "drifty, water-color memories" (Barbra Streisand) and smile, "as long as we've got each other" (Growing Pains). Love, Prunes.

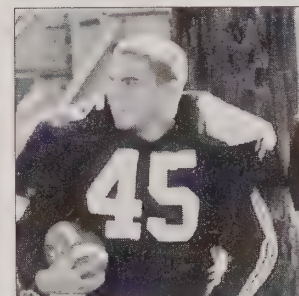

Jeffrey Roxbrough- Attention Woodson students and faculty. On January 5th I left a maroon PaperMate Flexgrip Ultra Ballpoint Pen on top of my locker. I am offering a partially used 98-99 Cavalier Calendar, a small pretzel with cheese, one Energy Zone brand bottled water, and fourteen packets of salt in exchange for the safe return of my pen.

Laura Rudder- You rock my world!!! Batman and Superman have joined the cluster. Don't mess with Texas!! I love my Friday nights.

Daniel Ruedy- "I have nothing to offer you but my own confusion." "I never let high school interfere with my education."

Salazar, Aisha- It's A-I-S-H-A, and yes, I've heard the song. Umm... can I get a ride? ...KCC pride! RCH... yeah soccer! Dancing- it's in the hips. Whit Gart, Mo, and Jack- "No matter where you go, however far away, a part of you will be with you, and a part of you, with me, will stay." --Unknown. Woodson- "Remember me with smiles and laughs, for that's how I'll remember you..." --Michael Landon

Antonio Salinas- Dub remember the tattoos. Hey Pete we got into college. New Years Franco. Hey Prout um pretty much. Tate hardcore weekdays. Dominic is a chitter. MEAGHAN. Allie remain calm. Betsy just thank you. Jill stop talking. To all the people who helped me pass class, to all the football crew, baseball crew and all my youngins, party on, peace, I'm outta here.

Elizabeth Sayer-

Thanks Woodson for a great senior year, Fairfax may not be Boston, but it's a great substitute. "Among those I like or admire, I find no common denominator, but among those I love, I can; they all make me laugh." Allie-untz, untz, untz! Jack-still straight edge? Scott-Dr. Greenthumb! Meggos-Pimpin' the mazda! My Sophomore Girls-I love everyone! To all my friends- I love you the MOST EVER! Dominic Shiovone- "Another day, another minor." Elizabeth Schimmel- "Life leads you in many directions but its your job to pick the right one... live and let live" "It is better to regret something you did than something you didn't do. ~Cheaters never win and winners never cheat. ~Don't frown, you never know who's falling in love with your smile."

Robin Schmal- Random soirees, canterbury playground meet-ups, salad shooter, younger boys, my duangrat girls. 87-OBT! Jazz is up! What are you doing tonight-PVI. Whut!? SCORE!!! Anything on the ceiling? SOMEBODY GIMME FIVE!!! Med and Ki- you guys are my best friends. I love you! (our "firsts") Aletha- Math Drawings. Susanna- all your advice- thanks. Carla- "I tried to stop..."

Heather Schutz- These past four years at Woodson have been great. P-nettes, you all are awesome! Did you know that the Blue Ridge Mountains really do look blue? Happy Place!!! Let's go to 7-11, we need more slurpees. . .Carlos or Starbucks, Mmmm. . .what ever happened to poop-on-wheels? Let's go sledding, gorgeous! Uh-oh or oh-no?!? Steve- you've shown me how great things really can be. Thanks guys, I love you!

Laura Schwartz- I like acting stupid, it's a talent of mine. . .see I'm good at something! Maybe one day I will grow, but until then short people rule. I want to be remembered for who I am and not for what people make you be. After four long years it's been great! I wish you all the best of luck. ~LLL~

Barbara Seifert- In one thought: Do not be so consumed with your own self-importance that you neglect to see that you are no better than anyone else. Perhaps we are just a jock, a trouble maker, a psycho, a nerd, a gangster, a popular, an outsider or just an average kid. But first and foremost, we are all people, with real feelings, capable of hurting and getting hurt. Be careful what you say; in the long run, you will build your own character if you are mindful of others. And remember to laugh. "The most wasted of all days is the one without laughter."--ee cummings. And live life to its fullest, so you won't have regret. See you all in 10 years.

Amreeta Sekhon- it's like your floating, like. . . hows the ground down there mannnn. . .mix master meeta tearin it up on the one and two- MC scrap of crud!! 3 muskeeteers 4 life. . .eww!

Maureen Selgas- Days grow old and years grow further and further apart, but good friends stick together now and forever. Thanks for the memoires: Hockey Pride! What up? P-U-M-P Pump it up! CPC 4 life. Real Americans- Yip eh eh! Soccer- Bring it TOUGHIE! R.C.H. it certainly has been one Nantucket Sleigh Ride!

Kathleen Semler- N.J. It's been 7 years, friends forever, C.P. and D.W.C. Ames, I miss you, "Did you just lick me?!" J.Jo. Always the rock, stay true. Whitrah, you know I love him, Semilar. 'Fina, you're my sunshine! "Dancin' in the grass. . .can you dig it?!" O-O-Olga, A-lic-ia. Let's go punkin' huntin', Toots. K-mart runs and window spies. It's been real, guys.

Allison Shaffer- you don't have to tell me. . . I know that I'm random.

Jeanette Shapiro- Many people walk in and out of your life, but only true friends will leave footprints on your heart. My friends leave footprints on my car.

Thanks for the fun, George and Tom. Yeah, I think we're gonna. . .Jenn, from NY to San Fran, fish to car problems, we've been through it all. Sahar, Jenn, George, Tom, Erin, and my two yearbook princesses, you all have left footprints on my heart and I hope we will always be there for each other through even more laughter and tears. It's been real, and I won't be forgetting this any time soon.

Scott Shumaker- "I like people who shake other people up and make them feel uncomfortable" --Jim Morrison. God help us all! Hey Joe.

William Small- Smells like Popeyes & Bear-dog.

Andrea Smith- Here comes the naked me. "I should have been voted best dancer."

Lauren-Marie Smith- Keep smiling- it makes people wonder what you've been up to. To all you guys, I'm always there for you. "It's strange the way a shadow can fall across the wall, and make the difference in what you see."--Suzanne Vega. "You have to forget about what other people say. . .you have to go on and be crazy. Craziness is like heaven." --Jimi Hendrix Jessica Smith- The Lord watch between me and thee while apart one from the other," Mizpah blessing to share between Nichi and me, I love you and your family and you were the best part of my high school life. Dramas/thezbians love you all greatly. Lots of fun, tingling, (ogres) with drinkles, To the rest of the highschoolites, cheers and good times!

Rachel Smith- "Nothing can bring you peace but yourself."--Ralph Waldo Emerson

Stefanie Smith- There's a Moon Goddess in all of us. What? Yes, he's my boyfriend! I don't bathe that often. Chris, Erin, Jessie, Laura, Sophie, Cappy, Typhennie, Michelle, Alex, John, Evan, Eddies- the Heavens shall reward you. Delicious mirrors. All roads lead to Rice Dream. Rain Love. The one. Library Universe. Mathis Wakernaggle.

Matthew Sobota- So. . .how you doing? If you don't get hurt, you're not trying hard enough. I ain't no track star! If there's grass on the infield, play ball. It's funny cause it's true. What a piece of. . .4 years and out Woodson, it's been fun. One Sobota down, another to go. Take care everyone.

Daniel Sparks- MIKE best friends mom LESLIE lost souls forever MATT B they just followed us HOPKINS I swear that I didn't say that to a cop TATE first day of school nine ok let's roll BETSY Canada ayyy CHRIS! the strangest places CAPTIN you're a nut but I love you kid TINKERBEEL AND SAVANNAH I would never forget you both.

Gillian St. Clair- It's supposed to be POOKA.

Jennifer Stanhagen- Thanks to all my friends for all you've been and done- you guys are very special. (Oh, and Katie- be good!)

Crystal Stanley- If you love someone let them go, if they come back they are yours forever. For Real. To my Kissyfur you'll always be my big Teddy. Nonny and LaLa thanks for the support with West Springfield LAX boys. I don't need anymore guys in my life! Haha Right. LaLa lets get lost or have another shot at my house. JMUDIP!!!

Keri Stedman- Can we please put the Tom Petty CD in? Yeah District Champs! No, Phil, you can't. I just won't go to Burke Lake! Just one quote, I promise- "Our greatest glory is not in never failing, but in rising each time we fall." Lots of love to all of my friends, you know who you are. Thanks for always being there and keep smiling!

James Sterling- Was 'Sup Punks? It has been a long four years! GC what's up with the nutty Frau? To fur weekends. Hey Robb, my system is better than yours. Haha J/K. Ben, Robb, Chris, Matt, you all know even though I'm smaller than you all I can Take ya out, except that once Matt. C-Ya Woodson! Help Me. . .

Jacqueline Stilwell- "It's not the size of the dog in the fight. It's the size of the fight in the dog." Swim and Dive- We are the REAL AMERICANS! The Royal Relay- Forever and Always BELIEVE! Babes with Biceps. Team Dinners. Last one, Fast one. Lacrosse- Refuse to lose. GO U.S.A.! Julianne- Have fun. I Love You.

Thomas Stevens- Louisville slugger, broken knees. "Mike Hughes. . .TZ" VMC. String Shoes. Fatigued.

Xu Su- I don't have many words to say, only a simple gift of words a special friend once gave me: live for yourself, have some fun, and most importantly, try to find happiness in each day.

Tarrants, Anne- Four years of education and nothing learned was from a textbook. Finally we're done, so this is the last goodbye to everyone who made these years unforgettable. I love you and hope you will all find true happiness. Remember- no regrets, but don't forget to look back and smile every now and then.

Jeffrey Tate- To all my kids at Woodson: Way to celebrate hardcore weekdays, senior lock in was fun, IT all the way, all my boys who kicked it in my civic, Furlongs/Pole?, Betsy's or my house afterschool, TJ for tryin to keep up Hicks at smokewood, Pat sorry about the wall, Scott all the times. Everyone else try and stay hardcore. Peace Out Woodson!

Allison Taylor- Always remember to keep smiling even if the sun ain't shining, thanks to everyone who made me feel welcome during my year at Woodson. Good luck and keep it real!

Bryan Taylor- "Ignorance is bliss."

Joseph Temlin- "As rare as true love is, it is not as rare as true friendship."

Leah Thacker- T o all my friends here, I love you and I'll miss you all. "The real connoisseurs in art are those who make people accept as beautiful something that everybody used to consider ugly, by revealing and resuscitating the beauty in it." --Edmond and Tules De Goncourt

Gregory Themak- Ok,

ets start with some back-pedaling, zig-zag drill, and maybe some form tackling. . .and for the last time, my truck doesn't suck, and no my brothers aren't home.

Abraham Thompson- "Well Woodson, it's been a laborious endeavor. BRADDOCK ROAD WARHAWKS: NATIONAL CHAMPIONS! Clarence, daaag. It gets hectic when the Terrapin trio runs things. Barbara, 44*13! Are you mad? Please don't be. Promise? K good! What? Outback again? Rachel, enjoy your high school experience, it passes quick. Aiight then, I'm out like the slow kid in pindodge. PEACE."

Tiffany Thompson- I have never been more ready in my entire life to do this right now. Katie, bust out the list. Dan's hotter. Science boys! The Bible! No Casey, I wouldn't be mad. Babo? Hoodlums! Batman would win. The Good Book. I don't remember... Oh no, evidence! It was my cousin. Fight the system! Like that, "Poof," he's gone. BWB!!!

Katherine Thronson- It has to start somewhere, it has to start sometime; what better time then now? Baby Doll! Tuesday night. Do you have the good book? VSWs. Lottie, Spice Girls forever! Girlfriend, wanna dance?

Poof-mobie. You killed my guinea pig! The cliff. Nicole, remember our boys! Pablo, shhh, the baby's sleeping. He's my ultimate downfall. The circle. A hit and run. Tiff, remember the rage. BWB!!!

Mary Virginia Thur- It's a huge disaster! To the HC and my CC girls! If you never stop running you'll never get passed. NO ONE IS FAT. God help us all Spud. I can't believe you fit next to Ellie's furnace. No adult moments please. Dance like no one's watching. Hey Seniors, "when you don't look back you know the feeling starts to fade away." --AS Chu-chun Tsai- There is no better philosophy to life than live a good life.

Vandersluis, Kelly- YES, listen to snoop. G-H:

playah (Biff) please!, "FINGER QUOTES," abbreviations and guys with "Emotional Problems," you can't do that- you just can't do that!, hey... FAILURE! 'Thar: "Uh oh," leather amplifies, evacuations, Heather has a big... Hay'll silla. Cheerleaders (Divas): Thanks for a great 4 yrs! Good luck to all of you next year!

Dawn Van Dyke- "Huh? Wait, what's going on?" Hey Texan girls- She still doesn't know!! Hehe- I am amused, humored, and ENTERTAINED. Ok. Ok. Ok... Hey, meet me at Woody's! Drive, drive, drive... Thanks Mr. Joe. I wanna be on It's Academic! "Excuse me, Miss. Miss, her seatbelt is stuck!" Let's party at my locker. Anybody want a four leaf clover?

Kimberly Van Dyke- Howdy => Do you want a blonde M&M? Did you see that new lifeguard? Quite the blue M&M. That class was as boring as a brown M&M. My Texas Cowgirls are more special than those holiday M&M's. I get my peanut M&M's at the JCC. I am sick of M&M's. Let's go to Yen Cheng's and then Woody's Chloe Vu-do- To my girls JEN, COURTNEY, CINDY, KERRY, SUZANNE, BLAIR, JILL. Thanks for all the great memories! I love you all! To ERIC. The last two years have been a dream. I love you. "Don't be dismayed at goodbyes.

A farewell is before you can meet again. And meeting again after a moment or a lifetime is certain for those who are friends." --Bach

Watson, Sarah- "There's a miracle called friendship and it dwells within the heart, you don't know where it happens, or how it got its start, but the miracle that it brings always gives a special lift." To all my friends, I love you all. Little Mouse says peace out. squeak, squeak.

Sarah Wexler- There is a reason why I listen to Charlie Parker instead of Jay-Z, why I read The Beats instead of Cliff's Notes, why I look at the work of Basquiat instead of Aaron Spelling; as Garrison Keillor once has said, who wants a 50 dollar haircut on a 50 cent head?

Christina White- To the fly girls- you know how you are. . .frappucino night anyone?. . .Annapolis! Dixie

Chicks. . .jeep drivebys, who's a stalker?. . .Jess. . . Lorenzo, and who told you you weren't a good dancer? Pammie. . .O.C. legacy forever. "Reflect that life, like every other blessing, derives its value from its use alone. Similarly, friendship derives its merit from the intangibles of delectation." --Samuel Johnson

Chi-Chiang Wong- Sup! Sup! Senior 2000 Rox all the way. Whoa! "I love school when it's over!" C.M., Beep you! E.S., CYA Next year! J.B. Yum! A.W., Yum, too! D.C., Keep playin with ur car! C.W. Yum! B.S.!? For the next time, I'll find someone to replace me before I am dead!

Yaffe, Alicia- "Asking what the purpose of life is, is irrelevant, the purpose doesn't matter because we're here anyway. However, asking what the purpose of YOUR life is changes the question. While I don't know the answer to that either, I think that the purpose is to enjoy it, and I fully intend to continue doing so. Murv- you say it best: we'll barbecue. Pack- L'chaim, B'ahava, and B'chatzlachah. Ish- Todavia, yo no comprendo el proposito de los cuentos depremidios de Matute, niquien "le escriba" el coronel. Fox/Seaweed/Barry/ Catastrophe- I'll always have a can of whipped cream and my hockey stick ready. Thanks for being the best. Love!

Zai, Colette- Shoot for the moon, if you miss then at least you have the stars. Hey Schaffer! Fivvve...times a day. A Daigle bale is yummy! Brentford, are you feeling drowsy? Cozy Cuddle Time. Yikes! Schutz...Photo Shoot? Too many memories to fit in a quote. Yes, I am Precisionnetting at the game. I love you P-Nettes! Thanks Woodson.

Catherine Zeh- "If you believe in yourself enough and know what you want, you're gonna make it happen." --Mariah Carey

We were all challenged with rough days filled with stress that seemed to never end. Each hour and each day we found a way to make it through together. After four years of experiencing life at Woodson, we learned to depend upon each other for whatever came our way.

We faced the future together every day, not knowing what to expect. We walked these halls facing what was to come each day. Through all the victories and losses, good grades and bad, new friends and old, we have faced the world and made the most of what we were given. And as we went off on our separate ways, we faced the future as it came, one day at a time.

Looking ahead into our future, we were challenged with many new, exciting, and difficult choices. As we decided what our next step would be after graduation, we remembered our high school careers, our experiences, our life friendships, and the teachers that we looked up to for guidance and help. After leaving our mark on W.T. Woodson High School, we realized that these four years served as a foundation for the rest of our lives. By the time of graduation, we took a look around the corner of our new world, ready to face the challenges ahead of us.

The designs on the shirt were made by juniors Brian Burgess and Philip Springer. "The first day the juniors got their class shirts, students wearing red flooded the halls with their spirit," said junior class president Sarah Krebs.

The junior class had a productive year, due mainly to the leadership of the junior class officers: Sarah

One of the most commonly heard phrases from Monday morning until Friday afternoon was "I can't wait 'til this weekend."

So what was it that we did to consume our days of freedom? Movie theaters, bowling alleys, and school events were many of the activities Woodson students participated in during their free time. If nothing else, the weekend was good for one universally appreciated thing: sleeping in.

"My weekends gave me a chance to sleep in, make some money, have a chance to relax, and hang out with my friends"
-Kenneth Alvo

Students gained back those much needed hours lost to late-night study sessions and chats on the phone with friends. "I love to just be able to chill out on the weekends and forget about all that school stress," said

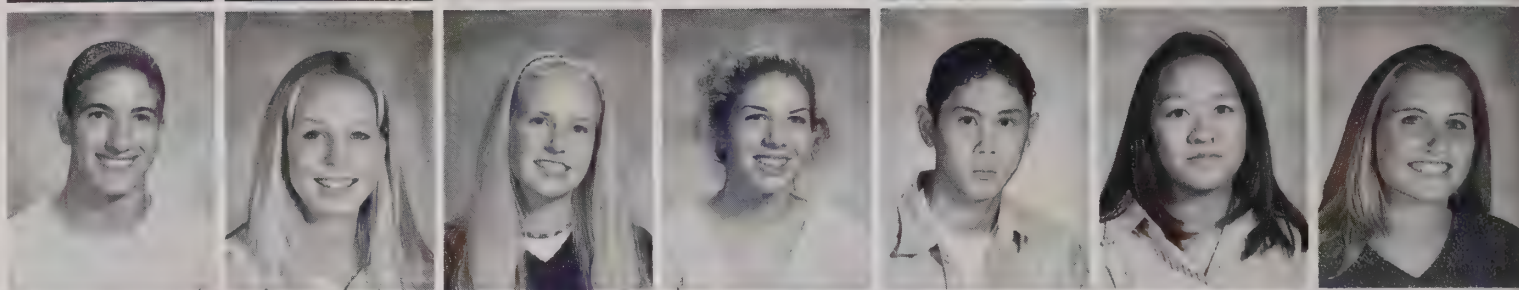

Bryant Heinzelman. Everywhere people can relate to the phrase that has lifted weight off of teen's shoulders for decades, "ah it's Friday."

- Class Officers -

This year, the sophomore representatives worked hard for the class of 2002. They sponsored several fundraisers including pumpkin pals for Halloween, candygrams for the holidays, and the class of 2002 t-shirts.

Led by president Erica Hincewicz, the class of 2002 had a successful showing of their homecoming float,

"Jaws." The float placed second overall in the float competition. The other officers were vice-president Tawfeeq Khan, secretary Andria Sakraida, treasurer Jacqueline Chevalier, and senators Stephanie Clark and John Hartman.

- Class Sponsors -

An excellent class must have excellent sponsors and the class of 2002 was no exception to this rule. Led by Mr. Jon FitzGerald and Ms. Kristin Ramey, the class was very successful in their first two years at Woodson.

"I serve as a guide for my officers. I want what we do to be their ideas, with me helping them to see these ideas through."

-Mr. Jon FitzGerald

Co-sponsor Ms. Ramey said, "After our first year, we're getting the hang of it. The class officers, Coach Fitz, and I have worked well together to make a great team."

Class sponsors were also a crucial part of fundraising. "This fall I had a company in New York produce our 2002 class t-shirts which have sold well and seem to be well-received by the students," said Mr. FitzGerald.

- Behind the Wheel -

The highlight of sophomore year for many students was earning their driver's license.

After turning sixteen, taking classroom driver's education, and behind the wheel, students were able to legally drive.

Although students had the option of taking behind the wheel through Fairfax County, some chose to take it through private services,

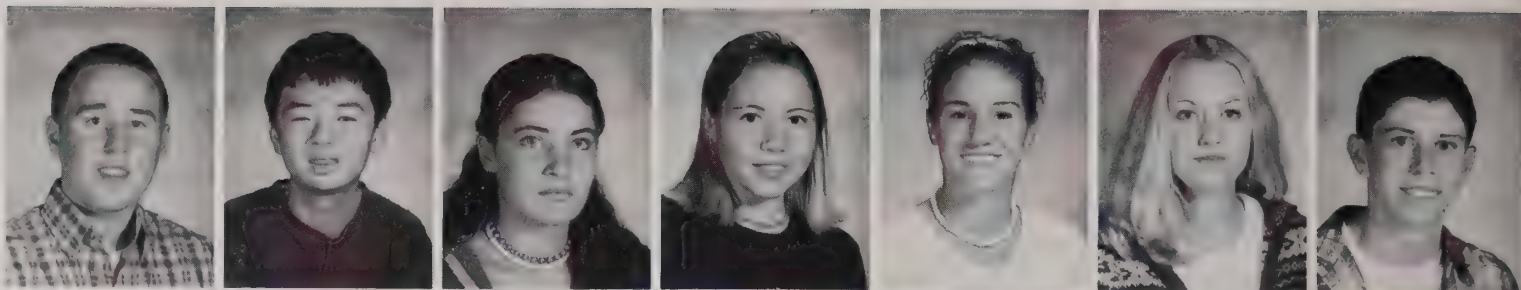

"Driving is really cool. I like getting out on the road."

Faculty and Staff

Day in and day out, students crowd the sparkling hallways, stuffy classrooms, and outside courtyards of W.T. Woodson. And along with the students, comes the staff. The people that make it all happen, the teachers, the aids, the counselors, the administration, the custodians, the cafeteria staff, and the security staff. Educating, guiding, helping, and inspiring, the faculty and staff of our school made our school what it is today.

Teachers, counselors, custodians, and staff spent their years watching the students grow and preparing them for the world outside of high school. For the 1999-2000 school year, with the new principal, Mr. Robert Elliott, and thirty nine other new teachers and staff members, Woodson looked forward to the upcoming millennium with fresh faces, familiar smiles, and a renewed school spirit. "While volunteering on the homecoming dance committee, I really got to see how hard the custodians worked on the school, especially during important events," said junior Alexander Liggitt.

procrastination to the calamity surrounding the Y2K computer virus. Frightened citizens stock-piled supplies and waited for machines across the world to break down at the stroke of midnight. Some predicted widespread rioting and anarchy. The United States Government spent millions of dollars to correct the "bug."

We now proceed into the next millennium with a boundless sense of optimism. The U.S. economy is riding on the longest period of growth ever. Unemployment is at an all time low. Scientists are on the cusp of unlocking the secrets of human DNA and genetic disorders. The future is here. How will we shape the next millennium?

Ultra Sound

By impacting all beings since its creation, and continuing through its development, stands the monumental movement and evolution of music. Beginning with oral chants, the voice was the original medium of musical expression. Emphasis on this melodic opportunity gained speed and took flight, leaving the silence of old times as far behind as humanly possible. Though music did not originate in this millennium, the growth and influence has been greater than ever conceived. From the smooth jazz tunes that seem to please our parents more than our grade-A report cards, to the freshest hip-hop beats that have kept those turn tables busy, as a comparably new edition to the music world, the unique extremities of music have matured.

Building off each other since development, the distinction between whether culture or music's influence is more dominate, has never been more difficult to determine. Like trying to solve the age-old riddle, "which came first, the chicken or the egg," these two forces don't leave a clear picture of which is the initiator and which is the impacted. It is believed by many that both music and culture provide the other with open-ended ideas, as well as the welcoming of new interpretations that develop into leading styles of agreeable sound. Influence is a great prospect of the music industry, which is primarily driven by mass technology advancements, along with the commercial dynamics of 20th century western culture.

Within the depth of genre variations, lie the musicians that have constructed the foundations for harmony, and can be attributed for the popularity gain through their unmatched talents, and ability to model the fundamentals of their style through what they perceive as vibe. Some of the most notable leaders of this millennium's music society include The Beatles, Bob Dylan, Miles Davis, Billie Holiday, Elvis Presley, Marvin Gaye, Greatful Dead, the Jackson Five, Judy Collins, Elton John, The Artist Formally Known As Prince, Madonna, Run DMC, Aretha Franklin and Frank Sinatra. Along with numerous others, these artists have fashioned what generations have known to be music. As varying as the popular style may be or had been, the initial elements of sounds are consistent throughout any time period...rhythm, and beat, as well as congenial notes and tune.

As hip or closeted as one may be, it's nearly impossible to not be exposed to music, and the many products of its influence. Music has shaped so many aspects of our past, and continues to be a primary component of our youth's guide through social and educational enlargements. The expansion of technology will only better our chances of preserving the dominate force of sound, thus proving the actuality that music's, as well as any other important feature of life, survival depends on other resources, in addition to the obvious...listeners like you. Music as expression is a wonderful example of strength as well as internal and external beauty that should be promoted for our future, and amplify throughout all aspects of being.

Never has one span of time been as prolific in discoveries nor accelerated in technological advances as the twentieth century. Despite the creation of destructive war weaponry, the evolvement of incurable biological diseases, and the rise of environmental pollution, the myriad of improvements made in humanity efforts and medical science still outnumber the global regressions made in the twentieth century.

The single most significant area of technological growth centered around the idea of communication. In this century, no invention has changed as many shapes and purposes as the phone. The fax machine, answering machine, cell phone, beeper- they were all communication devices derived from the original purpose of the phone. But most importantly, the internet, which has sprouted from a mere abstract concept of Yale students into a completely separate commerce system, was invented in this century.

Just within the last decade of the twentieth century, the internet has flourished on its own as the epitome of communication- capable of sending information across thousands of miles in one second, decipher language barriers, and provide immediate access to the rest of the world for those living in isolated mountaintops. So incredible have the benefits of the internet been and continue to be that it can even be said that the internet has led the past century into the new millennium.

What are YOU doing this Friday?

By Haleema Rehman

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times."

During the 1930's, Americans were battling with the Great Depression. However, it was during this decade that movies became popular. Walt Disney produced his first full-length animated film, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Shirley Temple, who started acting at the young age of three, charmed American audiences and made 27 films by the end of decade.

In 1936 President Roosevelt said, "It is a splendid thing that just 15 cents an American can go to a movie . . . and forget his troubles." The theater provided a place where Americans could go to fantasize and, for a few hours, get away from the reality of the depression. Words like "hell" and "damn" and brutal murder scenes were banned. Many of the most popular characters, such as Mickey Mouse, were not human. Audiences preferred the unreal. It was also during this time that Dorothy clicked her ruby slippers and followed the yellow-brick road in "The Wizard of Oz."

By the end of the decade, 80 million tickets were being sold each week. The theater had grown to become an integral part of American's social lives as it continued to expand. By the end of the twentieth century, movie-goers could choose from a variety of genres including horror, romance, mystery, action, animation, drama, and comedy.

THE 90's

Welcome to the 90's

Just as it seemed that everyone had finally gotten used to the 90's, the countdown to Y2K had begun. The 90's were a decade marked by a series of changes. In 1992, many feared that the American economy was destined for disaster, only to be followed by eight years of growth. Generation X put down their coffee cups to invest in the stock market. The United States and Japan traded places as models for economic success. No one drove an SUV in '91, but now they're the most popular class of car. Yesterday's Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles is today's Pokemon. Abercrombie and Fitch replaced grunge. The demand for boy bands faded with The New Kids on the Block and returned with the Backstreet Boys. Gas prices reached an all time low, only to be followed by an all time high. The Washington Redskins began the decade as winners, spent the middle as losers, and finished as winners. The 90's were strange. Time to get ready for the 0's.

Crimes of the Decade

By James Hill

During the 1990's, there were what seemed an abundance of trials in which the verdict could have fallen either way. This consistent controversy, along with the raging attention from the media, caused predictable uproar from the public each time.

In the case of Massachusetts versus Woodward, a nineteen-year old au pair and citizen of the United Kingdom, was charged with first degree murder for her involvement in the death of an eight-month-old infant. The child suffered from head trauma, believed to be the result of being shaken by nanny Louise Woodward. The prosecution claimed that Woodward became impatient with the crying baby and allegedly shook him, and slammed him to the ground. On February 4th, 1997, Woodward phoned the police and addressed them with the problem that baby Matthew was having difficulty breathing. When officials arrived, they soon discovered a two-and-a-half-inch fracture in the boy's skull. Medics reported that the fall in which Matthew hit the ground, was the equivalent force of a fall from a second-story window. The boy spent four days on life support before dying. The first charge brought against the nanny was that of murder in the second degree. This charge was prosecuted, convicting Woodward of second-degree murder. On June 16th, 1998, Woodward's appeal was granted, and her charge reduced to involuntary manslaughter. This created an international firestorm pitting the people of Massachusetts, who were outraged by the reduction, against Woodward's countrymen of England, who sought her return back to the United Kingdom.

In October of 1995, former NFL star OJ Simpson was acquitted of the charges against him for the 1994 murders of ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend Ron Goldman. This verdict caused chaos among the public and baffled legal experts, who assumed the trial's guilty verdict from the start. They pointed to evidence such as a bloody glove found hidden on the Simpson property, and crucial DNA samples found at the scene of the crime. Protesters of his guilt pleaded that Simpson had been framed by a racist police officer, Mark Furhman, who was testifying against Simpson. OJ Simpson was found not guilty, but was later retried in a civil suit, in which he was found to be liable for both Nicole Brown Simpson and Ron Goldman's death. Simpson was forced to pay a 33.5 million-dollar wrongful death award in which most of his prized possessions were auctioned.

In Michigan, Dr. Jack Kevorkian was sentenced to 10 to 25 years in prison for second-degree murder of terminally ill patient Thomas Youk, who suffered severely from Lou Gehrig's Disease. He was also sentenced to three-to-seven years for delivery of a controlled substance. Kevorkian was known globally for his "assisted suicides," a method in which he would inject fatal dosages of drugs into the bodies of patients suffering from a terminal illness. It seemed that much of the public was in support of Kevorkian, although prosecutors believed that he was a danger to society. Oakland County Circuit Judge Jessie Cooper, would not grant Kevorkian's request, and denied him freedom on an appeal, stating that the case was "not about the controversy over euthanasia, but rather about Kevorkian's willful disobedience of the law." Kevorkian threatened to starve himself if imprisoned.

In a more recent trial, four police officers were charged with murder of unarmed street vender Amadou Diallo. The incident began when the four officers mistook Diallo for a suspect wanted for dozens of rapes, armed robbery, and at least one murder. In an attempt to determine whether he was actually the criminal, the police ordered him to freeze. Amadou did not fully understand the officers, and began to move in a way, which the officers felt was threatening. While pulling out his wallet, the officers released forty-one shots at the man, 19 striking him directly.

In the trial, witnesses told the jury that after the first several shots, there was a pause, followed by even more shooting. This posed quite a controversy with protestors and those who took offense at the tragedy. They couldn't begin to believe the claim that it was indeed an accident. The defense pleaded that the lighting in the area was awful, that Diallo acted in a suspicious manner, and that they feared their lives as they expected the man they were looking for to be armed and dangerous. On the other hand, one wonders how Diallo was to think or act when surrounded by four police officers in plain clothes with guns. There was also controversy about whether if Diallo was down at anytime during the shooting. According to the officers, he stood throughout the 19 shots and fell when the fire ceased. Arguing this point, the defense found that shots that shattered bones in Diallo's left leg, and in addition, shots that entered into his aorta and perforated his spine, which would have most likely collapsed in paralysis. In the trial, the judge felt that past events on the job were irrelevant to the trial and would disrupt the officers right to a fair trial, seeing as only one of the four officers had ever had a civilian complaint filed against him before the shooting. The police officers stuck to their plea, referring to the poor lighting, the reputation of the man they mistook Diallo for, and the pager he pulled from his pocket that they believed to be a weapon. The four officers were not found guilty for the death of Amadou Diallo.

Superbowl XXXIV

By Nick Reddig
Copy Editor

The NFL loves a great story. As stories go, they don't get much better than St. Louis Rams quarterback Kurt Warner. After languishing in the Arena League and NFL Europe for several seasons, Warner was finally hired as a back up quarterback in St. Louis.

"Kurt Warner is Kurt Warner. It is not a fairy tale, it is real life," Rams coach Dick Vermeil said. "He is an example of what we all like to be on and off the field. He is a great example of persistence and believing in himself and a deep faith."

When starter Trent Green was injured at the beginning of the season, few gave the Rams or Warner a shot at a productive season. They (the teams) hocked the world by beating the Tennessee Titans 23-16 in Superbowl XXXIV.

The Superbowl, notorious for uneventful blowouts, proved to be one of the season's greatest games. After trailing the game 16-0, the Titans stormed back in the second half. The biggest rally in the history of the Superbowl was completed with an Al Del Greco field goal kick, which tied the game with 2:12 remaining. The Rams wasted no time in regaining the lead. Warner connected with wide receiver Isaac Bruce for a 73-yard touchdown pass to win the game.

Microsoft: Monopoly or Innovator?

By Allie Goldhammer

An exclusive possession of any large corporation that controls its competitors is classified a monopoly in the United States- a classification that is illegal in the US.

US District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson ruled Microsoft Corp. a "voracious monopolist that has hindered innovation, harmed consumers, and run roughshod over its rivals" on Nov. 6, 1999. These findings came about after Jackson's thorough investigation of the evidence, however did not result in an ultimatum for the corporation.

Many factors went along with the judge's contention for ruling Microsoft a monopoly: the distribution of their internet software, Internet Explorer, their unethical business style, and the monopolization of prices for the American consumer.

Microsoft has set up computers containing Windows with Internet Explorer already on the hard drive making it easier for the consumer to simply implement their services instead of searching out another web browser to use. Moreover, Microsoft has set up this program so that other web browser programs cannot function successfully or to the fullest potential while Internet Explorer is on the hard drive. The difficulties with running Internet Explorer simultaneously with another similar program include hindrance of the other software's full running capacity and causing computer crashes.

Aside from the difficulties alone, the mere reason for Microsoft's addition of Internet Explorer to their systems is questionable. Research has shown that this decision was made in an effort to squelch competition with the up and coming Netscape Navigator. This program offers similar benefits to the Windows-Internet Explorer combination. Out of fear for someone else to out-do them, Microsoft felt it necessary to take the action that they did. This finding alone was a huge factor that played into Jackson's ruling. Jackson felt if the corporation was willing to go to this extreme to make sure that no one can compete with their software, what else might they be willing to do in the future?

Microsoft's defense was that it was facing competition that would cause a real problem for them in the immediate future from a rival operating system called Linux, which offered many of the same advantages as their own systems. Jackson rejected the argument saying that, "While consumers might one day turn to network computers, or Linux, or a combination of Middleware and some other operating system, as an alternative to Windows, the fact remains that they are not doing so today."

Another aspect of the case that had to be carefully considered by the judge was the very way in which Microsoft does its business. Evidence has shown that they would often not endorse another company's software unless the company worked exclusively with Microsoft. This created an enormous rift between Microsoft's success and that of other, smaller corporations and companies. The rift was unnecessary and unfair, according to official research done regarding the differences in marketability of each company. Microsoft argued that it was merely good strategy, yet Jackson found fault in that very strategy and rejected the defense.

Another concern was that monopolization of prices between those of Microsoft software and other manufactures. Research from a Microsoft study in 1997 showed that the company could have charged $49 for the Windows 98 upgrade, but instead charged $89, calling it the "revenue-maximizing" price. Jackson, when reviewing these findings said that, "There is no reason to believe that the $49 price would have been unprofitable...Microsoft opted for the higher price".

Microsoft CEO, Bill Gates, said, "Microsoft is committed to resolving this case in a fair and responsible manner." It will only be a matter of time before some action is taken. Resolution of the situation could range from requiring an end to their questionable practices, to forcing Microsoft to split itself into separate companies.

The Washington Monument, authorized by Congress in 1833, did not begin construction until 1848. It was designed as a tribute to our first president and leader of the American Revolution, George Washington. In 1854, after six years of construction, members of a controversial party gained control of the project, resulting in a halted construction for almost 25 years, leaving an unfinished tower for the public eye.

Finally in 1878, the Grant administration turned the project over to the public. It was completion in 1884. The monument was dedicated to the people in 1885 by President Chester A.

Arthur and opened for use in 1888. This 555 foot, 897-step, freestanding structure closed for the third time in history on December 6, 1999. Surrounded in scaffolding, many repairs were completed. Improvements to the monument included educational exhibits and structural repairs to strengthen it.

The nation waited in great anticipation to see the new and improved obelisk, which was unveiled in the spring of 2000.

Class by Class

Five days a week, from September 7, 1999 to June 21, 2000 about 1,720 students walked through the halls of W.T. Woodson High School. Along with the freshmen and new students, Woodson also welcomed a new principal, faculty and staff as well as a new block schedule with a constant seventh period. It was the first year of the JB program, replacing AP classes. Meanwhile, students chose from a variety of the 106 courses that Woodson had to offer for the 1999-2000 school year.

MATH & SCIENCE

Oct. 1999 Receiving help from Mrs. Darlene Donelson, sophomore Shiva Farnoushfar checks the measurements on the balance during chemistry class. Students and teachers were both required to wear safety goggles during all labs in order to prevent injury.

Oct. 1999 Testing the effects of fire on common elements, sophomore Felipe Lavallo puts a Q-Tip through a flame in his chemistry class. Chemistry was a fun way for students to learn and do something "out of the ordinary" at school.

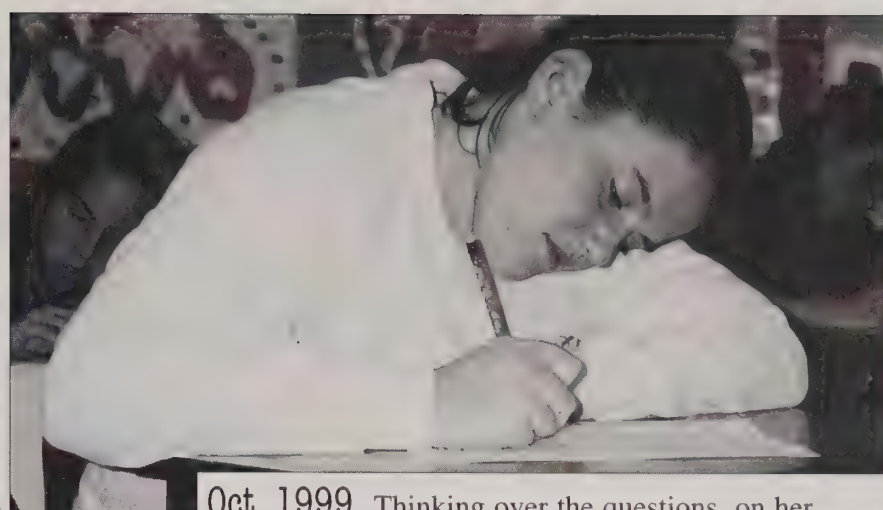

Oct. 1999 Listening intently to the teacher lecture, juniors Bradford Schargorodski and Sarah Axelson prepare for an upcoming test at a class review session. Teachers reviewed for tests the block period before so that the material was fresh in the students' minds.

Oct. 1999 Thinking over the questions on her quiz, junior Marah Wharton concentrates during her Pre Calculus class. Quizzes were a good way for students to work their way up to full understanding for the final unit test.

WTW FACTS

- * A brand new, full-time math teacher, Mr. Full came to Woodson this year to start his third year of teaching. Previously he had taught at TC Williams.
- * The highest level of math taught at Woodson is Multi-Variable Calculus and Differential Equations, which are both semester classes. They are taught by a professor at George Mason through a TV, There are only three students enrolled in that class this year.
- * There are twelve different science courses offered at Woodson.
- * Woodson's planetarium is one of seven in Fairfax County, which is the most in any one county in the entire nation.
- * The heads of the math and science departments are Mrs. Goins and Mrs. Sue Kunihiro.
- * There are six math teachers that have worked at Woodson for over 20 years.
- * The math teacher who has worked at Woodson for the longest is Mrs. Grant, who has been here for 29 years.

Oct. 1999 Returning from 'B' lunch, junior Brian McKeown prepares for class. This year, the lunch times were changed, causing 'B' lunch to split a whole block period instead of the constant period.

WTW FACTS

- * AP classes are available for both English and social studies classes. The purpose of an AP class is to prepare students for the Advanced Placement examination taken at the end of the year for college credit.
- * Each student must successfully pass an English class each year in order to graduate.
- * English classes teach literature as well as writing to follow the standard curriculum.
- * Twelfth grade English classes go on field trips to plays each year. In the fall they attended the performances of Macbeth and King Lear at the Folger's Shakespeare in D.C.
- * The social studies department hired two new teachers this year; Mr. Peter Kaney and Mr. David Hughes.
- * There are many different types of social studies classes to take at Woodson besides the required classes. Other alternatives include Psychology, Sociology and Economics.
- * The chair of the English department is Mrs. Dian Leeper.
- * The chair of the Social Studies department is Mrs. Paula Spencer.

Oct. 1999 Sharing his emotions in Psychology class, senior Justin Hunt displays the elements of the human personality in his presentation. Psychology was offered to students on both regular and AP levels this year.

Hola, Bonjour, Guten Tag!

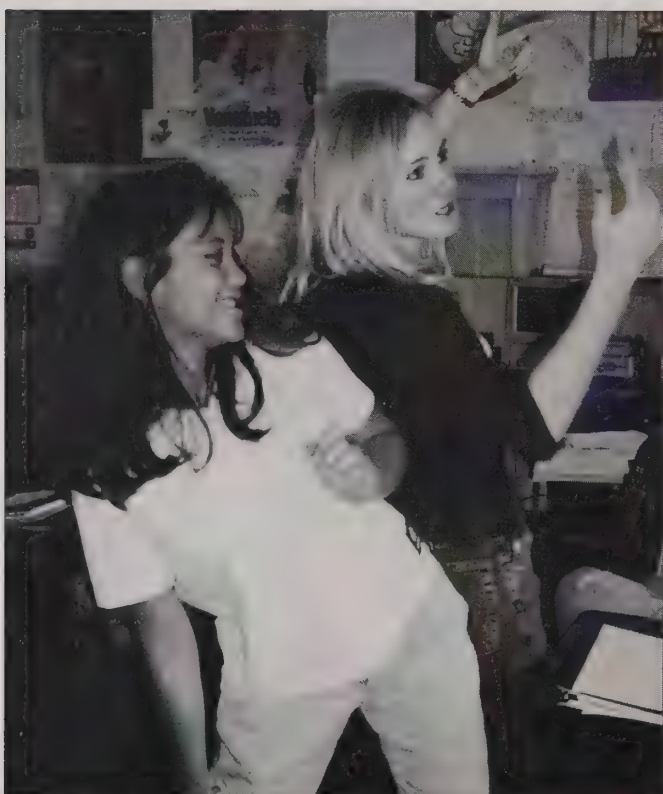

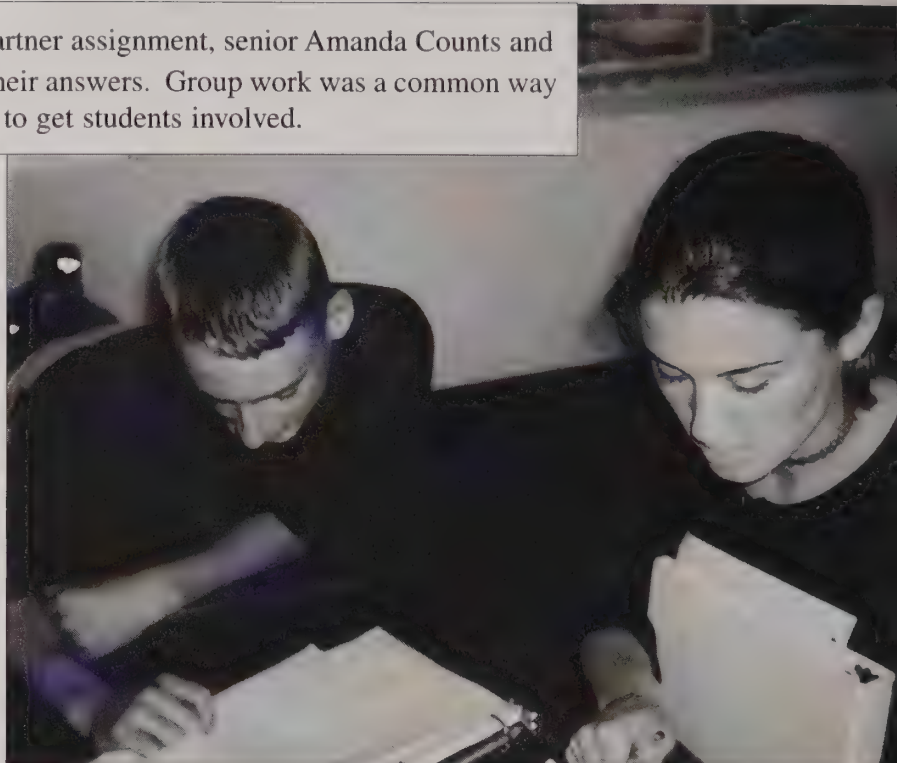

LANGUAGES

Oct. 1999 Practicing for a test, seniors Jill Marvin and Jeffrey Tate quiz each other on new vocabulary. Sign Language III was not offered in many other Fairfax County Public High Schools, so many students came to Woodson to take the class.

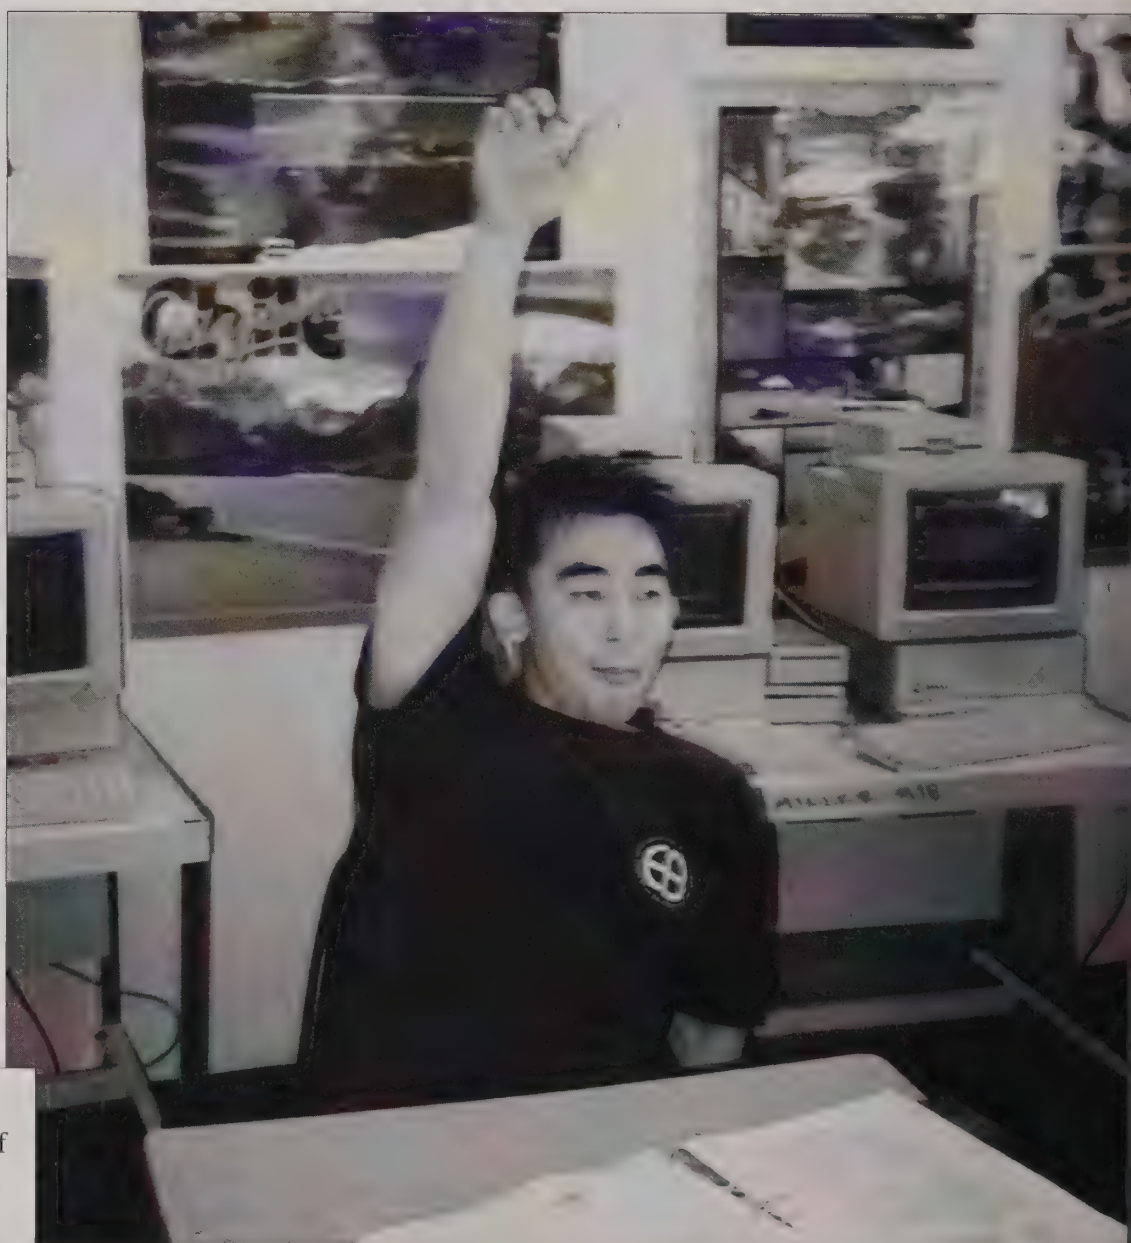

Sarah Krebs

Oct. 1999 Reviewing a partner assignment, senior Amanda Counts and junior Douglas Roper check their answers. Group work was a common way for foreign language teachers to get students involved.

Sarah Krebs

Oct. 1999 Dancing during their fifth period Spanish class, senior Cynthia Kayanan and junior Chaeli Kjonnerod move to the music. Students often learned songs or poems from cultures they were studying.

Oct. 1999 Raising his hand in Spanish class, junior Young Park answers a question. Since the integration of the IB programs in the language classes, participation makes up a larger percentage of a students grade.

Oct. 1999 Pouring soda, junior Andrew Jones prepares to celebrate "The Day of the Dead" with his Spanish III class. The "Day of the Dead" was a holiday celebrated in Spain that is very similar to Halloween.

Erin Kilhany

Erin Kilhany

Oct. 1999 Demonstrating the use of visuals during Spanish class, sophomore Jennifer Allen writes answers on the overhead. The use of an overhead projector helped students to comprehend what they learned in class.

Natasha Komajda

Oct. 1999 Filming senior Douglas Flood for a presentation in American Sign Language, senior Daniel Kline makes sure the camera is in focus. When the students had a chance to see themselves sign, they became more aware of their mistakes and their fluency improved.

WTW FACTS

- * Woodson High School taught five languages this year; French, Spanish, Latin, German, and Sign Language.
- * Señora Shelton taught both Spanish and French.
- * Students needed one credit of language to graduate with a 21 credit diploma. For a 23 credit diploma, students needed three years of one language or two years of two languages. A 22 credit diploma required no foreign language credit, while a 24 credit diploma required three credits.
- * Students who demonstrated an oral and written proficiency in select languages could waive two of the units in a foreign language that were required for the Advanced Studies diploma. The languages that were designated for this program were: Arabic, Chinese, Farsi, Japanese, Korean, Russian, Spanish, Urdu, and Vietnamese.
- * In the Fairfax County Public School system, 11,099 students were enrolled in an ESL class at their base school.
- * The Woodson foreign language department chair was Sylvia Kladakis.
- * On the Stanford 9 achievement test, 9th grade W.T. Woodson students averaged six points above all of Fairfax County.

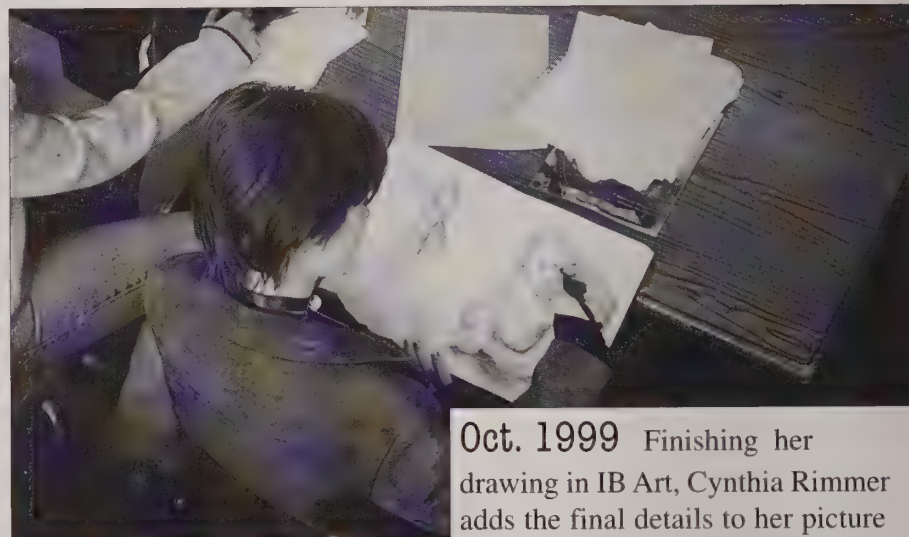

An Easy Choice

ELECTIVES

Oct. 1999 Watching an early dress rehearsal of the play The Miracle Worker, senior Jennifer Byrd, juniors William Morrison, Julia Homstad, and Andrea Yamarik prepare for the weekend performance. The play was a rendition of the Helen Keller story.

Oct. 1999 Preparing tacos while in Gourmet Foods, senior Patricia Kearney and sophomore Yobel Gaski sautee the ground beef. Tacos were part of the international unit that the Gourmet Foods students did this year.

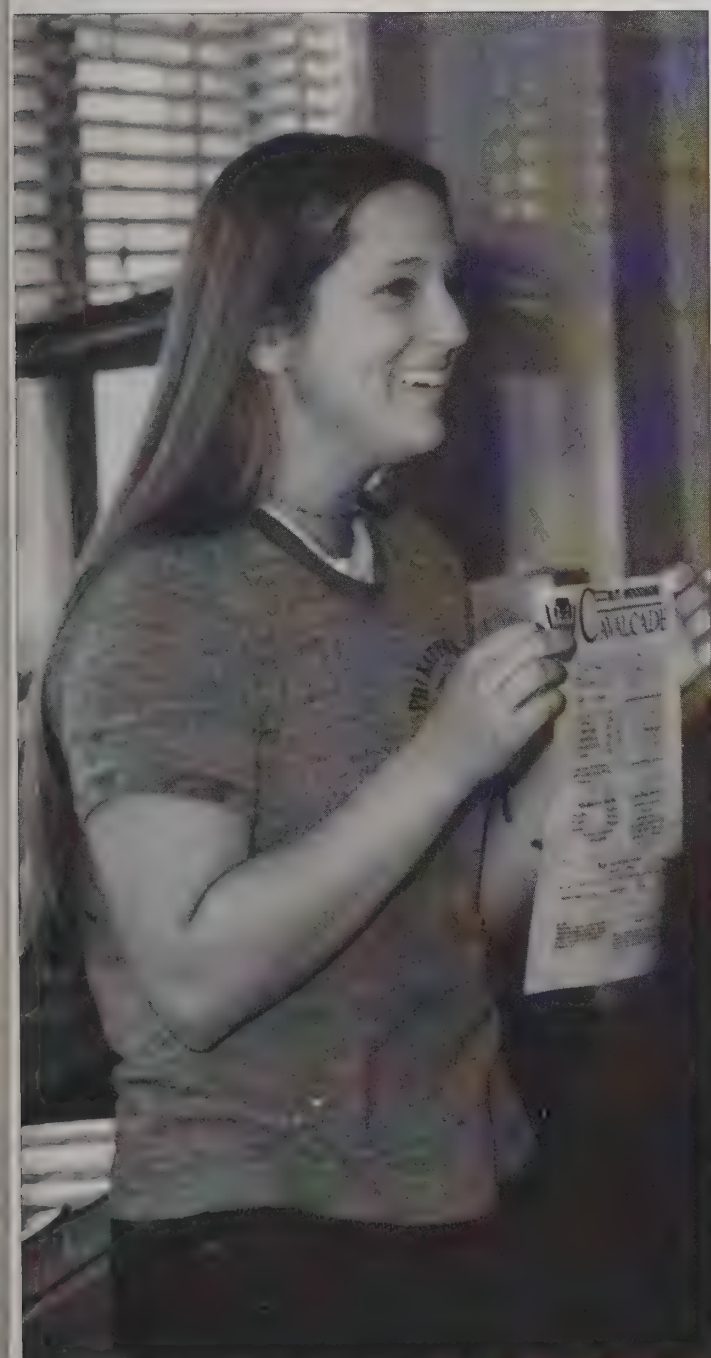

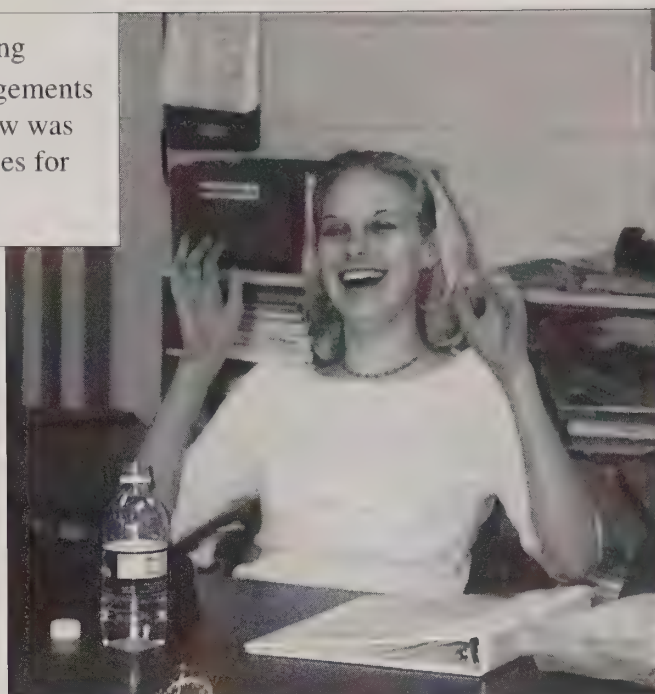

Oct. 1999 Finishing her drawing in IB Art, Cynthia Rimmer adds the final details to her picture using a ballpoint pen. IB Art replaced some of the higher level art courses at Woodson in its first year of existence.

Oct. 1999 Practicing for their debut in the upcoming state convention, the Women's Ensemble sings How Do I Love Thee. To be in Women's Ensemble, one must pre-audition in front of Mr. Erlich, the chorus director.

Oct. 1999 Critiquing a painting by senior George Jakubek, seniors Linh Le and Alaina Blevins talk about the composition of the piece in their IB Art class. Selected students displayed a collection of their artwork they have created during their years at Woodson.

Oct. 1999 Taking a break from working during lunch, senior Courtney Mayo finishes the arrangements for the upcoming fashion show. The fashion show was held during lunches to show off new fashion styles for the upcoming homecoming season.

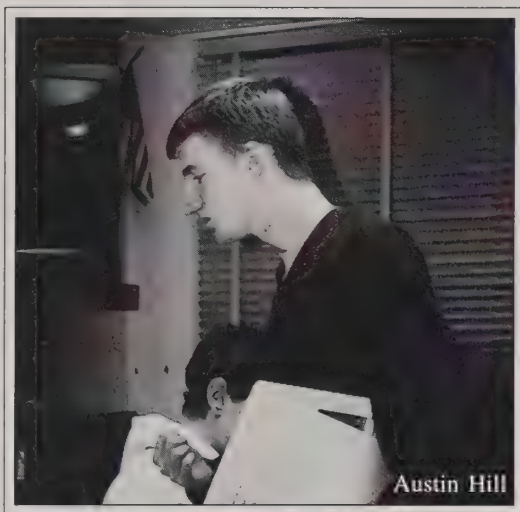

Oct. 1999 Displaying an ad form for the Cavalcade, senior Elizabeth Naccrato tells the Journalism 4 class how many ads they need to sell for this month's edition. Naccrato was the ad and business manager along with Jeffrey Tate this year's newspaper.

WTW FACTS

- * Gourmet foods is the most popular elective taken by Woodson students.
- * Astronomy is the study of the stars and universe and it is offered to juniors and seniors.
- * There are two periods of Photo Journalism, the class in which students produce the yearbook.
- * Depending on the diploma that one goes for, it is required that three to six electives be taken, including one credit of fine and practical arts.
- * Weight Training is a popular elective among athletes and those who strive to be physically fit.
- * The business department offers more electives than any other department in the school, with 11 classes.
- * Drivers Education is a class offered to all 10th grade students through their P.E. classes. Completion of this class is necessary to obtain their driver's license.
- * If students already have their driver's license, they have the option of taking weight training or being placed in a freshman or sophomore P.E. class.

When the final school bell rang at 2:05, many students could be found in the halls of Woodson participating in activities with one of it's numerous clubs. Whether making holiday cards for the sick or collecting money for the American Red Cross, students strove to give back to their community. Through Latin Certamens and Jt's Academic competitions, students displayed their Woodson pride. And whether producing the Cavalcade, Woodson This Week, or the Cavalier, students captured Where Time Went.

Step by Step

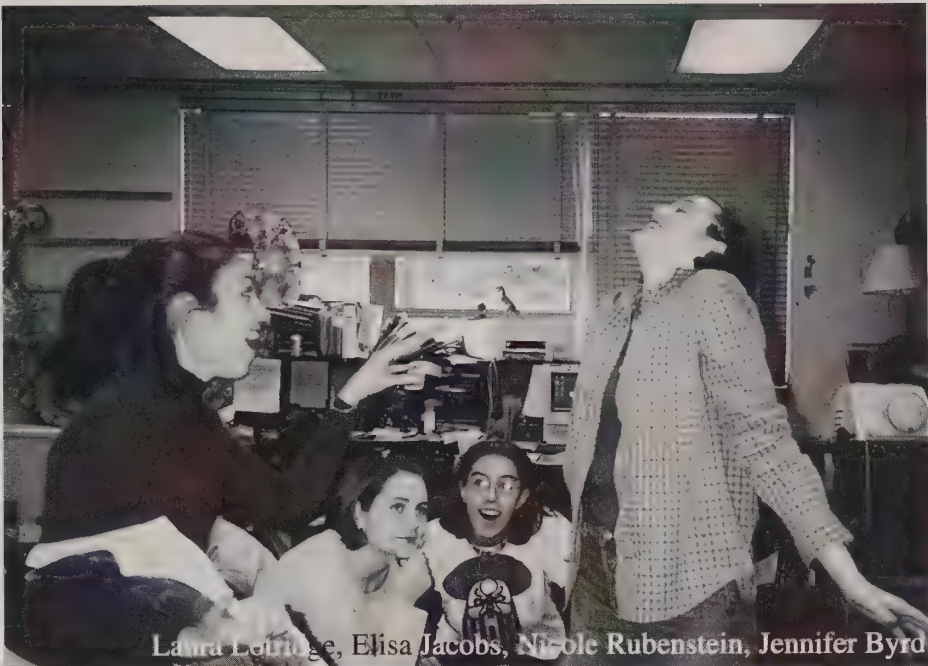

William Shakespeare once said, "The world is but a stage, and all the players merely actors." From color guard to marching band and drama to chorus, many students participated in the performing arts at Woodson. Leading the pep rallies and firing up the football fans, the band and color guard kept school spirit going. Entertaining crowds with harmonic voices and rhythmic strings, chorus and orchestra delighted audiences. Creating a new world on stage, the theater department enticed our imaginations. With all these time consuming activities, Woodson students often wondered Where Time Went.

Sept. 1999 Showing off one of the new flags, freshman Allison Hoffman steps away from the rest of the group at a weekday practice. This flag was one of the largest flags used by color guard. It was eight feet by six feet and mounted on a ten foot pole.

Sept. 1999 Spinning her new flag, sophomore Stephanie Beck smiles for the audience. The color guard received new flags two days prior to their first performance.

Oct. 1999 Warming up before the Mount Vernon competition, junior Lori Garcia goes over her routine before the show. Woodson tied with Lake Braddock for the title of Grand Champion, bringing the season to a successful conclusion.

Kelly Ensall

Sept. 1999 Exhibiting their talents, senior Mary Bickley and sophomore Rebecca Button pose during the guard feature of the show. Each section of the marching band and color guard were featured in the routine.

Sept. 1999 Reaching the climatic point in the performance, members of the color guard display elaborate showmanship. The formations that won them much acclaim in competitions were intricate and dynamic.

Sept. 1999 Warming up at an afternoon practice, junior Margaret Avent goes over her routine for the upcoming competition. Daily practices generally lasted two and a half hours.

Dec. 1999 Stretching her legs before a routine, senior Allison Barnes thinks about what she will concentrate on at this practice. Warm-ups before every practice were important to prevent pulling muscles.

Winter Guard

wtw facts

The colorguard received third place in their class, A3, at their first competition of the 1999-2000 school year. They placed second at their second competition and won their first competition in March.

The rope ladders used in the guard's routine were built by Mr. Robert Ballard and the rope flags were sewn by the "guard moms."

There were two seniors, six juniors, three sophomores, and five freshmen on the winter guard for the 1999-2000 season.

Season by Season

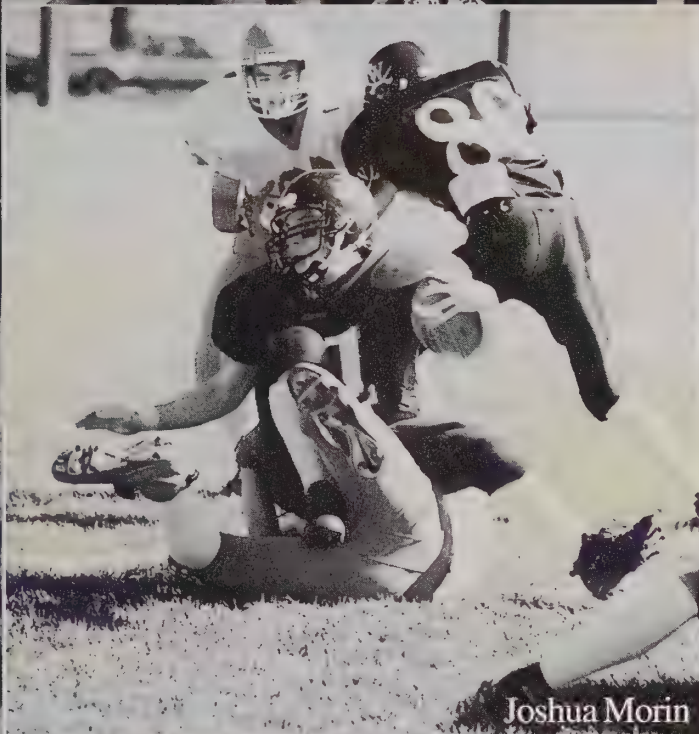

From the second week in August to the last week in May, students took the field during each of the three sport seasons, choosing one of Woodson's twenty-seven sports. From tryouts and practices, to meets and games, students displayed their Woodson pride during the first year in the Liberty District and made their dominance known. When the year came to a close and seniors took the field for the last time, Woodson looked back on the seasons asking Where Time Went.

Where Time Went

From September 7, 1999, to June 20, 2000, students, faculty, and staff entered the campus at 9525 Main Street and defined what has been called the "Woodson Way." They filled the stands in Red Jenkins gymnasium and Pat Cunningham stadium to cheer the Cavaliers onto victory. They filled the classrooms eager to learn. They filled the Joan Bedinger Auditorium for drama productions and musical concerts. They participated in traditional Woodson activities such as Homecoming and Mr. Woodson, displaying their Woodson pride. And in the end, they defined Where Time Went.

Where Time Went

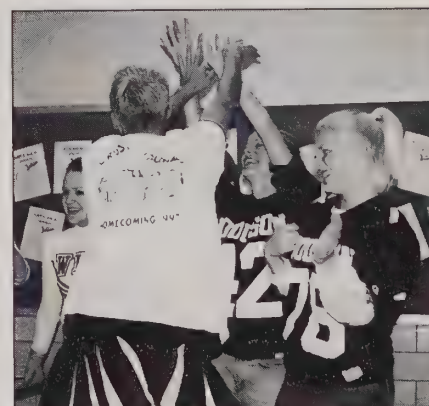

When the school year started on September 7, 1999, Woodson students, faculty and staff embraced many new changes. They welcomed a new principal, Mr. Robert Elliott, while switching to the Liberty District and adjusting to a new block schedule with a seventh period constant.

During the second week of school, Woodson had its first "snow day" due to the torrential downpours and dangerous winds of Hurricane Floyd. Returning to school the next day, Woodson held its first assembly acknowledging the accomplishments of WTW alumnus, astronaut Cady Coleman.

Throughout the fall season, students filled the stands at Pat Cunningham Stadium as they cheered the football team onto its first winning season in ten years. We watched as the girls cross county team made history, winning the first Woodson Liberty District Championship, and the varsity field hockey, volleyball and girls tennis teams advanced to the regional tournament.

In October, Homecoming was once again held on Halloween weekend, except this year float construction was held in the small gym due to the lock-down, a result of the internet threats to the school. The varsity football team provided the seniors with a lasting memory of winning the first homecoming game of their high school careers.

In November, students filled the seats of the Joan Bedinger Auditorium to watch the fall play, "The Miracle Worker," and filled the Red Jenkins Gymnasium to cheer the boy's basketball team onto its first appearance in the regional tournament in several years.

On December 31, the world rang in the new year and welcomed the new millennium with few complications. However, the winter season was soon bombarded with inclement weather as the metropolitan area was blasted with heavy snow from the Nor' Eastern of 2000, leaving snow on the ground for several weeks.

Despite the snow, students still ventured to Cafeteria B in January to watch "Dessert on Broadway." Soon after, Woodson witnessed the success of the band and orchestra programs, which earned top honors on their trips to Ithaca and Myrtle Beach, they cheered on Woodson alumnus Tommy Amaker as he led the Seton

Where Time Went

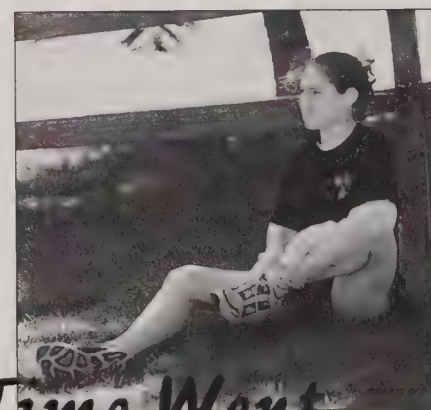

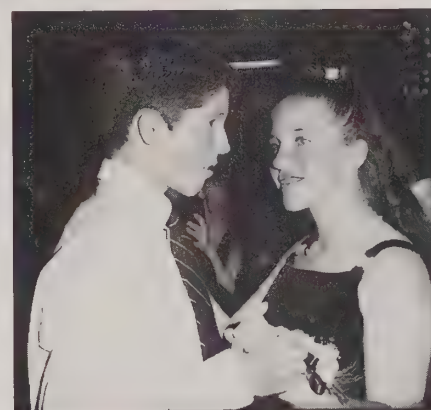

Hall basketball team to success during "March Madness."

Meanwhile, the winter color guard received first place in the April Championships, another first in Woodson's history.

And as spring returned to Fairfax, both students and teachers prepared for the end of the end of the school year, studying for AP and final exams, rehearsing for graduation, and giving their all on the field. For some it was just the end of the year, while for others it was an end of an era, as seniors received their diplomas and said their good-byes at the Cavalier Cruise.

When the summer months approached, Woodson looked back on these past months, which at times seemed to drag on. In retrospect, however, as you look back over the pages of this book, you may discover that you can recall the memories from the beginning of the year just as vividly as the ones from the end. Whether greeting your friends on the first day of school or saying goodbye on the last, the year has provided memories for us to stop and think...Where Time Went.

-where time went-

Where Time Went

As you look over the pages of this book, can you remember the beginning...

From the first editor meeting where we decided the theme,
we thought it wouldn't be as hard as it seemed.
With 7-up on the first day, distribution seemed so far away.
We started the year with ATTITUDE,

but then found out he was a pretty cool
DUDE.

With new pc computers packed, we did our first deadline on macs.

While the boxes provided forts and hiding places, we discovered that only 8 of the computers worked in certain cases.

With two periods and an abundance of staff, producing only ONE yearbook proved to be quite a task.

And that's where quilts and mobiles came into play, who knew that only a few would come back to stay.

We know that writing all the copy was quite a bore, but as you look back, don't you like it so much more?

Through all the deadlines and the stress,
we worked our hardest to make this book the best!

Where Time Went

And now that the year draws to a close, there are many people that we would like to thank...

Mrs. Head... for Brion's Grill, Tias, late nights and long Saturdays, picture changes and letting us go on our "walk-arounds."
Vicky...for being flexible with the deadlines and bringing us candy.

Our editors...for keeping up on the job, adjusting to the new style, and cooperating with all the various changes.
Our staff...we know there were a lot of you but we could not have done it without you.
Katie...for checking up on us on weekends, bringing us food and stories, and keeping us sane.

Ruth and Jimmy...for opening the room time after time with or without the green sheets.
Mr. Hughes...for all the Thursdays, we know we're a tough bunch.

To all of our teachers...for letting us out of class when we needed extra time.

To Kelly, Abbey, Christina, and Mary...good luck on next year's book and always remember to have fun no matter what.

To everyone who helped us throughout, good-bye, good luck and remember Where Time Went.

Seniors...

...All Grown Up

Marcus Hamilton

Congratulations to a special son and brother! Wow, in 18 years (and only 8 moving vans) you have seen the world, made thousands of new friends, and grown into a fine young man! We are very proud of all of your accomplishments, but proudest of your unique personality and genuine friendship! You have truly "never met a stranger" and that trait makes your future very, very bright. We wish you continued success and happiness-- now graduate and ENJOY COLLEGE!

Love,
Mom, Dad, D.J. and "Murphy"

Mary Virginia Thur

Mary Virginia-

Congratulations!
We're very proud of you.

Love,
Mike and Imogen Saunders

Ashley Elizabeth Briggs

You are intelligent.
You are talented.
You are beautiful.
And you have a generous heart.
These traits will take you as far as you want to go.
You are the light of our lives and we wish you every success and much happiness.
Love,
Mommy and Daddy

Adam Jakubek

Adam,

It has been a joy to watch you grow and become the fine young man you are today. Through all of the challenges you face, especially moving as often as we have, you have always achieved your goals and surpassed our highest expectations. We could not be more confident and pleased in your judgement, ability, and performance. You have set off on a course towards success; a success based on your own merit. Good luck and Godspeed.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Jennifer E. Buckley

Lisey,
Congratulations! Your hard work, effort, and plans you make today are the seeds you will sow in the future.
We love you,
Mom, Dad, Stephanie, and Snowball

Lauren Liverman

Congratulations Lauren!
We're proud of you!!
Love, Mom, Dad, Drew and Ryan

Megan Marinaro

As you approach graduation day, I can't help but think back to the miracle that was bestowed on me almost 18 years ago. While that might seem like a long time ago, it seems like just yesterday to me. There is a saying "Life is but a Memory." Because of you, I have much to remember and treasure- the joy of watching you taking your first step, running to my arms when you came home from school, the smile on your face at the amusement park. Life is full of challenges and it is with an inner joy that words cannot fully express that I have watched you conquer them all.

Where once stood a little girl, now stands before me a young woman with nothing but the promise of a great future before her. Take what you have learned from the past, and use it wisely to guide you into the future! No matter where life's winding roads take you, you will always be close to my heart, with the thought of you bringing a warm smile to my face. You will always be my "little girl!"

With Love, Mom and Robert

Jill Novotny

Dear Jill,

Upon graduating, a new journey begins as you grow to become the person God meant you to be. Your gorgeous smile has brightened our days and will light up the lives of those you meet in college and beyond. Remember that you live in the greatest country in the world--help keep it strong and free. It's time to take wing and FLY!!! God loves you and so do we!

Always, Mom, Dad, and Kristen

Sarah Watson

Dearest Sarah:

It's hard to believe you are 18 years old and graduating from high school. It seems like only yesterday I looked into those beautiful eyes of yours for the first time and fell in love with you, my precious child.

You have done so well at school and will do even better at college, and in all you choose in life.

There will be many paths you can take- I truly hope you choose the ones that take you to success and lifelong happiness, because that is what you deserve. Only you can decide how your life will turn out. Give it all you have to give, and more. As you set off along the next path, know that my love and support go with you. Know that I will be there for you whenever you need me, no matter what. You are a special joy in my life, and I love you dearly!

With all my love,
Mum

Jonathan Malachowski

"...It was on display in the bottom of a locked filing cabinet stuck in a disused lavatory with a sign on the door saying 'beware of the leopard'..."

Congratulations Jonathan.
We're very proud of you.
Enjoy your search for the questions!

Love Mom, Dad & Danny

Allison Mall

To that little girl in her pilgrim hat, the fourth and final Mall at W.T. Woodson:

How well we remember you at three years old:

big blue eyes,
bright and cheerful,
loving and lovable,
extremely well organized.

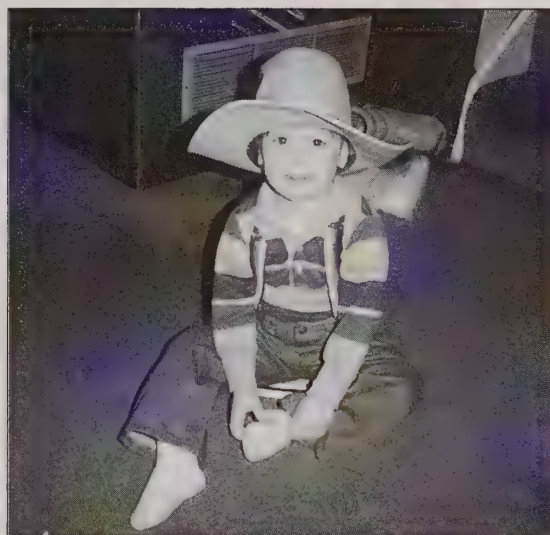

Who else lined up her shoes or straightened up just for fun?

It's no surprise to find you the same at seventeen. Stay true to yourself, Allison. Your parents are very proud of you.

With love,
from Mom and Dad

Patrick Duncan

Congratulations Patrick.
We've had fun following your sports and other activities-- and the best is yet to come. May you have a wonderful life.
Hugs and love,
Mom, Dad, Kristen, Matt, and Jenn

Katie Thronson

Katie,

We are so proud of the young woman you have become. You are sassy and smart, beautiful and our endless delight. But we will always think of you as our littlest angel.

We love you!
Mom and Dad

P.S. You are also my annoying sister but I love you. -Evan

Maureen Selgas

Maureen Selgas,

You being yourself has been and will be the world's greatest fortune.

With a big heart,
Your family

Meghan Callahan

Meghan...

We've watched you, this past year, as you and your friends have chronicled your high school lives and experiences, remembering and capturing Where Time Went...

The process for us, your family, has been very much the same - but it covers so very much more than your Woodson years. It is, at times, -- no it is always -- a bittersweet exercise...marveling, lamenting, wondering Where Time Went...

We're proud of you, Meg, you've worked hard for everything that you have achieved. You may question where the time has gone - but, you should never, ever doubt that we love you. Our love and support for you are timeless. In this respect, then, it is truly of little real consequence...Where Time Went.

Love,
ALWAYS

Mom, Dad, Bridget, Bubba and Sean

Jamie-

It was just a moment ago that I held you for the first time, watched you march proudly off to preschool, waved good-bye to you on the first day of camp, celebrated your bar mitzvah, and saw you resolutely enter high school. Now, I have the pleasure of seeing you cross the stage to receive your diploma, realizing that college is just a heartbeat away.

We have had a lifetime of experiences together, some joyous, some sad, some frightening, and some astonishing. You have enriched my life in so many ways, and given me more than a few gray hairs in the process.

To the baby that I held just a moment ago who grew to become the tall, young man before me, may your life continue to be a blessing to all whom you encounter.

Love always, Mom

Josh Hicks

Dear Josh,

As you reach this major milestone in your life, your dad and I would like to take this opportunity to express how very proud we are of you. We have watched you grow into the most interesting, young adult. Your sense of humor has kept us on our toes as well as your exciting approach to life in general. We are extremely proud of your determination and hard work throughout your school years. We are confident that this next milestone in your life will be filled with much happiness and success.

With all our love,
Mom and Dad

Doug Flood

Congratulations on all of your accomplishments! We are very proud of you!

Love,
Mom, Dad,
Bryan and Robin

Patrick Hopkins

Patrick,

Be proud of yourself as we are of you. Congratulations on all your hard work and all you have accomplished. May the strength of those who love you and the courage and integrity of those who came before you be your guide for the future. You know you are our gift and we love you.

Way to go Big Guy!

Love,
Mom, Dad and Sarah

Jacqueline Stilwell

Dear Jacqueline,
May all your tomorrows
Reward you as richly
As all your yesterdays
Have rewarded us.

Congratulations on all your accomplishments. You have much to share with others.

Love, Mom and Dad

Sarah Wexler

Dear Saire:
Graduate from college
Get a meaningful job.
Have a happy marriage.
Raise beautiful children.
Make lots of money.
Be happy.
Be famous.

Make the world a better place.
But first-- please clean up your room!

Love,
Mom, Dad and Sam

Dear Jacqueline,
You have been the best friend I could ever have. I am going to miss our 'sister chats' during the year because you have always been there for me. Your desire, will and strength to be an outstanding athlete and beautiful person, I will always remember. I have not told you, but you have taught me many things that I will carry with me. You have been my inspiration and I will look up to you forever.

I Love You Tons!

Love,
Your Little Sister - Julianne

Without your collections, my house would have been organized

Without your amusements, my evenings would have been peaceful.

Without your artistry, my décor would have been balanced.

Without your mischief, my slumber would have been restful.

Without your ebullience, my days

would have been serene.

Without your probing questions, my thoughts would have been lucid.

Without you...my cup would be empty.

My gratitude and love always,
Mom

Emily Saunders

Emily-
Congratulations!
We're very proud of you!

Love,
Dad and Mom

Thomas Stevens

Dear Thomas,
We are very proud of you
And wish you Godspeed as you embark on a new leg
Of your journey through life.

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Jenny

Amanda Counts

Dear Amanda,

We know you are anxious about starting your adult life but so were we. You have grown-up to be a truly wonderful person and you have made us very proud and happy. We know that you'll be fine at college and beyond but we do not know how our life will be once you're away. You have filled each day for eighteen years with joy as we watched you grow from a beautiful baby to a beautiful young woman. Remember how much we love you and that we will always try to lend our support to you in your life's endeavors whatever they may be.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Eric Wilmot

Dear E.R.W. (Whistle!)

Being a proud Grandparent is the second best thing to being a proud parent! You have given us many wonderful memories that you are not even aware of. We look at you and our hearts fill with pride.

We love you and we are here for you always- Grandma and Pap

Dear E. "Russell" W.
Where have the years gone? We can remember like it was yesterday how excited and proud we were to bring our first born home, and we are just as proud today! The road hasn't always been easy, but you met the challenges and grew into the fine young man you are today.
Thanks for teaching us so many things.....and never forget the many lessons you've learned along the way.

We love you-
Mom and Dad

Jenny Creekman

Jenny, over the years you have been a special blessing to your mother and me. Your wit, talent and love have helped our family weather the moves and separations of our military life. We have shared a passion for baseball and good cooking; you may be a spectator for the former, but you're definitely an all-star in the latter! In recent years we have seen you grow into a confident, capable young woman with the whole world before you. We're proud of you and all you've accomplished and become.

Randy Thur

Randy-
Congratulations!
We're very proud of you!

Love,
Mike and Imogen Saunders

Jennifer Creech

When you were born we received one of life's most precious blessing. As you were growing up we stood in awe at you and watched you as you put your heart into everything you do. From gymnastics, ice skating, swimming, music, AWANA's and work you showed your talents and determination. Most of all the patience and kindness you show to people, you have a heart of gold. Moving all around the country was a challenge but you knew just what to do. Making everyone around you feel comfortable and leading the way into a new venture. We love you Jennifer and we are very proud of you. May life's brightest joys illuminate your path, and may each day's journey keep you close to your Lord and bring you closer to your dreams. You are our light of the world.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Jeanette Shapiro

We have watched you go from an adorable, curious little girl into an adorable, curious young woman. You are a wonderful daughter and we love you very much.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Alex Bothwell

Alex,

You had a terrific four years at Woodson.

In the band, on the swim team, and most importantly, in the classroom, you always succeeded in reaching the high goals you set for yourself. Now on to Bucknell, where you are sure to continue your remarkable growth and development. Congratulations on a job well done!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Jamie, and Lindsay

Evan Johnson

Dear Evan,

It gives us great joy to look back at the precious little boy you were, but it gives us even greater joy to see the fine young man you have become. The world is very lucky to have you and we are proud to be your parents.

Wherever

life takes you, never forget you have our support and love. May the future bring as much happiness and love to your life as you have brought to ours and may God continue to bless and guide you along the way.

All our love... Mom and Dad

Clarence E. Goodson

We look at this picture and we see a little boy happy to run with the pack. Today we see a young man who, through persistence and hard work, now leads the pack. We know your next step to college will open new worlds filled with possibilities and we hope it leads to your dream situation in life. Keep your work ethic strong and know that anything of value in life requires effort.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Matt Olson

"A turn in the road is not necessarily the end of the road, unless you fail to make the turn." Here comes the first big turn in life's road for you Matt. Mom and Dad are with you- so SLOW DOWN!- TWO HANDS ON THE WHEEL; -KEEP YOUR EYES ON THE ROAD!

We love you and are so proud of all your accomplishments, Flyboy!

Love,
MDMKR

Jenny Byrd

Your godmother (Aunt Bonnie) wrote this poem for you the day you were born.

"Little Jenny, lady to be,
what a future, in store for thee!

Quiet and gentle - stately too.

God has a plan just for you.

Who can tell what's down the road?

Who knows what will be your load?

But Jenny, Jenny, never fear!

No matter what, the Lord is near.

He's there to help in times of need-- to comfort, protect, to green pastures lead.

Call upon him, Jenny fair,

I promise you, he will always be there."

Whitney Chesbro

Your nickname's been Rose

Since you were small

Not many of your friends know it

Maybe none at all

Now you're just Whit

The Class of Y2K

Too grown up- for silly nicknames

But that O.K.

You've got the world ahead

So much to do

Whatever you want to be

It's all up to you

But don't go it alone

It's hard (you'll see)

And remember, our little Rose

You'll always Be.

Love Mom and Dad

Jess Gladis

Jess-

You have brought so much beautiful music into our lives, both literally and figuratively. We know you will always jazz up your surroundings no matter where you are.

Love, Mom, Dad, and Kim

Kate Fox

Graduation from high school is finally here! We remember the first time we let you go in the deep water to swim to the edge of the pool. You were so excited. We've watched you grow and change with the myriad of experiences you've had since that swim. We are truly proud of you and all of your accomplishments, interests and dreams. May all the other swims of life be as successful and rewarding as your first. Remember-- you can do anything-- just BELIEVE!

Jonathan Newton

Baby Jon.
O so strong and almost fearless.
Climbing, somersaulting, smiling.
You were such a happy toddler,
Jon.

Our Jon.
Adventuresome and serious.
Sometimes brooding, still somersaulting, now dancing.
Keep drawing and making music, Jon.

The sky is the limit! But remember to smell the roses along the way.

We love you and god bless.

Dad, Mom and Donald

Christine Detwiler

Your sweet smile and joyful spirit have given us such happiness each day. May you continue to love life in whatever you pursue.

Love,

Mary Kathryn Fout

Our miracle baby- You have brought so much love, joy, and wonder into our lives. You have grown from a little girl enthralled by Kermit, Oscar, Bert and Ernie to an accomplished young woman excited by the new challenges that await you. Your faith in God, your inner strength, your integrity, values, courage and compassion will all be your guiding force as you begin your next step in life's journey.

Congratulations Mary Kathryn. We are so proud of you. We love you. You are truly a blessing. Papa and Megan join us in saluting you.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Alison Andren

From the sweet baby girl I prayed for to the beautiful, intelligent, compassionate, independent and well spoken young woman you have become-- it has been a wonderful journey!

I am so proud of you. May you realize all your dreams.

Love,
Mom

Singing, smiling, from crib through chorus
Unforgettable laughter, little girl giggles
Spirited, fun-loving, friendly, strong Attentive to personal goals and values
Nice, never naughty (not!)
Naturally and optimist, but Always my precious daughter.
You are capable of every challenge.
I send you with tremendous love
And pride to find your place in the world.
love Mom

Betsy Sayer

It has been a wonderful 18 years filled with many memories: Simsbury; Teddy Bears Judy Lynch's; 30 Leavitt Street in Hingham; Talbot Road; Barbie dolls; the puppet theater; Kids Cabaret; Abby, Boo, Stacy, Chucky, Maggie; Hingham lacrosse; Sunday River skiing; trips to the Bahamas; vacations on Cape Cod; bike trips to the Cape and Islands; white water rafting in West Virginia; canoe trip in the Adirondacks; phone calls to Mom the first night out; piano lessons; skating lessons with Debbie; skating competitions ("I'm not getting out of the car until I see Debbie"); first place at Providence; Florida; soccer and Coach Owens; field hockey tryouts at Woodson; parties in the garage at Clara Barton Drive.

We love you, Betsy! Congratulations!
We wish you success and happiness in all that lies ahead for you.
Mom, Dad, Katie and Charlie

Jennifer Stanhagen

Dear J,

Never miss the chance to "dance."

Love,
Mom and Dad

Barbara Crabbe

Your parents, John and Barbara, your brothers, Rob, Alan, Mike, and all the rest of your family and friends are so relieved that you have made it to the class of 2000. It has always been an adventurous yet joyful 18 year trip. We all love you so much and anticipate what the future will bring.

Courtney Mayo

Courtney,
We have watched you take shape from a jumble of parts, and find the grace and form of a fine work of art.

You are grown up and wonderful and you've come into your own.
We are so proud.
We love you, Mom and Dad

Carrington Elizabeth Mohn

What a joy have been these 18 years,
From a babe in arms to Precisionette cheers.
You're always so willing to try something new,
Recitals and roller skates, to name just a few.
Violin, softball, and playing flute, too,
Those wonderful experiences are what make you "you."
There was color guard, leadership and SGA,
The goals you set have brought you a long way,
Now it's time to look forward to adventures unknown,
With the world at your feet, just remember, you're not alone.
Thank God every day for the blessings He sends,
And remember your roots, your family, and friends.
Love from Mom, Dad and Chrisi, and Mema too,
Congratulations, Best Wishes, it's college for you!

Nicole Delauder

Dear Nicki:
We are so proud of the wonderful woman you've become. The future is yours to create and our prayers and good wishes go with you.
Love Mom, Dad, and Matt

Eric Hedden

May the road rise up to meet you.
May the wind be always at your back.
May the sun shine warm upon your face,

The rains fall soft upon your fields,
And until we meet again,
And until we meet again,
May the God that loves us all,
Hold you in the palm of his hand.

-unknown

Eric, May your creative genius and the music in your heart help make our finest dreams come true.

Love always,

Grandfather and Grandmother

Dear Eric,

I have loved you from the moment I knew of your existence. For nearly eighteen years you have filled my heart with joy as I have watched you grow into a handsome man of integrity. Your creativity was evident from toddlerhood as you formed sculptures, designs and drawings in every spare moment.

From early piano lessons to select choir performances, I have witnessed your transformation from a shy, quiet child to a young man of confidence with a song in your heart and a passion for all that is beautiful. Your personal faith in God has given you compassion for others and strength of character. I am extremely proud of you, your accomplishments and your values. As you continue your adventure in this life's journey, it is my prayer that your present character will be magnified in the years ahead.

Follow your dreams.

God bless you.

Love, Mom

Jill Marvin

Dear Jill:

From the first day of school
Right on to the very last.
Look forward to the future,
And cherish the memories of the past.

All our love,

The warmth of the love in your heart,

The brilliance of the sparkle in your eye,

And the many shades of your personality,

All show through in the rainbow of your smile.

David J. Bromberg

David,

We're so proud of you and your many accomplishments.

You've brought us joy and laughter with your quick wit and ready sense of humor.

May you find all of the happiness and success that you so rightly deserve.

With all our love,
Mom, Dad, Kristen, Sadie,
